

Ex-Bank Official Faces Embezzlement Counts

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS — William C. Heyn, Jr., a Stevensville village council member, was charged in federal court here yesterday with embezzling $7,324.95 from the Farmers and Merchants National bank of Benton Harbor.

Heyn, a former assistant vice president of the bank, was arraigned on eight counts charging him with conversion of the funds while he was employed at the bank. He stood mute to the charges, and the court entered a plea of innocent for him.

Heyn, 34, is the son of William C. Heyn, Sr., Berrien county treasurer. The junior Heyn was re-elected to a new term on the Stevensville village council in the village's March 8 election. At the time, he listed his occupation as sales manager for Travel Enterprises, Park Ridge, Ill.

Married, and the father of five children, Heyn lives at 2928 Kimmet street, Stevensville.

According to a spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office, Heyn was accused in seven of the eight counts with converting checks received by the bank for his own use.

In the eighth count, he was accused of converting and misapplying $1,650.20 of an $11,694.17 check from the United States treasurer.

Heyn was employed at the bank 11 years and was an assistant vice president when he left last year. He had been in charge of the bank's Stevensville branch for a time.

The individual counts filed against him alleged:

1. — On or about July 2, 1975, while an F&M assistant vice president, Heyn converted to his own use a $1,485.70 check from Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company.

2. — July 1, 1974, converted to his own use a $1,279.80 check from Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company.

3. — July 3, 1973, converted to his own use an $812.91 check from Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company.

4. — April 18, 1975, converted to his own use a $1,304.29 check from Community Church of God in Christ, Benton Harbor.

5. — Sept. 18, 1974, converted to his own use a $207.10 check drawn on the F&M bank by Michigan Fruit Cannery, Inc., Benton Harbor.

6. — Nov. 1, 1974, converted to his own use a $785.95 check from Michigan Fruit Cannery, Inc.

7. — Oct. 1, 1974, converted to his own use a $328.31 check from the St. Joseph law firm of Fisher, Troff & Fisher.

8. — May 7, 1973, misapplication and conversion to his own use of $1,650.20 from a check from the U.S. treasurer.

Heyn was arraigned on the charges before federal Magistrate Stephen Carr. He was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

The U.S. attorney's office said the charges were filed just prior to the court appearance.

No trial date has been set, the spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office said.

It was reported by this newspaper in August, 1975, that an employee of the bank had admitted taking money and had been dismissed although agreeing to make restitution. The FBI at the time, confirmed it was investigating an embezzlement at the bank.

Richard Willard, F&M president, when contacted yesterday, declined to comment.

Heyn, a graduate of Bridgman high school, attended Lake Michigan college and the University of Michigan. He also took short courses at the University of Wisconsin's graduate school of banking in Madison, Wis.

VA Nurses Claim Rights In Jeopardy

DETROIT (AP) — Two nurses the government has linked to breathing failures at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital cannot be called to answer for an alleged crime before they have been formally indicted, a lawyer for the nurses said Monday. The attorney claimed the nurses' constitutional rights were being violated by the government's attempt to get testimony from a former hospital patient.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard DeLois filed a motion March 1 in U.S. District Court here seeking permission to take testimony from Richard Neely, 61, of Oshtemo, Ind. In the brief, DeLois named nurses Filipina Narciso, 28, of Ypsilanti, and Leonora Perez, 31, formerly of Ann Arbor and now a Chicago resident, as key figures in the case.

He asked to have them present when Neely, reportedly a dying man, would be questioned by government agents.

But Thomas O'Brien, an attorney for the nurses, says the government's effort to seek sworn testimony from Neely is part of "an unprecedented attempt to compel individuals to answer for an infamous crime on nothing more than the claim of an assistant United States attorney that (the nurses) are considered 'suspects' in a pending FBI-grand jury investigation."

Neely was a patient at the VA hospital last summer when a wave of respiratory arrests, accompanied by nearly a dozen deaths, occurred at the facility. O'Brien's response to DeLois' motion, filed Monday in U.S. District Court here, says:

It Won't Be Nixon Freeway Any More

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The California Assembly has approved a Senate-passed measure renaming the Richard M. Nixon Freeway. The Assembly voted 41 to 12 Monday to rename the 3½-mile Los Angeles area roadway the Marina Freeway. State transportation official Stu Mitchell said the change will be made immediately on signs posted along the highway, about 40 miles north of Nixon's San Clemente home. The name-change measure is a legislative resolution and does not require the signature of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

SJ Improvement Panel Foe Of School Closings

The St. Joseph Improvement Association today announced its opposition to the proposed closing of two St. Joseph schools — Jefferson elementary and Milton junior high.

Announcement was made by John S. Stubbelfield, president of the association, who said that closing any existing schools would have a "deleterious effect" on the entire community and urged the school board to seek other solutions to financial problems.

Supt. Burton Aldrich announced last month that the board of education was considering closing the two schools because of declining enrollment in the district and reductions in operating funds.

The improvement association contents one of the major factors influencing property values in a community is its school system and that closing schools would diminish the tax base in a relatively short time.

Members of the school board will meet with Jefferson school parents tonight at 7:30 at the school to discuss the proposed closing.

The full text of the improvement association statement:

"The St. Joseph Improvement Association, at a special meeting of the board of directors called to consider the effects of the possible closing of Jefferson and Milton schools, took the following action:

"The association believes that one of the major factors influencing the property values and stability of the community is its school system.

"The closing of any of the existing schools would inevitably have a deleterious effect on all of the community and would diminish the tax base of the city in a relatively short time.

"The association urges the school board and its staff to seek other solutions to its problems that will not diminish the quality of its system or compromise the property values of the community in the interest of all of the citizens of St. Joseph."

Task Force Hits Judges For Trial Coverage Gags

NEW YORK (AP) — An independent task force of the Twentieth Century Fund says some judges have gone to unnecessary extremes to guarantee fair trials, at the expense of a free press. Attempts by trial judges to restrain reporters from covering criminal cases "constitute a growing threat to freedom of the press," the 13-member committee of lawyers, journalists and jurists declared in a report made public Monday.

"The conflict between the courts and the press has intensified in the past two or three years in ways that seriously endanger the traditional freedom of the press."

Criticizing "excessive reliance by courts on secrecy," the report said the courts too often impose so-called gag rules not only on reporters but also on lawyers and witnesses.

The task force recommended, among other things, adoption in each state of a model set of mandatory guidelines that the courts would have to follow in attempting to avoid prejudicial publicity.

These mandatory guidelines, called a "standing order," would be drawn by a committee of the highest court in each state to apply to lawyers, the public and court officials, but not to the press. Careful questioning of witnesses, limits on courtroom secrecy, postponing a trial, moving it elsewhere and sequestering the jury can safeguard the Sixth Amendment guarantee of a fair trial without infringing on a free press, the report said.

The chairman of the task force was Abraham Goldstein, former dean of Yale Law School.

One member, U.S. District Court Judge John R. Bartels, dissented, saying, "I believe that the report is too sweeping in its criticism of the courts and does not adequately recognize the necessity of protecting a defendant's right to a fair trial."

Harold Wilson Quits British Premiership

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson has told his cabinet and Queen Elizabeth II that he will resign as soon as the members of his Labor party in the House of Commons select a new leader, the prime minister's office announced today.

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said Wilson was retiring because of his age, 80 last Thursday.

"From the earliest days of his premiership Mr. Wilson has had a firm rule that ministers reach the end of their useful political life at 60," wrote a political correspondent for the agency.

The official announcement said Wilson told the cabinet of his decision this morning and then went to Buckingham Palace for an audience with the queen to tell her of his decision.

Wilson issued his retirement statement from his office at No. 10 Downing St.

"In March 1974, I decided I would remain in office for no more than two years. I have not wavered in this decision and it is irrevocable. Indeed, I had originally intended that it should take effect last September, but decided to defer it because of the paramount importance of ensuring the national acceptance and success of the counterinflation policy the government announced last July."

Britain's annual inflation rate of nearly 25 per cent over the past 12 months plus a host of other economic problems may also have been a factor in the prime minister's decision.

The pound sterling has been sliding downward for the past 10 months and on March 5 it dropped below $2 for the first time in history.

The government has been under sharp attack from the Conservative opposition led by Margaret Thatcher as well as from left-wingers in the Labor party.

Wilson is serving his second stint as prime minister and has headed the government for a total of eight years.

The announcement of Wilson's retirement hit Parliament like a bombshell. Lawmakers poured out of committee rooms into the corridors.

The prime minister had given no public hint that he was about to resign, and many members of Parliament at first refused to believe the announcement.

The front runners to succeed Wilson as party leader and prime minister appeared to be Denis Healey, 58, the chancellor of the exchequer who aroused the wrath of left-wing Laborites with his recent announcement of massive cuts in government spending to combat the country's economic problems, and Foreign Secretary James Callaghan, who will be 64 on March 27.

Leo Price, Last Of Five Brothers, Dies

Leo (Doc) Price, last of five brothers prominent in Twin City political, social and athletic circles, died Monday at 10 a.m. at Memorial hospital. He was 65 years old and lived at 2705 N.W. 5th road, St. Joseph.

Mr. Price owned a grocery-hardware store in Benton township 19 years and was St. Joseph township justice of the peace eight years. He was active in Republican politics.

He was a lifelong resident of Berrien county, a graduate of Benton Harbor high school, and was a warrant officer in the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II commanding a rescue boat in the Pacific.

Four brothers preceding him in death were Paul, Sam, Sol and Albert. Surviving Mr. Price are his widow, Mary; a daughter, Mrs. Tom (Molly) Egan, Chicago, Ill.; two sisters, Mrs. Rose Grossman, Benton Harbor and Mrs. Lou Hoffman, Panarama City, Calif.

Mr. Price was a member of Lakeshore Masonic Lodge No. 238; Saladin Shrine Temple, Grand Rapids; Berrien County Shrine club and the Scottish Rites, Valley, Grand Rapids. He was also a member of VFW post, Benton Harbor, and Elks lodge, No. 544, Benton Harbor.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Day-Florin funeral home, St. Joseph. Burial will be in Temple Beth-El Memorial Park.

Merle P. Durren Was Leader In His Field

Merle P. Durren, who died Sunday at the age of 75, leaves behind a record as one of the outstanding savings and loan executives ever to have operated in Southwestern Michigan.

Under his leadership, Peoples Savings Association of Benton Harbor became the largest financial institution of its kind based in Allegan, Berrien, Cass or Van Buren counties.

When Durren came to Peoples Savings from Dowagiac in 1938, the local firm had one office in downtown Benton Harbor. It now has seven offices in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Watervliet, Lakeshore, Fairplain and Grand Haven. Its assets are the largest of any savings and loan institution in the four-county area.

Although Durren did not become president of Peoples Savings until 1948, he was the driving force behind the firm's growth from the time he arrived in 1936 as secretary.

His success lay in accurately forecasting the future. With the nation barely coming out of the Great Depression, most savings and loan firms were ultra-conservative in making mortgage loans. Banks had virtually eliminated themselves from the home mortgage business.

Durren saw it differently. He paid the highest interest legally allowable on savings accounts at a time when most banks weren't paying anything. He got money to lend, and he lent it. The firm grew rapidly.

The huge business expansion that preceded and followed World War II bore out Durren's judgment. Competitor firms followed suit, but Peoples Savings was way out in front.

Looking back on this era, a local bank president said yesterday:

"Merle was good for this community. He made it possible for lots of people to buy or build homes at mortgage rates that later proved very reasonable. And all the while he kept his stockholders supplied with good dividends."

That's a pretty fine epitaph from one financial executive for another.

California's Jerry Brown Is A Contender To Watch

California's Governor Jerry Brown by far is the least predictable candidate to enter the presidential sweepstakes, even as a favorite son entry. For that reason his competition in the run for the Democratic nomination would do well to keep an eye on him.

Ordinarily, a 37-year-old governor in his first term with little previous political experience would receive little notice as a serious contender for the presidency. But Gov. Brown is not the ordinary administrator.

Since assuming the reins of office in Sacramento and shunning the official governor's mansion as too grandiose for his lifestyle, Brown has been astounding friend and foe alike. Although he ran a reasonably consistent liberal campaign to succeed Ronald Reagan as governor, once in office Brown instituted and maintained a penny-pinching hold on public finances which would put many devout conservatives to shame.

Brown has exhibited a disdain for political labels or party politics, preferring a sharply independent and individualistic stance. More orthodox politicians have noted with some awe the exceptionally high ratings he generally received in polls of his fellow Californians.

By the usual rules of the game Gov. Brown should rank no higher than consideration for the vice presidential nomination, and then only because he heads the nation's most populous state. But in a multi-candidate field those rules tend to bend, and the youthful California governor already has fractured a few on his own.

Strongman Of Libya Giving Egypt Fits

Egypt's difficulties with neighboring strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya are heating up again. The love-hate relationship between the two countries is one of the strangest to be found anywhere.

Allies at first when the present leaders of the two countries came to power, the temperamental Khadafy has unleashed a number of tirades against Egypt's President Sadat, including at one point actively urging Sadat's removal from office. Khadafy is a hardliner in dealing with Israel. Sadat is more moderate.

All of that notwithstanding, Egypt's intelligence forces possibly saved Khadafy's life by warning him of a coup attempt last summer. In light of more recent developments, Cairo may have second thoughts about the wisdom of its warning.

Khadafy's latest adventure was to send a band of agents to Cairo in an effort, the Egyptian government alleges, to kidnap former members of the Libyan Revolutionary Command Council now in exile there. Egyptian officials arrested 27 Libyans, adding that the agents also were after some Egyptians who had been critical of Khadafy.

In return, Khadafy has expelled thousands of Egyptian citizens working in Libya and confiscated their properties. This bizarre state of affairs has become almost a normal relationship, but a normalcy which has convinced many of the other Arab states that Khadafy is not an ally to be followed or welcomed into the inner councils.

Mamma Says Dial-A-Ride Should Pay Its Own Way

Editor,

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country. These words were never more important than in these days when the citizens of this country must decide who will represent their parties at this November elections and what they will allow their commissioners and representatives to add to their ever increasing tax burden.

Until now, the Dial-A-Ride system has been allowed to operate because it is said to be a low cost type of transportation for the senior citizens and children and the handicapped. I would like to say at this time that I am NOT against the cheap transportation of these people, but we must be realistic in face of a vote that the manager of St. Joseph township says will only be 1/2 mill (to finance Dial-A-Ride for another year) will more than likely cost 1 mill. I, for one, cannot see how a system that costs $300,000.00 can operate on what the township manager says would be 1/2 mill. If 1 mill represents $50,000 in tax revenue, if it is all collected.

Whatever happened to the Berrien County Council of Aging. Do they still get a federal grant to transport senior citizens? How about the Senior Citizens Council? I think they also get a grant to move senior citizens. I don't like to be the one to tell the bell, but we must decide if our politicians can houndlink us with sympathetic sounding phrases or look into a system that costs on the average of $1.80 per person to move from place to place. Why not make the fare $1.80 per ride and let it be self supporting.

Now is the time some taxpayers get indignant and say, well it will only cost another 20 or 30 dollars on my tax bill and I will be taking care of all the senior citizens that don't have a way to move about. That does not mean that only senior citizens are gaining from your taxes.

Let me say at this time that the United States Department of Transportation is financing a system in West Virginia whereby they subsidize the rider, not a transportation system, and the rider can use those tickets on transportation at all cost levels, from senior citizen vans, taxi cabs, local buses, and move about where they want and when they want. My point is, if a program is expensive for the taxpayer, then abandon it and get another that fits.

For all taxpayers in St. Joseph and St. Joseph Township, if you own an automobile and buy gasoline at a service station and pay additional taxes of 10 per gallon for mass transportation, then I would not like to think that I must pay additional taxes because I also own a house or other valuable property.

If all voters think Dial-A-Ride is worth $1.80 per ride, then you must vote for it. I think the system would fold in one week if it had to compete on an equal footing with the local bus system or taxi service and charge a fare that would make the system break even and not be just something else to infuriate the average citizen who calls for 1 hour to get a ride and then when a friend or relative gives him or her a ride he sees the drivers of two empty Dial-A-Ride buses sitting and talking to each other.

I for one am tired of trying to compete with a government white elephant that is operating

Three Reasons Against SALT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are three reasons I believe a viable strategic arms limitation with the Soviet Union is impossible.

— The Kremlin adamantly says no to on-site inspections.

— Leonid Brezhnev's men absolutely refuse to agree to precise definition in critical areas of defense.

— Moscow refuses to halt the export of underground revolution.

So long as the Soviet Union holds to these policies, it is ridiculous to talk of SALT or détente. And the two are inextricably related.

It is all very well to talk of checking Soviet developments through satellites and special electronic means. But this is in reality, pure and simple. Certainly, satellites will show some of what the Soviets have built or are building.

Further, our satellites and special electronic surveillance, are, of little more than academic interest in maintaining defensive equality with the Russians. The intelligence people may know what is happening in the USSR.

The Soviets content themselves with denials. Congress thus far has not been impressed by intelligence data, taking it as Pentagon or administration propaganda. So where are we?

If these loopholes and evasions were accidents they could be corrected this time around. But they're not. As noted above, the Russians refuse to agree to clear definitions. Treaties without clear definitions are so much scrap paper. The Russians can do what they will. The U.S., with a properly active press and Congress, is bound to strict interpretations. This, I submit, is a certain setup for disaster someday.

It is obvious, I believe, that no treaty, however finely phrased and technically perfected, can have meaning if there is not a semblance of honorable intent on both sides.

Now the purpose of arms limitations agreements is to lessen the chance of war, to obtain for both sides a certain degree of security and hopefully enable both to divert more assets to domestic problems. But if one side, in this case Moscow, has declared openly that it is going to make end runs by pushing third country wars aimed at military takeovers, where then is the security of SALT? A continuously unsettled world of Middle East wars, Angolas, Mozambique-Rhodesias and Vietnam-type invasions, will sooner or later lead to Soviet-U.S. confrontation. There will come a point when we will decide we can retreat no further.

I see no joy either in a SALT agreement so long as the Russians continue pushing a buildup of conventional arms much greater than required for pure defense.

Sen. Jackson's Costly Campaign

Standard commentary has overlooked the fact, but Senator Henry Jackson's campaign tactics bode ill for the Democratic Party.

Based on his victory in Massachusetts, Senator Jackson boasted that he had put together the "grand coalition" reminiscent of New Deal days. Nearly the opposite is true. Jackson has been fracturing the party on class, ethnic, and ideological lines.

Prior to Massachusetts, the Jackson campaign preserved a low profile and Jackson seldom rose above single figures in the polls. Then he realized he had to distinguish himself from the pack. He succeeded dramatically. But in order to do so, he practiced, brilliantly, what the old Nixon strategists used to call "positive polarization."

Jackson seized the majority position on highly charged issues. The extent of the liberal reversal in formerly McGovernite Massachusetts — a state with perhaps the most liberal congressional delegation in the country — can be grasped from the percentages. The major candidates of the center-to-right (Carter, Jackson, Wallace) received 43.4 per cent. There liberal-to-left counterparts (Udall, Bayh, Harris) trailed spectacularly at 30.6 per cent.

And, very important, the Jackson-Udall contest split sharply along class and ideological lines. Analysis of the figures makes it clear that for thousands of voters Jackson was the "respectable" anti-busing candidate; Jackson and Wallace together swept the business-haunted working-class neighborhoods of Boston, Springfield and elsewhere. Udall country was the hilly-white suburb and the upper middle class elite town plus the academic enclaves of Cambridge and Amherst. The fissure here seems unbridgeable.

Senator Jackson opened up another ideological fissure with his attacks on détente. This, plus his customary tough pro-Israel stance, rolled up heavy majorities among Jewish voters — but, like his attacks on busing, proved totally unacceptable in Udall country.

The Big Bertha endorsements used to rally their supporters by Jackson and Udall serve to dramatize the polarization. Udall stressed the fact that he had Archibald Cox in his corner.

But Jackson rolled out Daniel Patrick Moynihan. The attacks on Third World tyranny and hypocrisy delivered in the UN by Moynihan were music to the ears of American nationalists in general and pro-Israel voters in particular. Moynihan's "Ram-bomance" — a code word for his conspicuous nationalism — does not endear him to Udall country, where the Third World is a sort of household pet.

The premise of Jimmy Carter's campaign, which has been flourishing until Massachusetts, is that the Democratic Party can somehow come together behind a fresh and attractive personality who can manage to blur the divisive issues.

To paraphrase Yeats, the center did not hold, and anarchy was loosed upon the Democratic Party.

Merle P. Durren Was Leader In His Field

Merle P. Durren, who died Sunday at the age of 75, leaves behind a record as one of the outstanding savings and loan executives ever to have operated in Southwestern Michigan.

Under his leadership, Peoples Savings Association of Benton Harbor became the largest financial institution of its kind based in Allegan, Berrien, Cass or Van Buren counties.

When Durren came to Peoples Savings from Dowagiac in 1936, the local firm had one office in downtown Benton Harbor. It now has seven offices in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Watervliet, Lakeshore, Fairplain and Grand Haven. Its assets are the largest of any savings and loan institution in the four-county area.

Although Durren did not become president of Peoples Savings until 1948, he was the driving force behind the firm's growth from the time he arrived in 1936 as secretary.

His success lay in accurately forecasting the future. With the nation barely coming out of the Great Depression, most savings and loan firms were ultra-conservative in making mortgage loans. Banks had virtually eliminated themselves from the home mortgage business.

Durren saw it differently. He paid the highest interest legally allowable on savings accounts at a time when most banks weren't paying anything. He got money to lend, and he lent it. The firm grew rapidly.

The huge business expansion that preceded and followed World War II bore out Durren's judgment. Competitor firms followed suit, but Peoples Savings was way out in front.

Looking back on this era, a local bank president said yesterday:

"Merle was good for this community. He made it possible for lots of people to buy or build homes at mortgage rates that later proved very reasonable. And all the while he kept his stockholders supplied with good dividends."

That's a pretty fine epitaph from one financial executive for another.

Target Of The Week!

Mamma Says Dial-A-Ride Should Pay Its Own Way

Editor,
Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country. These words were never more important than in these days when the citizens of this country must decide who will represent their parties at this November elections and what they will allow their commissioners and representatives to add to their ever increasing tax burden.

Until now, the Dial-A-Ride system has been allowed to operate because it is said to be a low cost type of transportation for the senior citizens and children and the handicapped. I would like to say at this time that I am NOT against the cheap transportation of these people, but we must be realistic in face of a vote that the manager of St. Joseph township says will only be 1/2 mill (to finance Dial-A-Ride for another year) will more than likely cost 1 mill. I, for one, cannot see how a system that costs $300,000.00 can operate on what the township manager says would be 1/2 mill if 1 mill represents $50,000 in tax revenue. If it is all collected.

Whatever happened to the Berrien County Council of Aging. Do they still get a federal grant to transport senior citizens? How about the Senior Citizens Council? I think they also get a grant to move senior citizens. I don't like to be the one to toll the bell, but we must decide if our politicians can hoodwink us with sympathetic sounding phrases or look into a system that costs on the average of $1.89 per person to move from place to place. Why not make the fare $1.90 per ride and let it be self supporting.

Now is the time some taxpayers get indignant and say, well it will only cost another 20 or 30 dollars on my tax bill and I will be taking care of all the senior citizens that don't have a way to move about. That does not mean that only senior citizens are gaining from your taxes.

California's Jerry Brown Is A Contender To Watch

California's Governor Jerry Brown by far is the least predictable candidate to enter the presidential sweepstakes, even as a favorite son entry. For that reason his competition in the run for the Democratic nomination would do well to keep an eye on him.

Ordinarily, a 37-year-old governor in his first term with little previous political experience would receive little notice as a serious contender for the presidency. But Gov. Brown is not the ordinary administrator.

Since assuming the reins of office in Sacramento and shunning the official governor's mansion as too grandiose for his lifestyle, Brown has been astounding friend and foe alike. Although he ran a reasonably consistent liberal campaign to succeed Ronald Reagan as governor, once in office Brown instituted and maintained a penny-pinching hold on public finances which would put many devout conservatives to shame.

Brown has exhibited a disdain for political labels or party politics, preferring a sharply independent and individualistic stance. More orthodox politicians have noted with some awe the exceptionally high ratings he generally received in polls of his fellow Californians.

By the usual rules of the game Gov. Brown should rank no higher than consideration for the vice presidential nomination, and then only because he heads the nation's most populous state. But in a multi-candidate field those rules tend to bend, and the youthful California governor already has fractured a few on his own.

Then Again, Is It?

The old question of which came first, the chicken or the egg, has finally been solved. Or at least scientists have arrived at some kind of consensus, reports the National Geographic Society.

Since reptiles were laying eggs long before chickens appeared, the first chicken must have come from an egg laid by a reptilian bird that had not quite developed into a chicken.

Unfortunately, this only pushes the question back a few million years. It now becomes: Which came first, the reptile or the reptile egg?

Strongman Of Libya Giving Egypt Fits

Egypt's difficulties with neighboring strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya are heating up again. The love-hate relationship between the two countries is one of the strangest to be found anywhere.

Allies at first when the present leaders of the two countries came to power, the temperamental Khadafy has unleashed a number of tirades against Egypt's President Sadat, including at one point actively urging Sadat's removal from office. Khadafy is a hardliner in dealing with Israel. Sadat is more moderate.

All of that notwithstanding, Egypt's intelligence forces possibly saved Khadafy's life by warning him of a coup attempt last summer. In light of more recent developments, Cairo may have second thoughts about the wisdom of its warning.

Khadafy's latest adventure was to send a band of agents to Cairo in an effort, the Egyptian government alleges, to kidnap former members of the Libyan Revolutionary Command Council now in exile there. Egyptian officials arrested 27 Libyans, adding that the agents also were after some Egyptians who had been critical of Khadafy.

In return, Khadafy has expelled thousands of Egyptian citizens working in Libya and confiscated their properties. This bizarre state of affairs has become almost a normal relationship, but a normalcy which has convinced many of the other Arab states that Khadafy is not an ally to be followed or welcomed into the inner councils.

'No Decision Yet' On SJ-To-BH Postal Transfer

City Editor

There has been no decision yet on whether the U.S. Postal Service will transfer part of the St. Joseph post office operation to the Benton Harbor office, according to John Van Eck, section center manager-postmaster in Kalamazoo. Van Eck said Monday a "package" is being put together of cost analysis and other factors that would be involved in a partial consolidation of the St. Joseph office with Benton Harbor. He said it will be sent to the Detroit district office about April 1. A final ruling would be made in Washington.

A federal court restraining order blocking closing of small post offices has been lifted. The order also applied to transferring part of an operation as in the St. Joseph case. A federal court held there must be a survey of mail users and a 90-day notice of closing. Van Eck said earlier if the transfer goes through, the same services now offered to customers at the St.

Joseph office would be maintained. He said transfer of personnel would be largely an "internal movement." The St. Joseph city commission has gone on record opposing any transfer. The St. Joseph office currently employs 32 people and the Benton Harbor office 77.

Rumors were rife yesterday that the transfer already had been decided and would take effect April 1. Postmasters Robert Brown, Benton Harbor, and Robert McMullen, St. Joseph, said they had heard of the rumors but didn't know their source.

Mayor Joseph Hurls Names At Bishop, Commissioner Bolin During Hearing

By JIM DELAND
Assistant City Editor

The Benton Harbor city commission Monday night voted to seek $1.4 million in federal Community Development funds for 1978-79 after an hour-long public hearing marked by heated debate over three of the lowest-budget projects in the proposal.

The budget items drawing fire from Commissioner Charles

Yarbrough and members of the audience included $48,000 for publishing a newsletter by the mayor-commissioner office, $30,000 to create an ombudsman's position within the city government and $20,000 to support a senior citizens project run by the Fun After Fifty organization.

During discussion on these projects, Mayor Charles Joseph described recall leader Maurice

Bishop as "a liar" and accused Commissioner Arnold Bolin of trying "to mislead the public with your crap" while former City Atty. Yvonne Hughes blasted previous newsletters published by Joseph as a "bunch of slanders."

The commission eventually voted 8-1 to approve the $1,404,000 grant application package with Yarbrough casting the dissenting vote and Bolin casting a "qualified" yes.

City Manager James Peoples Jr. said approval of the request was required last night to meet a deadline that the application arrive by Wednesday at the Detroit regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which dispenses the federal funds.

If approved, the second year funds, together with a $266,000 carryover from 1975-76 would give the city $1,670,000 to finance 14 separate Community Development projects.

All projects in the package were recommended by the Citizens Advisory Board headed by Arnold Smith.

Smith said the $48,000 newsletter project was based on a "feeling that the news media has not reported news for the city of Benton Harbor...as long as I've been here" but

Yarbrough responded "How can we justify $48,000 for a five newsletter that only comes from the mayor?"

The ombudsman was described by Joseph as an "action man" — a "special kind of person to cut red tape and get help to the people" while working out of the mayor's office.

Yarbrough charged that both the newsletter and ombudsman projects were "a waste of money" and Bolin questioned the fact that both items were added to the advisory board recommendations last week after Commissioner Helen Ford told the board "Mayor Joseph and city commissioners" wanted them considered.

"My perception is that the Citizens Advisory Board is a group to advise the city commission, not for the city commission to go to to specify what it wants funded," Rev. Bolin said. "I don't recall (these items) being discussed."

Joseph replied that Bolin had left early from a special meeting at which the projects were discussed and said "I resent the fact that you try to mislead the public with your crap."

BH Commission Asks Audit Of CETA Funds

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The Benton Harbor city commission voted last night to request an audit of the Berrien County Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) office, to determine where $900,000 to extend jobs for some 400 CETA workers in the county came from.

In calling for the audit, Mayor Charles Joseph said it was "highly improbable" that the $900,000 was saved through a hiring freeze imposed on CETA or through new accounting procedures, as explained earlier by CETA officials.

The county CETA office announced Friday that the 400

CETA workers in the county, scheduled for layoffs April 1, would be kept on their jobs for another two months because about $800,000 had been saved through a hiring freeze imposed on CETA by the federal government and through other "bell-lightening measures."

Weldon Burden, county CETA director, explained that the money was saved as a result of the hiring freeze, where positions of workers who quit or were terminated were not filled and wages for those positions saved, and through new accounting procedures and audits.

Joseph independently announced Friday that he had learned that CETA workers for the City of Benton Harbor, the largest employer of CETA workers in the county, would not be laid-off April 1 and said the county CETA office "apparently made a bookkeeping error" in announcing the earlier lay-off.

The commission voted 7 to 1 to ask for the audit of the CETA program with Commissioner Edmund Faman voting "no," and Commissioner Charles Yarbrough abstaining.

Joseph also directed that letters, asking for the audit, be sent to the U.S. Secretary of Labor and regional Labor department, which funds the CETA program; Gov. William Milliken, State Sen. Charles Zullo (R-Benton Harbor), Rep.

Ray Milton (R-Niles), U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin and U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson.

In other action: The commission approved a resolution presented by Mayor Joseph directing the city manager to investigate "a recent incident at Benton Harbor high school involving a teacher with a gun and a student with a knife."

Charles F. Henderson, a Benton Harbor high school teacher who has been mentioned as a potential candidate for mayor in the event Joseph is recalled, was involved in an incident at the high school Thursday in which a student threatened him with a knife. Henderson told police he then opened his coat and displayed a gun handle during the incident.

The gun was not drawn. Benton Harbor police reported the gun was owned by Henderson's brother-in-law, an Elkhart, Ind., policeman who had given it to Henderson during the incident that occurred at a talent show.

Joseph directed the city manager to conduct a "full and detailed" investigation into the incident in conjunction with city police and the Berrien county prosecutor's office to determine if "any legal action will be required" to close the matter. Commissioners Yarbrough and Arnold Bolin abstained from voting on the resolution.

The commission set a public hearing next Monday to hear requests for tax exemptions for proposed expansions of Superior Steel Castings Co., 303 Graham avenue, and Michigan Standard Alloys, Mendell road.

The two companies are seeking an industrial facilities tax exemption under the Michigan Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Districts Act of 1974. The public hearing Monday would be the first of four steps toward reducing property taxes on expansions for the two companies by 50 per cent for 12 years under provisions of the state act.

City officials said they did not know the extent of the two companies' plans for expansion.

At Chase, the city's economic development director, said the 50 per cent tax reduction for Superior Steel would mean the city will receive a total of $55,200 in property taxes during the 12-year period the company is receiving reduction of taxes for the expansion. The city would receive $127,164 taxes on the Michigan Standard Alloys expansion during the 12 years, he said.

Commissioner Helen Ford read a response to a letter she said she received from the Methodist Peace Temple, 275 Pipestone street, asking for reconciliation among city officials and a restoration of harmony in the city government.

In a lengthy reply, Mrs. Ford said she did not "believe in peace for peace's sake," and said things could not be reconciled until problems were solved.

Commissioner Yarbrough walked out of the meeting during reading of her reply.

The commission voted to advertise for applicants for the position of director of finance. That position became vacant when James Peoples, Jr., was appointed city manager Feb. 23.

The commission voted to offer condolences to the family of Merle P. Durren, former chairman of the board and president of Peoples Savings association, who died Sunday.

Titans And Three Guest Bands Will Play Twice

Michigan Lutheran high school's Titan band will be joined this coming weekend by 150 musicians from three Lutheran high school bands in Wisconsin for a band festival and bicentennial concert. The event will be hosted by Michigan Lutheran high school at 615 East Marquette Woods road, south of St. Joseph, on Friday through Sunday, March 19-21.

The program features concerts Friday and Sunday and rehearsals on Saturday.

Joining the Titan band, directed by Ronald Pape, will be: Wisconsin Lutheran high school, Milwaukee, directed by Terry Treuden and William Craig; Lakeside Lutheran high school, Lake Mills, James Pashig, director; and Northwestern Prep school, Watertown, Arnold Lehmann, director.

The public is invited to all events in the school gymnasium-auditorium. There will be no admission, but a free will offering will be taken.

Programs will include a "pop" concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday, with each band performing separately.

Day-long rehearsals will be on Saturday for a major concert on Sunday.

The Bicentennial concert Sunday will be at 2:30 p.m. and will consist of 13 selections by an all-star massed band. The bands will be joined in four selections by the Michigan Lutheran Bicentennial choir, composed of singers from area Wisconsin Synod Lutheran congregations.

Director Pape is in charge of arrangements. He will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kloko, who will arrange for housing in local homes for guest musicians. Mrs. Larry Houghton is in charge of meals.

Michigan Lutheran in November, 1973, was host for an annual choral festival of eight area Lutheran high schools of the Wisconsin Synod.

U-M GRAD: Darwyn P. Fair, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fair, Jr., 638 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, was graduated at winter commencement from University of Michigan with a bachelor arts degree. A 1972 graduate of Benton Harbor high school, he plans to enter law school next fall.

Ray Charles McKay, 27, was sentenced Monday in Berrien Circuit court to 1 to 4 years in prison for larceny in a building — theft of a $5.99 shirt from Woolworth's at Fairplain Plaza. Sentence was imposed by Judge Julian Hughes.

McKay, of 1163 Beverly court, Benton township, was convicted last month by a jury on the felony charge. He originally had declined a prosecution offer to plead guilty to petty larceny which has a maximum sentence of 90 days in jail, $100 fine or both.

McKay offered to plead guilty to petty larceny just before trial was to start, but the prosecution would not accept the plea, saying witnesses had already arrived in court including one from the state police crime laboratory at Holland.

Courts Administrator William Evans said the one-day trial cost the county $750.

St. Joseph firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Marilyn Anderson, 1611 South State street, Monday about 5 p.m. after a deep fryer for cooking food caught on fire. The flames were extinguished prior to the firefighters arrival. Firemen cleared smoke from the home. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

store at 151 East Main street, Benton Harbor. Lawton said company has not made definite plans for downtown store. Earlier announced plans were to close store, but Lawton said last year's sales record at the store was the best in the past 10 years. New store will contain 40,000 square feet. Lawton said "Newland" name will be dropped from new store. Leath chain, based in Chicago, operates some 50 stores. (Staff photo)

'No Decision Yet' On SJ-To-BH Postal Transfer

City Editor

There has been no decision yet on whether the U.S. Postal Service will transfer part of the St. Joseph post office operation to the Benton Harbor office, according to John Van Eck, section center manager-postmaster in Kalamazoo. Van Eck said Monday a "package is being put together" of cost analysis and other factors that would be involved in a partial consolidation of the St. Joseph office with Benton Harbor. He said it will be sent to the Detroit district office about April 1. A final ruling would be made in Washington.

A federal court restraining order blocking closing of small post offices has been lifted. The order also applied to transferring part of an operation as in the St. Joseph case. A federal court held there must be a survey of mail users and a 90-day notice of closing. Van Eck said earlier if the transfer goes through, the same services now offered to customers at the St.

Joseph office would be maintained. He said transfer of personnel would be largely an "internal movement." The St. Joseph city commission has gone on record opposing any transfer. The St. Joseph office currently employs 52 people and the Benton Harbor office 77.

Rumors were rife yesterday that the transfer already had been decided and would take effect April 1. Postmasters Robert Brown, Benton Harbor, and Robert McMullen, St. Joseph, said they had heard of the rumors but didn't know their source.

Mayor Joseph Hurls Names At Bishop, Commissioner Bolin During Hearing

Assistant City Editor

The Benton Harbor city commission Monday night voted to seek $1.4 million in federal Community Development funds for 1976-77 after an hour-long public hearing marked by heated debate over three of the lowest-budget projects in the proposal.

The budget items drawing fire from Commissioner Charles

Yarbrough and members of the audience included $48,000 for publishing a newsletter by the mayor-commission office, $30,000 to create an ombudsman's position within the city government and $20,000 to support a senior citizens project run by the Fun After Fifty organization.

During discussion on these projects, Mayor Charles Joseph described recall leader Maurice

Bishop as "a liar" and accused Commissioner Arnold Bolin of trying "to mislead the public with your crap" while former City Atty. Yvonne Hughes blasted previous newsletters published by Joseph as a "bunch of slander."

The commission eventually voted 8-1 to approve the $1,404,000 grant application package with Yarbrough casting the dissenting vote and Bolin casting a "qualified" yes.

City Manager James Peoples Jr. said approval of the request was required last night to meet a deadline that the application arrive by Wednesday at the Detroit regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which dispenses the federal funds.

If approved, the second year funds, together with a $266,000 carryover from 1975-76 would give the city $1,670,000 to finance 14 separate Community Development projects.

All projects in the package were recommended by the Citizens Advisory Board headed by Arnold Smith.

Smith said the $48,000 newsletter project was based on a "feeling that the news media has not reported news for the city of Benton Harbor....as long as I've been here" but

Yarbrough responded "How can we justify $48,000 for a five newsletter that only comes from the mayor?"

The ombudsman was described by Joseph as an "action man" — a "special kind of person to cut red tape and get help to the people" while working out of the mayor's office.

Yarbrough charged that both the newsletter and ombudsman

projects were "a waste of money" and Bolin questioned the fact that both items were added to the advisory board recommendations last week after Commissioner Helen Ford told the board "Mayor Joseph and city commissioners" wanted them considered.

"My perception is that the Citizens Advisory Board is a group to advise the city commission, not for the city commission to go to to specify what it wants funded," Rev. Bolin said. "I don't recall (these items) being discussed."

Joseph replied that Bolin had left early from a special meeting at which the projects were discussed and said "I resent the fact that you try to mislead the public with your crap."

BH Commission Asks Audit Of CETA Funds

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The Benton Harbor city commission voted last night to request an audit of the Berrien County Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) office to determine where $800,000 to extend jobs for some 400 CETA workers in the county came from.

In calling for the audit, Mayor Charles Joseph said it was "highly improbable" that the $800,000 was saved through a hiring freeze imposed on CETA or through new accounting procedures, as explained earlier by CETA officials.

The county CETA office announced Friday that the 400

CETA workers in the county, scheduled for layoffs April 1, would be kept on their jobs for another two months because about $800,000 had been saved through a hiring freeze imposed on CETA by the federal government and through other "belt-tightening measures."

Weldon Burden, county CETA director, explained that the money was saved as a result of the hiring freeze, where positions of workers who quit or were terminated were not filled and wages for those positions saved, and through new accounting procedures and audits.

Joseph independently announced Friday that he had learned that CETA workers for the City of Benton Harbor, the largest employer of CETA workers in the county, would not be laid-off April 1 and said the county CETA office "apparently made a bookkeeping error" in announcing the earlier lay-off.

The commission voted 7 to 1 to ask for the audit of the CETA program with Commissioner Edmund Eaman voting "no," and Commissioner Charles Yarbrough abstaining.

Joseph also directed that letters, asking for the audit, be sent to the U.S. Secretary of Labor and regional Labor department, which funds the CETA program; Gov. William Milliken, State Sen. Charles Zollar (R-Benton Harbor), Rep.

Ray Mittan (R-Niles), U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin and U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson.

In other action:

The commission approved a resolution presented by Mayor Joseph directing the city manager to investigate "a recent incident at Benton Harbor high school involving a teacher with a gun and a student with a knife."

Charles F. Henderson, a Benton Harbor high school teacher who has been mentioned as a potential candidate for mayor in the event Joseph is recalled, was involved in an incident at the high school Thursday in which a student threatened him with a knife. Henderson told police he then opened his coat and displayed a gun handle during the incident.

The gun was not drawn. Benton Harbor police reported the gun was owned by Henderson's brother-in-law, an Elkhart, Ind., policeman who had given it to Henderson during the incident that occurred at a talent show.

Joseph directed the city manager to conduct a "full and detailed" investigation into the incident in conjunction with city police and the Berrien county prosecutor's office to determine if "any legal action will be required" to close the matter. Commissioners Yarbrough and Arnold Bolin abstained from voting on the resolution.

The commission set a public hearing next Monday to hear requests for tax exemptions for proposed expansions of Superior Steel Castings Co., 309 Graham avenue, and Michigan Standard Alloys, Mendell road.

The two companies are seeking an industrial facilities tax exemption under the Michigan Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Districts Act of 1974. The public hearing Monday would be the first of four steps toward reducing property taxes on expansions for the two companies by 50 per cent for 12 years under provisions of the state act.

City officials said they did not know the extent of the two com-

Al Chase, the city's economic development director, said the 50 per cent tax reduction for Superior Steel would mean the city will receive a total of $56,200 in property taxes during the 12-year period the company is receiving reduction of taxes for the expansion. The city would receive $127,164 taxes on the Michigan Standard Alloys expansion during the 12 years, he said.

Commissioner Helen Ford read a response to a letter she said she received from the Methodist Peace Temple, 275 Pipestone street, asking for reconciliation among city officials and a restoration of harmony in the city government.

In a lengthy reply, Mrs. Ford said she did not "believe in peace for peace's sake," and said things could not be reconciled until problems were solved.

Commissioner Yarbrough walked out of the meeting during reading of her reply.

The commission voted to advertise for applicants for the position of director of finance. That position became vacant when James Peoples, Jr., was appointed city manager Feb. 23.

The commission voted to offer condolences to the family of Merle P. Durren, former chairman of the board and president of Peoples Savings association, who died Sunday.

TWIN CITIES SYMPHONY Membership Campaign

WINDOW DISPLAY: A special "Help Get It All Together" display is in the window at Ollie's, State street, St. Joseph, as part of the current membership campaign being conducted by the Twin Cities Symphony Society, Inc. The display has puzzle pieces which will be added to cover the outline of the orchestra as support commitments are made. Also on display will be a growing list of names of supporting businesses and on the individuals on the side wings of the display as pledges are received. Inspecting the display are Mrs. Jerome (Sue) Warren, president of the society and Stephen Sizer, co-chairman for the campaign.

Subscribers to the Twin Cities Symphony 1976-77 season will hear nine concerts — four more than during the current season. Announcement of next season's schedule was made today by Mrs. James (Barbara) Dorn, chairman for the membership campaign which is currently underway.

Serving with Mrs. Dorn for the campaign are Stephen Sizer, co-chairman; Miss Virginia Archer, Mrs. Chester (Priscilla) Byrns, Bill Davis, Miss Mildred Dellorn, Mrs. Pasquale (Marlan) Iannelli, Philip Jenkins, Peter Johnson, James Nettleton, and Mrs. Frederick (Anita) Schulz.

The 26th annual membership fund raising campaign marks the symphony's return to a spring drive. Mrs. Dorn says that since ticket sales account for less than one-third the capital needed, the operating balance comes from federal and state grants and contributions from businesses and individuals.

Season tickets may be purchased through the symphony office, 520 Pleasant street, St. Joseph, or on renewal night at this year's March 28 concert.

For the first time, a modified form of reserved seating will be available with tickets in the central portion of the auditorium priced at $15 for adults, $7.50 for students and senior citizens, and $30 for families. Peripheral and rear seats will be $10 for adults, $5 for students and senior citizens, and $25 for families.

All concerts will be performed in the St. Joseph high school auditorium except for the Christmas concert which will be held in the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

As an incentive to purchasing tickets early, the first concert of the season featuring the International String Quartet, will be held Sunday, April 18, this at 4:30 p.m. in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The quartet which is in residence at Indiana university at South Bend, will play the works of Schubert, Ravel, and Brahms.

In addition to the five regular concerts next season, special programs will include a pops concert in May, 1977; the Christmas concert will feature Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite," performed by the Symphony and the Severn Ballet company of Detroit, and an artist-in-residence program, featuring the DeVos Quartet, will be held in February, partially funded by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The DeVos groups will play a chamber music concert Friday, Feb. 11, conduct master classes Saturday, Feb. 12, and will be featured soloists with the Symphony Sunday, Feb. 13.

Chamber ensembles will be formed from the orchestra and will present a concert in April, 1977. This group will also play more than a dozen in-school concerts.

Again, next year season ticket holders will be able to take advantage of the concert day special dinners at Win Schulers' restaurant, Stevensville. A complementary reception will be held at Schulers' after the concert Oct. 24.

Slogan for the current membership drive is "Help Get It All Together." A giant poster puzzle is on display in Ollie's window in St. Joseph to graphically describe campaign progress.

Ticket sales and gifts to the orchestra have been separated for the 1976-77 season with individuals and corporations invited to underwrite specific areas of need for the season. In addition to special recognition by the Symphony, patrons, guarantors, sponsors, or benefactors contributing to the orchestra, should be able to deduct the entire amount from federal income taxes. However, these contributors must also purchase a membership to attend the concerts.

The complete schedule for the 1976-77 season includes:

April 18, 1976: International String Quartet.

Oct. 24, 1976: Brahms Piano Concerto No. 1 in D Minor, Oboen Overture (Weber), and Mozart Symphony in C, K. 358.

Dec. 13, 1976: Nutcracker — Tchaikovsky.

Feb. 11, 1977: Devos String Quartet recital.

Feb. 12, 1977: Devos String Quartet with orchestra performing Mozart Sinfonia Concertante, Bruch Violin Concerto No. 1, and Dvorak Cello Concerto.

March 25, 1977: Mass In Time Of War, Haydn; Prelude, Afternoon of a Faun, Debussy, and Firebird Suite, Stravinsky (1919).

April, 1977: Chamber Ensemble concert.

May 1, 1977: Young artist competition winners and Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 4 in F Minor.

May 25, 1977: Pops concert.

Brochures of the programs for next year may be secured at the symphony office.

Set Metric Workshop For Home Economists

Central Michigan Chapter of Home Economists in Business will conduct a metrics workshop at the Michigan Home Economics association's annual meeting to be held at the Kalamazoo Center Inn, Kalamazoo, Friday, April 9.

The seminar, "The Metrics Are Coming," is designed to create an awareness of the metric system and expose home economists from Michigan to metrics as specifically related to subject matter areas such as foods and nutrition and clothing and textiles.

Linda Riley, home economist for Whirlpool corporation, is the coordinator and chairman for the workshop. Discussion leaders for the seminar will be home economists from Western Michigan university's metric committee.

Isabelle Smith of Western Michigan university will open the seminar with a talk on "Metrics — An Introduction to the S.I. System."

Karen Oby and Eleanor Berman, also of WMU, will present a metrics update on the subject matter areas of food and nutrition and clothing and textiles.

Practical metric experience sessions will also be included in the seminar. The home economists will have an opportunity to weigh, measure and calculate metrically. Subject matter exhibit areas, with available metric materials, visuals and tools, will also be on display.

This is the second state-wide metrics workshop conducted by the Central Michigan group of Home Economists in Business.

In addition to Linda Riley, other Whirlpool home economists involved in the seminar will be Joy Schrage, chairman of the Central Michigan chapter; Barbara Osborne, Connie Bennett, Margaret DeAlley, Nancy McDonald and Alice Blair. Also assisting with the seminar will be Janet Sneeles, marketing coordinator for Holly's, Inc., Grand Rapids.

Home economists in Michigan who are interested in attending this workshop may contact Mrs. Eleanor Baker, 117 Harper Creek drive, Battle Creek.

In commenting on the workshop, Linda Riley said that Americans in this Bicentennial year are moving in the direction of metric conversion. She said that John Quincy Adams proposed the change to metrics in 1821 and in 1893, the United States officially adopted metric standards and defined the yard, pound and other familiar measurements as fractions of the metric system.

Mrs. Riley concluded by saying, "at the present time, metric measurements are used in all industrial nations except the United States, Jamaica, Gambia, Liberia and Burma."

International Hamburger And Pickle Month

It's International Hamburger and Pickle Month and what better combination than a juicy, brown, ground beef patty on toasted bun with a crunchy pickle.

You can enjoy your hamburger plain or with spicy sauces or other foods. The combinations are as infinite as the vast assortment of pickle food products in the marketplace.

Michigan standards for hamburger and ground beef are among the highest in the nation. Michigan Department of Agriculture officials say state law requires hamburger to consist of comminuted (ground) fresh beef with no more than 30 per cent fat. Ground beef must meet the same requirements as hamburger except it cannot contain more than 20 per cent fat. Michigan's Saginaw Valley-Thumb area is the heart of the pickle industry. In 1975, over 120,000 tons of cucumbers for pickling were produced, the largest in the nation.

You can choose from a varied selection of pickled food products. More than 250 pickle producers in the country make an assortment of pickles and specialty items like corn relish and pickled peppers. One of the largest pickle packers has its headquarters in Michigan. Here's how the industry works:

A pickle producer normally signs a contract with a grower agreeing to buy all of his cucumbers. Cucumbers too large to make whole pickles are sliced into spears, diced for relishes or processed into pickle slices.

Because all cucumbers ripen within a short period, some are canned right away to avoid spoiling. Others are put into huge vats to cure for four to eleven months. Pickles packed fresh from the field without curing are referred to as fresh pack. Processed pickles are cured for months in brine, then packed in a particular liquid for the desired taste.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two new members have been elected as trustees of the Archives of American Art.

Cure More Deadly Than Disease

Was the "cure" more deadly than the disease in Colonial times?

Apparently so, since Colonial physicians, like their European counterparts, relied heavily on "depletion" measures such as purging, sweating, bleeding and vomiting, which may have done their patients more harm than good.

According to an article in "Pharmacy Times," George Washington's treatment on the day he died might just have pushed him over the edge. He underwent very drastic medical treatment involving the draining of at least four pints of blood, blistering, plus a dose of the potent purgative — cologne. Such "cures" were largely derived from traditional humoral therapy, which stressed the need to rid the body of excess "humors" (blood, phlegm, black bile and yellow bile) in order to maintain a proper balance of these body constituents.

Those with strong constitutions survived in spite of the therapy.

DISEASE

Little known ten years ago it has become almost as common as syphilis and gonorrhea. And, genital herpes can have serious consequences. Children born to mothers suffering from this type of herpes can develop New Natal Herpes which is most often fatal. Also, there appears to be evidence that women with herpes run a greater risk of developing cervical cancer.

Right now there is neither a certain treatment or cure for genital herpes. Although researchers feel that eventually a vaccine may be the answer, none is close to development.

TWIN CITIES SYMPHONY

Membership Campaign

WINDOW DISPLAY: A special "Help Get It All Together" display is in the window at Ollie's, State street, St. Joseph, as part of the current membership campaign being conducted by the Twin Cities Symphonic Society, Inc. The display has puzzle pieces which will be added to cover the outline of the orchestra as support commitments are made. Also on display will be a growing list of names of supporting businesses and on the individuals on the side wings of the display as pledges are received. Inspecting the display are Mrs. Jerome (Sue) Warren, president of the society and Stephen Sizer, co-chairman for the campaign.

Subscribers to the Twin Cities Symphony 1976-77 season will hear nine concerts — four more than during the current season. Announcement of next's season schedule was made today by Mrs. James (Barbara) Born, chairman for the membership campaign which is currently underway.

Serving with Mrs. Born for the campaign are Stephen Sizer, co-chairman; Miss Virginia Archer, Mrs. Chester (Priscilla) Byrns, Bill Davis, Miss Mildred DeHorn, Mrs. Pasquale (Marian) Iannelli, Philip Jenkins, Peter Johnson, James Nettleton, and Mrs. Frederick (Anita) Schultz.

The 26th annual membership/fund raising campaign marks the symphony's return to a spring drive. Mrs. Born says that since ticket sales account for less than one-third the capital needed, the operating balance comes from federal and state grants and contributions from businesses and individuals.

Season tickets may be purchased through the symphony office, 520 Pleasant street, St. Joseph, or on renewal night at this year's March 28 concert.

For the first time, a modified form of reserved seating will be available with tickets in the central portion of the auditorium priced at $13 for adults, $7.50 for students and senior citizens, and $30 for families. Peripheral and rear seats will be $10 for adults, $5 for students and senior citizens, and $25 for families.

All concerts will be performed in the St. Joseph high school auditorium except for the Christmas concert which will be held in the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

As an incentive to purchasing tickets early, the first concert of the season featuring the International String Quartet, will be held Sunday, April 18, this at 4:30 p.m. in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The quartet which is in residence at Indiana university at South Bend, will play the works of Schubert, Ravel, and Brahms.

In addition to the five regular concerts next season, special programs will include a pops concert in May, 1977; the Christmas concert will feature Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite," performed by the Symphony and the Severo Ballet company of Detroit, and an artist-in-residence program, featuring the DeVos Quartet, will be held in February, partially funded by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts. The DeVos groups will play a chamber music concert Friday, Feb. 11, conduct master classes Saturday, Feb. 12, and will be featured soloists with the Symphony Sunday, Feb. 13.

Chamber ensembles will be formed from the orchestra and will present a concert in April, 1977. This group will also play more than a dozen in-school concerts.

Again, next year season ticket holders will be able to take advantage of the concert day special dinners at Win Schulers' restaurant, Stevensville. A complementary reception will be held at Schulers' after the concert Oct. 24.

Slogan for the current membership drive is "Help Get It All Together." A giant poster puzzle is on display in Ollie's window in St. Joseph to graphically describe campaign progress.

Ticket sales and gifts to the orchestra have been separated for the 1976-77 season with individuals and corporations invited to underwrite specific areas of need for the season. In addition to special recognition by the Symphony, patrons, guarantors, sponsors, or benefactors contributing to the orchestra, should be able to deduct the entire amount from federal income taxes. However, these contributors must also purchase a membership to attend the concerts.

The complete schedule for the 1976-77 season includes:

April 18, 1976: International String Quartet.

Oct. 24, 1976: Brahms Piano Concerto No. 1 in D Minor, Overture (Weber), and Mozart Symphony in C, K. 358.

Dec. 19, 1976: Nutcracker—Tchaikovsky.

Feb. 11, 1977: Devos String Quartet recital.

Feb. 13, 1977: Devos String Quartet with orchestra performing Mozart Sinfonia Concertante, Bruch Violin Concerto No. 1, and Dvorak Cello Concerto.

March 28, 1977: Mass In Time Of War, Haydn; Prelude, Afternoon of a Faun, Debussy, and Firebird Suite, Stravinsky (1919).

April, 1977: Chamber Ensemble concert.

May 1, 1977: Young artist competition winners and Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 4 in F Minor.

May 25, 1977: Pops concert.

• Brochures of the programs for next year may be secured at the symphony office.

Set Metric Workshop For Home Economists

Central Michigan Chapter of Home Economists in Business will conduct a metrics workshop at the Michigan Home Economics association's annual meeting to be held at the Kalamazoo Center Inn, Kalamazoo, Friday, April 9.

The seminar, "The Metrics Are Coming," is designed to create an awareness of the metric system and expose home economists from Michigan to metrics as specifically related to subject matter areas such as foods and nutrition and clothing and textiles.

Linda Riley, home economist for Whirlpool corporation, is the coordinator and chairman for the workshop. Discussion leaders for the seminar will be home economists from Western Michigan university's metric committee.

Isabelle Smith of Western Michigan university will open the seminar with a talk on "Metrics — An Introduction to the S.I. System."

Karen Oby and Eleanor Ber- man, also of WMU, will present a metrics update on the subject matter areas of food and nutrition and clothing and textiles.

Practical metric experience sessions will also be included in the seminar. The home economists will have an opportunity to weigh, measure and calculate metrically. Subject matter exhibit areas, with available metric materials, visuals and tools, will also be on display.

This is the second state-wide metrics workshop conducted by the Central Michigan group of Home Economists in Business.

In addition to Linda Riley, other Whirlpool home economists involved in the seminar will be Joy Schrage, chairman of the Central Michigan chapter; Barbara Osborne, Connie Bennett, Margaret DeAtley, Nancy McDonald and Alice Blair. Also assisting with the seminar will be Janet Sneesley, marketing coordinator for Holly's, Inc., Grand Rapids.

Home economists in Michigan who are interested in attending

this workshop may contact Mrs. Eleanor Baker, 117 Harper Creek drive, Battle Creek.

In commenting on the workshop, Linda Riley said that Americans in this Bicentennial year are moving in the direction of metric conversion. She said that John Quincy Adams proposed the change to metrics in 1821 and in 1893, the United States officially adopted metric standards and defined the yard, pound and other familiar measurements as fractions of the metric system.

Mrs. Riley concluded by saying, "at the present time, metric measurements are used in all industrial nations except the United States, Jamaica, Gambia, Liberia and Burma."

International Hamburger And Pickle Month

It's International Hamburger and Pickle Month and what better combination than a juicy, brown, ground beef patty on toasted bun with a crunchy pickle.

You can enjoy your hamburger plain or with spicy sauces or other foods. The combinations are as infinite as the vast assortment of pickle food products in the marketplace.

Michigan standards for hamburger and ground beef are among the highest in the nation. Michigan Department of Agriculture officials say state law requires hamburger to consist of comminuted (ground) fresh beef with no more than 30 per cent fat. Ground beef must meet the same requirements as hamburger except it cannot contain more than 20 per cent fat. Michigan's Saginaw Valley-Thumb area is the heart of the pickle industry. In 1975, over 120,000 tons of cucumbers for pickling were produced, the largest in the nation.

You can choose from a varied selection of pickled food products. More than 250 pickle producers in the country make an assortment of pickles and specialty items like corn relish and pickled peppers. One of the largest pickle packers has its headquarters in Michigan. Here's how the industry works:

A pickle producer normally signs a contract with a grower agreeing to buy all of his cucumbers. Cucumbers too large to make whole pickles are sliced into spears, diced for relishes or processed into pickle slices.

Because all cucumbers ripen within a short period, some are canned right away to avoid spoilage. Others are put into huge vats to cure for four to eleven months. Pickles packed fresh from the field without curing are referred to as fresh pack. Processed pickles are cured for months in brine, then packed in a particular liquid for the desired taste.

Trustees Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Two new members have been elected as trustees of the Archives of American Art.

They are Mrs. John L. Bradley, a member of the women's board of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, and Richard A. Manoogian, president of Masco Corp., in Troy, Mich.

Cure More Deadly Than Disease

Was the "cure" more deadly than the disease in Colonial times?

Apparently so, since Colonial physicians, like their European counterparts, relied heavily on "depletion" measures such as purging, sweating, bleeding and vomiting, which may have done their patients more harm than good.

According to an article in "Pharmacy Times," George Washington's treatment on the day he died might just have pushed him over the edge. He underwent very drastic medical treatment involving the draining of at least four pints of blood, blistering, plus a dose of the potent purgative — calomel. Such "cures" were largely derived from traditional humoral therapy, which stressed the need to rid the body of excess "humors" (blood, phlegm, black bile and yellow bile) in order to maintain a proper balance of these body constituents.

Those with strong constitutions survived in spite of the therapy.

Montessori Open House March 23

INVITE GUESTS: Interested parents and others interested are invited to the Montessori school's open house Tuesday, March 23, in the library of Lake Michigan Catholic middle school, Benton Harbor. Plans are underway, according to Joan Emlong, director, to expand the program next year. Washing dishes are, from left, Alexa and Mia Butzbaugh. (Staff photos)

PRE-SCHOOLERS: Larry Riley Jr. and Ebon Sanders arrange numbers one through 100 in order on the sequence board which is an example of the learning materials used in the Montessori classroom. According to Joan Emlong, director, 29 youngsters are enrolled in the program's first year of operation.

The Montessori school will hold an open house Tuesday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Lake Michigan Catholic middle school library, Benton Harbor.

Parents and interested persons are invited.

A parent panel will discuss the effects Montessori is having on their children. Joan Emlong, director of the school, will speak on Montessori methods.

Refreshments will be served. During the meeting, parents may enroll their children.

According to Mrs. Emlong, plans are underway for an expansion of the Montessori program next year.

At the present, there are 29 children, ages 2½ through six, enrolled in the program.

The Montessori system of education is both a philosophy of child growth and a rationale for guiding such growth.

It is based on the child's developmental needs for freedom within limits, and a carefully prepared environment which guarantees exposure to materials and experiences through which to develop intelligence as well as physical and psychological abilities.

It is designed to take full advantage of the self-motivation and unique ability of young children to develop their own capabilities.

A key element in the Montessori classroom is the emphasis placed on self-education through self-corrective materials. Many of the Montessori materials have a built-in control of error.

The learning materials are so designed that each new facet signaled out for learning is isolated from the complex and distracting conditions which usually surround it. Thus, a child learns clearly a single characteristic at a time.

According to Mrs. Emlong, current automated teaching devices are only as good as the programmed steps that have been anticipated in the learning process. In a Montessori classroom, she says, the materials represent an analysis of and programmed introduction to the child's environment.

Add Extra Storage Area

Extra storage space is welcome anywhere in the house, but especially so in the bedroom, where many things accumulate.

An idea for added space is an adaptation of the bookcase headboard. The bed stands against a room divider with shelves of wood for books, radio, clock and other items. The other side of the divider is fitted for a wardrobe and can be used as a changing area in a larger bedroom, or adapted where space is limited.

Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

Schedule Potluck Dinner

At the present, there are 29 children, ages 2½ through six, enrolled in the program.

The Montessori system of education is both a philosophy of child growth and a rationale for guiding such growth.

It is based on the child's developmental needs for freedom within limits, and a carefully prepared environment which guarantees exposure to materials and experiences through which to develop intelligence as well as physical and psychological abilities.

It is designed to take full advantage of the self-motivation and unique ability of young children to develop their own capabilities.

A key element in the Montessori classroom is the emphasis placed on self-education through self-corrective materials. Many of the Montessori materials have a built-in control of error.

The learning materials are so designed that each new facet signaled out for learning is isolated from the complex and distracting conditions which usually surround it. Thus, a child learns clearly a single characteristic at a time.

According to Mrs. Emlong, current automated teaching devices are only as good as the programmed steps that have been anticipated in the learning process. In a Montessori classroom, she says, the materials represent an analysis of and programmed introduction to the child's environment.

Add Extra Storage Area

Extra storage space is welcome anywhere in the house, but especially so in the bedroom, where many things accumulate.

An idea for added space is an adaptation of the bookcase headboard. The bed stands against a room divider with shelves of wood for books, radio, clock and other items.

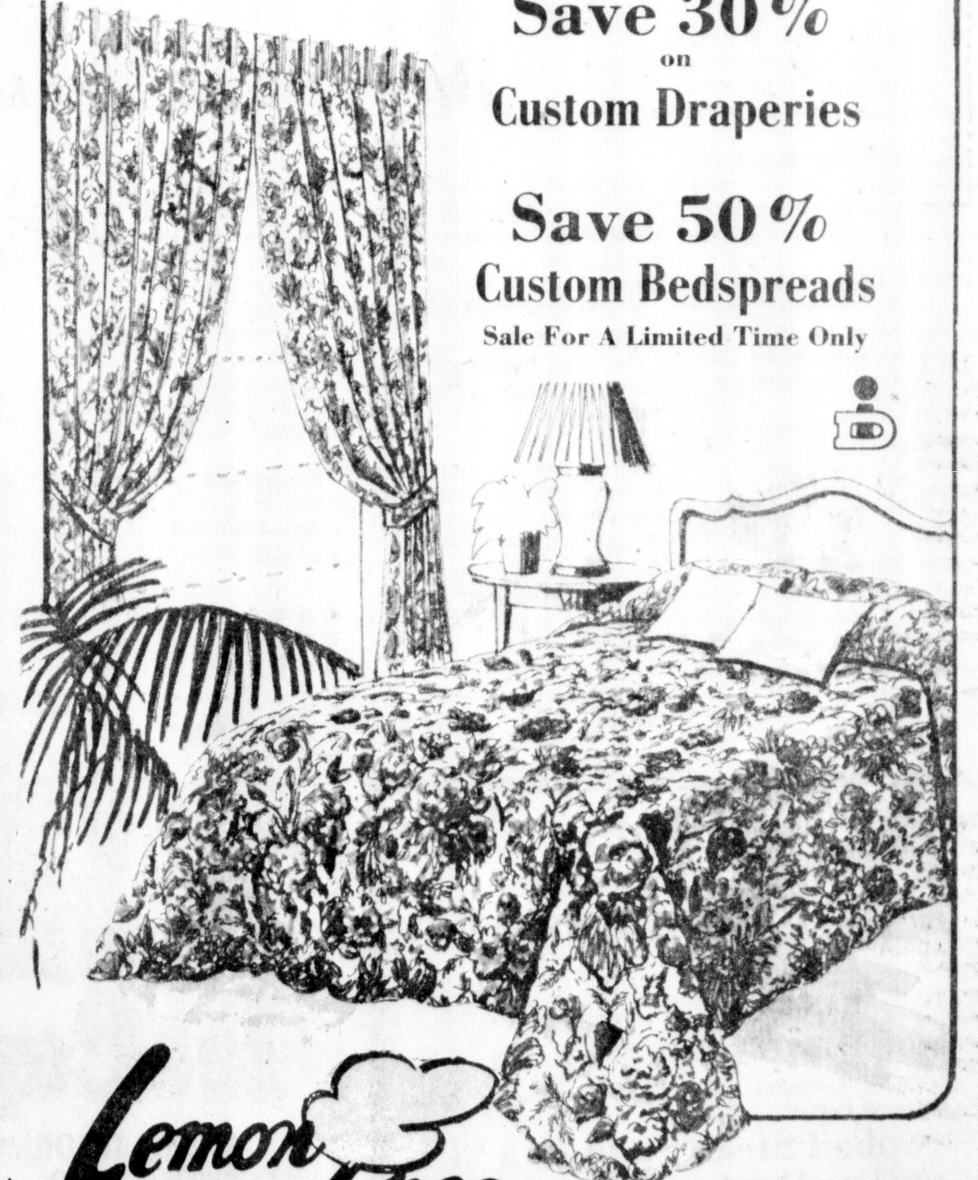

The other side of the divider is fitted for a wardrobe and can be used as a changing area in a larger bedroom, or adapted where space is limited.

Comments On Ann's Picture

Dear Ann Landers: Talk about egomaniacs, you take the cake. Today ANOTHER picture of you appeared with your column. When do you find time to write? It seems you are spending all your time in front of the camera. Also, the new picture looks younger than the last one. I'll bet the guy who does the retouching worked overtime on this number. I love to read what you have to say, but I could live without your picture, especially since I'm sure it doesn't look anything like you. — Riverside Reader

Dear Ann Landers: Your new picture is great. I love it. It gives your column a special flavor. I like to look at your face when I read what you have to say. It's like you are talking to me. Glad you got a new photo taken. The old one was getting a bit moldy. — Green Bay, Wis.

Dear Ann Landers: I like your new picture, but you're wearing an old blouse. How do I know? I heard you speak at our high school several years ago and you were wearing that same blouse then. — Omaha, Nebraska

Dear Ann: Now that I have seen two pictures of you, I am sure you are a woman. I used to think you were a man. The advice you give is so anti-female I thought for sure you were a cigar-chomping guy with bifocals and a green eyeshade. — La Porte, Indiana

Dear Ann: Your new picture is neat. I'm glad our paper uses it because it helps me find your column. Once in a while they leave it out and I go crazy looking for my favorite lady. Hang in there! — Newday, Long Island

Dear Ann: Congratulations on the new mug shot. I was sick of your picture out and print more of what you have to say. You sound better than you look. — Grangeville, Idaho

Dear Readers: The new picture was taken a few weeks ago. The blouse is several years old. The lady from Boston owes her husband $5. I agree with Atlanta and am letting my eyebrows grow out. I got the same comment from a reader in Coffeyville, Kansas.

My hair-do is the same one I've been wearing for 20 years and I have no plans to change it. To those of you who don't like the new picture, let me know. If I get 50 complaints from one paper, I'll send another one.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I sometimes bleed between my menstrual periods. I am married, have two children and have been told by my doctor that this should not be a source of concern. Do you agree that I should be relaxed about it?

Mrs. D.M., Mont.

In the light of your doctor's reassurance, certainly you should not be concerned about it.

A great many women develop anxiety by any variation from the normal pattern of menstrual bleeding. Sometimes there is a longer stretch of bleeding. Occasionally, it may be more profuse.

These temporary variations are allowable, within the range of normalcy.

In general, bleeding between the menstrual cycle may have more important meaning. Fibroid tumors of the uterus (womb), tumors and polyps of the cervix, endometriosis, or hormone imbalances may all be responsible for changes in the pattern of vaginal bleeding.

The onset of the menopause, or change of life, can cause marked irregularities in vaginal bleeding.

Your doctor has assured you that none of these problems exists. Readers who may have similar problems should, of course, be examined to be sure that they, too, are free of any important undisclosed reason for vaginal bleeding.

A cousin of mine spends the night with us about three times a year. We just learned that he has a mild case of tuberculosis. I am frantic because he always plays with the children.

Mrs. B.L., N.C.

Dear Mrs. L.: Your letter was obviously "frantic." It was for this reason that I wrote directly to you, in an effort to reduce your panic. Unfortunately, time does not permit me to do this very often.

As I told you, the chances are insignificant that you or any member of your family might have been infected during these short visits.

Nevertheless, it is wise that everyone in the family have an X-ray of the chest, a general physical examination, blood studies, and patch tests of the skin in order to definitely rule out a vague possibility.

To live in a constant state of anxiety about a problem does you and your family a great injustice.

Let me take advantage of this letter to say that tuberculosis, contrary to general opinion, is still a very active and flourishing disease. Fortunately, the new drugs are most successful in controlling this condition once it is diagnosed early.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

ANSWERS FROM AGENT

Often Asked Questions

It's time for those most often asked questions again, so here are the latest ones that have come in recently to Maryann Beckman, food marketing agent, Kalamazoo.

"Can some pork products be eaten without further cooking? I've always let my kids eat raw hockings thinking they're safe. Are they?"

Yes, some pork products can be eaten without further cooking with no problem, if they have been cooked or completely cured in the processing.

All hot dogs and some hams on the market are fully cooked, for example, and can be eaten without further cooking. However, make certain the label says "fully cooked," especially on hams, before eating them without further cooking.

Also, many products that are fully cooked will have an even better flavor if they're heated first.

"Why do so many nutritionists say that snacking is so bad for you these days? Doesn't it depend more on what you eat?"

Correct — what you eat is more important than when you eat it. If you eat a combination of foods from the Basic Four food groups, your between meal snacking can be very nutritious.

Plan on snacks especially from the milk and dairy products group and the fruits and vegetables group as being among those best for you. The reason many nutritionists don't recommend snacking is because too often people snack on only the calorie-empty nutrition foods such as carbohydrates, bread and cereal products and soda pop.

In-between meal snacking is not all bad. In fact, food scientists at Michigan State University now say that managed snacking around the clock may be a better way to eat than the traditional three balanced meals a day.

In some recent experiments, a group of rats were allowed to nibble all day long, while others were fed only at regularly spaced mealtimes. The results showed the meal-eaters were gaining more weight than the nibblers, although consuming less food over-all than the nibblers. That extra weight was also in the form of fat.

The scientists believe the time between meals is actually a signal to the body's biochemical machinery that the body is starved. Adapting to the situation, the body becomes very efficient at converting food to stored fat. Again, though, the key word in the whole study is "managed" snacking on the proper foods.

Is it safe to buy food in dented cans?

Yes, if you check those cans carefully before buying. Check first to see if the dent goes into the seam line of the can (not the seam line of the label). If it does, it may be unsafe to buy that can, for that dent may damage the seal, cause the can to leak and/or the food to spoil.

Also, if a dent is on or near the top or bottom lid-end of the can, it may also break the seal and therefore cause even a pin-prick hole which would cause the contents to spoil. Never buy cans that have bulging lids or those that are leaking. This is a sign that the contents have already spoiled and are unsafe to eat.

Dented cans are more prevalent these days than they were 20 years ago, because materials are lighter in weight and more susceptible to damage. These lighter weight cans were designed to help keep weight and therefore shipping costs down. So look carefully at dented cans before you buy them — but go ahead if the dents don't damage the seams, lids and/or contents.

Many times stores even offer special savings on dented cans relatively soon after purchase, too, rather than keeping them for long time storage. If you plan to store them on the cupboard shelf for several months, then buy the best cans available.

South didn't like that opening club lead which obviously was a singleton. In fact, he liked very little about his contract, but it was up to him to try to make it.

He led a low heart at trick two. West held the trick with his 10 and shifted to a diamond.

South won in dummy with the ace, discarded a heart and led dummy's last heart.

West won that trick with his jack and led a second diamond which South ruffed. Now South led a third heart and ruffed in dummy. Both opponents followed and South saw a little light at the end of the tunnel.

He played dummy's ace of trumps. East dropped the 10 and things looked much better. A second trump produced East's jack. South's queen and West's king. Another diamond was led and ruffed. Then

Ask the Jacobys

Today's hand came from a New York reader who asked if East should have beaten the four-spade game described in today's article.

The answer is that he certainly should have. He had nothing to lose by rising with his king of hearts on the second heart lead to enable him to give his partner a club ruff.

ANSWERS FROM AGENT
Often Asked Questions

It's time for those most often asked questions again, so here are the latest ones that have come in recently to Maryann Beckman, food marketing agent, Kalamazoo.

"Can some pork products be eaten without further cooking? I've always let my kids eat raw hotdogs thinking they're safe. Are they?"

Yes, some pork products can be eaten without further cooking with no problem, IF they have been cooked or completely cured in the processing.

All hot dogs and some hams on the market are fully cooked, for example, and can be eaten without further cooking. However, make certain the label says "fully cooked," especially on hams, before eating them without further cooking.

Also, many products that are fully cooked will have an even better flavor if they're heated first.

"Why do so many nutritionists say that snacking is so bad for you these days? Doesn't it depend more on what you eat?"

Correct — what you eat is more important than when you eat it. If you eat a combination of foods from the Basic Four food groups, your between meal snacking can be very nutritious.

Plan on snacks especially from the milk and dairy products group and the fruits and vegetables group as being among those best for you. The reason many nutritionists don't recommend snacking is because too often people snack on only the calorie-empty nutrition foods such as carbohydrates, bread and cereal products and soda pop.

Adapting to the situation, the body becomes very efficient at converting food to stored fat. Again, though, the key word in the whole study is "managed" snacking on the proper foods.

Is it safe to buy food in dented cans?

Yes, if you check those cans carefully before buying. Check first to see if the dent goes into the seam line of the can (not the seam line of the label). If it does, it may be unsafe to buy that can, for that dent may damage the seam, cause the can to leak and/or the food to spoil.

Also, if a dent is on or near the top or bottom lid-end of the can, it may also break the seal and therefore cause even a pin-prick hole which would cause the contents to spoil. Never buy cans that have bulging lids or those that are leaking. This is a sign that the contents have already spoiled and are unsafe to eat.

Dented cans are more prevalent these days than they were 20 years ago, because can materials are lighter in weight and more susceptible to damage. These lighter weight cans were designed to help keep weight and therefore shipping costs down. So look carefully at dented cans before you buy them — but go ahead if the dents don't damage the seams, lids and/or contents.

Many times stores even offer special savings on dented cans relatively soon after purchase, too, rather than keeping them for long time storage. If you plan to store them on the cupboard shelf for several months, then buy the best cans available.

South didn't like that opening club lead which obviously was a singleton. In fact, he liked very little about his contract, but it was up to him to try to make it.

He led a low heart at trick two. West held the trick with his 10 and shifted to a diamond.

South won in dummy with the ace, discarded a heart and led dummy's last heart.

West won that trick with his jack and led a second diamond which South ruffed. Now South led a third heart and ruffed in dummy. Both opponents followed and South saw a little light at the end of the tunnel.

He played dummy's ace of trumps. East dropped the 10 and things looked much better. A second trump produced East's jack, South's queen and West's king. Another diamond was led and ruffed. Then South's nine of trumps pulled West's seven spot and South claimed his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's hand came from a New York reader who asked if East should have beaten the four-spade game described in today's article.

The answer is that he certainly should have. He had nothing to lose by rising with his king of hearts on the second heart lead to enable him to give his partner a club ruff.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I sometimes bleed between my menstrual periods. I am married, have two children and have been told by my doctor that this should not be a source of concern. Do you agree that I should be relaxed about it?

Mrs. D.M., Mont.

In the light of your doctor's reassurance, certainly you should not be concerned about it.

A great many women develop anxiety by any variation from the normal pattern of menstrual bleeding. Sometimes there is a longer stretch of bleeding. Occasionally, it may be more profuse.

These temporary variations are allowable, within the range of normalcy.

In general, bleeding between the menstrual cycle may have more important meaning. Fibroid tumors of the uterus (womb), tumors and polyps of the cervix, endometriosis, or hormone imbalances may all be responsible for changes in the pattern of vaginal bleeding.

The onset of the menopause, or change of life, can cause marked irregularities in vaginal bleeding.

Your doctor has assured you that none of these problems exists. Readers who may have similar problems should, of course, be examined to be sure that they, too, are free of any important undisclosed reason for vaginal bleeding.

A cousin of mine spends the night with us about three times a year. We just learned that he has a mild case of tuberculosis. I am frantic because he always plays with the children.

Mrs. B.L., N.C.

Dear Mrs. L.: Your letter was obviously "frantic." It was for this reason that I wrote directly to you, in an effort to reduce your panic.

Unfortunately, time does not permit me to do this very often. As I told you, the chances are insignificant that you or any member of your family might have been infected during these short visits.

Nevertheless, it is wise that everyone in the family have an X-ray of the chest, a general physical examination, blood studies, and patch tests of the skin in order to definitely rule out a vague possibility.

To live in a constant state of anxiety about a problem does you and your family a great injustice.

Let me take advantage of this letter to say that tuberculosis, contrary to general opinion, is still a very active and flourishing disease. Fortunately, the new drugs are most successful in controlling this condition once it is diagnosed early.

Ford's Confident; Carter Trying To Gain Strength

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford's camp was confident of victory today over Republican challenger Ronald Reagan in Illinois' presidential primary, while Jimmy Carter sought in a four-way race to strengthen his bid for the Democratic nomination.

As the candidates wound up campaigning Monday for the Midwest's first primary, Carter, the former Georgia governor, and Sargent Shriver both criticized Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. And Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace insisted his partial paralysis would not impair his ability to be president.

In a state in which the Democratic vote is dominated by Mayor Richard J. Daley's Chicago machine, Carter was trying to finish off Wallace's presidential bid, while the Alabama governor fought to repair damage from Carter's victory in the Florida primary last week. Shriver, out of funds after beatings in New England, hoped the mayor's ward workers would rescue his candidacy.

Reagan, meanwhile, predicted some time ago he would lose Illinois to Ford, and both Republicans finished their work in the state Saturday. Also gone was former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, the only other Democrat on the ballot, who spent little time in Illinois.

On election eve, Ford made telephone calls from Washington to fire up his Illinois troops and Wallace criss-crossed the state by airplane, stopping in Danville, Mount Vernon, Alton and Springfield.

Election officials forecast that fewer than half of the 5.78 million registered voters would turn out for presidential voting.

Former Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, Ford's state chairman, predicted a comfortable victory and said if Reagan polls only 45 per cent "he should think about getting out."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the President's honorary Illinois campaign manager, predicted easy victory over Reagan. Percy forecast a 55 per cent triumph and said at a news conference, "Anything over 55 per cent will be an absolutely striking victory for President Ford."

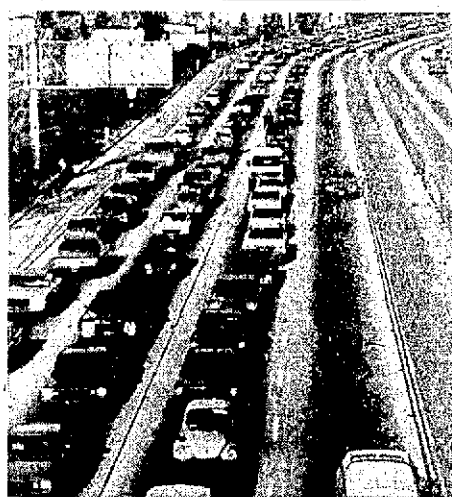

However, Reagan has said he would consider himself successful with anything over 40 per cent of the vote.

Voting in the presidential primary — from 7 a.m. EST to 7 p.m. — was overshadowed by a Democratic gubernatorial primary in which incumbent Daniel Walker was challenged by Daley-backed Secretary of State Michael J. Hurdell.

There were two phases to the presidential voting. The so-called preference primary, or "beauty contest," gauges the popularity of the candidates but nets them no delegates to the national conventions.

The Democrats, in addition, will elect 155 delegates from the 24 congressional districts and choose 14 more later in their state convention. The Republicans will pick 66 and select five more later.

All the presidential candidates are seeking a share of

Bulk Mail Piled High In Chicago

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service disclosed the existence of a huge pile of damaged mail at the Chicago post office only after congressional investigators had learned of the problem, two Capitol Hill sources say.

The Postal Service, in an announcement Monday, said that 3.7 million articles, mostly books, were being stored in the Chicago post office after new mail-handling machinery had torn them from their original wrappers.

One member of the House Post Office Committee later called the announcement "the first major admission by the Postal Service about the bulk mail system. The only problem is that we already knew about the situation in Chicago."

The $1 billion bulk mail system, which is scheduled to be completed this month, uses automated methods of handling parcels and sacks of second-class and third-class mail.

A House subcommittee has been investigating the bulk mail system for months and will hold hearings on the subject later this month.

Subcommittee Chairman Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., last week found thousands of damaged parcels during a surprise visit to the Detroit post office.

A subcommittee staffer, who had visited the Chicago office, said, "We knew about the Chicago situation so they figured they would go ahead and release it."

A Postal Service spokesman replied, "We simply decided to go public with the findings of our own internal investigation and to take some action based on it."

The Postal Service, in addition to revealing the loose items in Chicago, acknowledged there are additional problems caused by new mail-handling machinery "in which the bugs haven't all been worked out yet."

The parcel-mailing problem mainly involves book packages sent by commercial mailers, rather than ordinary parcels sent by individuals or small book shippers from book clubs to members.

"We are today requesting the major book mailers to use stronger wrapping materials," the spokesman said. In addition, he said the Postal Service will process by hand those parcels of books weighing 25 pounds or more, instead of putting them through the automated system.

The sender and intended receiver of most of the 3.7 million items are likely to remain unidentified, the spokesman said. Those items that cannot be delivered or returned to the sender will be auctioned off, he said.

Chicago serves as the "dead parcel" office for Illinois, Iowa and part of Michigan, he said.

The spokesman said the damage rate for parcels is about nine-tenths of 1 per cent in Detroit and between two-tenths and five-tenths of 1 per cent in most other facilities. He called this rate "not bad, not terrific. We're doing everything we can to reduce this."

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Association of School Boards said Monday it strongly opposes the concept of "regionalized bargaining." The MASHB's board of directors took the stand at a weekend meeting here, as the result of teacher organizations pressing for bargaining on a regional, instead of district-by-district, basis.

the delegates, and two Democrats who are not in the race also hope to pick up some convention-floor voting strength.

Daley is running slates committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, who says he is not a

DRAGONFLY STATUS SOARS

House Passes Prison Crime Bills

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bills aimed at deterring prison

crime and a measure to name the dragonfly as state insect are winging their ways to the Senate after approval Monday by the House.

Bills aimed at deterring prison crime were passed unanimously 104-0 in the House. They would levy harsher penalties on inmates who assault guards during attempted escapes and give longer prison terms for those convicted of assault.

Sponsored by Rep. Stanley Powell, R-Ionia, one measure would make it a felony for a prisoner to assault an employee, threaten assault or use a dangerous weapon to try to escape from any custodial facility, including hospitals.

The other bill would provide that a prison sentence imposed on a person convicted of a crime while in prison or any other custodial institution would begin only after the person's current term is completed.

Currently, inmates convicted of other crimes often serve their second sentence concurrently with their first, and spend no extra time in prison despite their second conviction.

Approval of the dragonfly bill was on a 84-16 vote. It followed debate last week that lavished praise on the bug, which preys on mosquitoes and, according to bill sponsor Rep. Ruth McNamie, "lives in perfect harmony with our environment and ecology."

Senate approval of the designation would rank the dragonfly with the robin as state bird, the trout as state fish, the white pine as state tree, the Petoskey stone as state stone, the apple blossom as state flower and chrysanthemum as the state gem.

In other action Monday, the House:

—Approved 99-1 and sent to the governor a bill to allow Michigan to accept gifts of historic sites or money to maintain them.

—Passed a bill barring insurance companies that offer maternity coverage from discriminating against women based on their marital status. The bill was approved 93-6 and sent to the Senate.

It is expected to make it easier for single women to get maternity coverage, and cheaper for married women to get the coverage.

Jail 'Em?

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — Calhoun County commissioners think they just might have the answer to the problem of runaway government spending.

The commissioners on Monday approved a resolution asking the state legislature and the Congress not to pass any more legislation which puts a financial burden on the county without also giving it the money to perform the task.

The resolution also says there ought to be a jail term and a fine handed out to any lawmaker who votes for any bill that further burdens county government. The commissioners suggested one month in jail or $1,000.

Indians Protest Claim Reductions

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A decision by the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs could cut in half the claims of some 4,500 Ottawa Indians to $10 million in federal payments, a top Indian official said Monday.

James Hillman, executive director of the State Indian Commission, said the BIA "overstepped its bounds" by deciding earlier this month not to accept the Michigan tribe's list of quarter-blood Indians.

"Federal authorities have no business trying to determine who a tribal member is," said Hillman. "That is an authority specifically left to the tribe." The State Indian Commission has asked President Ford to reverse the BIA decision, saying it was "contrary...in every effort of the Administration in recent years to correct the many injustices done to the Indian people."

By refusing to accept the tribe's list, called the Durant Roll, the BIA is trying to "water down" the $10 million awarded the Ottawas in 1972 for lands they ceded in an 1836 treaty, Hillman said.

The state's 4,500 Ottawas of at least one-fourth Indian blood are eligible for about $2,200 each, Hillman said. But if claims are awarded to any Ottawa descendant, no matter how remote, 9,000 qualify for awards of only $1,100, he said.

"We feel this is preposterous, since when the BIA gives out scholarships it requires one-quarter blood quantum to be met, but when it is the Indians' money, they want it watered down," said Hillman, a Menominee Indian. "This leaves virtually nothing for Indians who have maintained their identity down through the years."

Congress has approved distributing the grant to only quarter-blood Ottawas. Hillman said he feels the BIA action is in retaliation against the Ottawas because the tribe successfully overcame the BIA's proposal to distribute the money to all Ottawa descendants.

The BIA action also apparently will end scholarships for 300 Ottawa children who have qualified because of their quarter-blood, Hillman said.

They apparently will lose their grants this September, he said.

In the past, the BIA awarded grants and gave job training and placement services to Ottawas on the basis of the Durant Roll. If that list is no longer accepted, services will end, Hillman said.

Claim Warren Judge Implicated

DETROIT (AP) — Five taped conversations implicate Warren District Court Judge Roy N. Gruenberg in plots to fix criminal cases, the director of the state Judicial Tenure Commission said Monday.

Brian McMahon offered the tapes as evidence at a hearing on 17 misconduct charges against Gruenberg.

Joseph Sulek, Gruenberg's attorney, objected to use of the tapes as evidence.

Kalamazoo County Circuit Judge Raymond Fox, presiding at the hearing, said he would rule on the objection today.

Charges against Gruenberg include case-fixing, improper campaign fund-raising and public drunkenness. The taped conversations allegedly involve Gruenberg and several others including Roger Ribnick, an admitted former burglar who agreed to assist in the probe of Gruenberg in exchange for dismissal of criminal charges against him.

Ribnick wore a radio transmitter under his clothes while he was cooperating with law enforcement officials, McMahon said.

In one case, Gruenberg allegedly offered to try to get probation for a friend of Ribnick's after a bribe of several thousand dollars was offered. The case was assigned to another judge. Gruenberg is charged with trying to influence its outcome.

McMahon said in another case, Gruenberg met with a man who was charged in a case before him with receiving stolen property. The meetings allegedly took place at the man's home and in the judge's chambers, both times with Ribnick present.

McMahon said the man, Robert Gowsky, later pleaded guilty to a reduced charge and was sentenced to a brief term of probation. He said that as a result of the same meetings, a drunk driving charge was dismissed against Gowsky's son, Robert Jr.

School Aid Money In Two Payments

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Because of a state cash shortage, Michigan school districts will get their school aid money in two payments for the third time this school year, the state Board of Education announced Monday.

The regular bimonthly school aid payment due April 1 will be split into two parts, with the balance paid May 1, the board said. The full payment totals $172.8 million.

State treasury officials have twice before split the payment in two parts rather than incur an unacceptably high deficit.

DRAGONFLY STATUS SOARS

House Passes Prison Crime Bills

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bills aimed at deterring prison

crime and a measure to name the dragonfly as state insect are winging their ways to the Senate after approval Monday by the House.

Bills aimed at deterring prison crime were passed unanimously 104-0 in the House. They would levy harsher penalties on inmates who assault guards during attempted escapes and give longer prison terms for those convicted of assault.

Sponsored by Rep. Stanley Powell, R-Ionia, one measure would make it a felony for a prisoner to assault an employee, threaten assault or use a dangerous weapon to try to escape from any custodial facility, including hospitals.

The other bill would provide that a prison sentence imposed on a person convicted of a crime while in prison or any other custodial institution would begin only after the person's current term is completed.

Currently, inmates of other crimes often serve their second sentence concurrently with their first, and spend no extra time in prison despite their second conviction.

Approval of the dragonfly bill

NATIONAL TREND

Heroin Addiction On Rise

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Heroin addiction is steadily increasing in the United States but has not yet returned to the peak years of the late 1960s, the National Institute on Drug Abuse said today. Experts believe there now are between 250,000 and 500,000 active heroin users out in treatment programs. "There is a steady increasing incidence of heroin abuse but not to the former epidemic levels," an institute spokesman said. Even now, experts in drug abuse cannot agree as to how many addicts there were between 1968 and 1970 when the heroin problem was out of control.

The institute released a new study today, representing the first attempt to measure heroin use, so the government can anticipate and respond if it should reach epidemic proportions again. Heroin use is estimated to be responsible for more than 70 per cent of the social cost of illicit drug use in the country.

"The drug abuse explosion of the late 1960s caught most of us off guard," said Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the institute director, in the foreword to the report. Eight years later, he said, there still is no documentation of estimates "of the numbers of heroin addicts, speed freaks, acid heads and hippies in Haight-Ashbury."

The institute, in cooperation with various federal health and law enforcement agencies, compiled what it calls a "Heroin Indicators Trend Report," which draws on a variety of sources of data to measure heroin use.

Virtually all of the indicators are up, the institute said.

The data includes reports from medical examiners on drug-related deaths, emergency rooms on drug-related episodes, hepatitis infections, the "street price" and purity of heroin sold illegally, state and local drug arrests and drug treatment program admissions.

"Based on the indicators reported," the institute said, "it seems apparent that heroin use has been increasing at a slow but relatively constant rate since mid-1973."

Heroin-related deaths reported by medical examiners in 24 major U.S. cities show a fairly steady increase, with 512 deaths in April, May and June last year. The number of deaths from methadone, a heroin substitute, jumped 18 per cent from the last quarter in 1974 to the first quarter in 1975 but declined during the next three months.

Emergency room reports from 600 facilities in 21 major cities also show "a relatively steady increase in the number of heroin-related ... episodes" from July 1973 through June

Recreation Trail Idea Hits Flak

By Associated Press

Some residents in a three-county area of southeastern Lower Michigan are unhappy with a state proposal to develop an abandoned railroad right-of-way into a recreational trail.

Waterloo Township Planning Commission Secretary Wilbur Tisch contended the trail along a 31-mile stretch of abandoned track will bring in an "influx of people who are totally irresponsible" and dump them in his Jackson County Township.

activities of the Soyol Union and Cuba in Angola, but U.S. officials said there was no previous indication from Equatorial Guinea that it was dissatisfied with the activities of U.S. representatives.

At the invitation of Equatorial Guinea's President Francisco Macias Nguema, Spiro and Mitchofer visited the country from March 4 to 9 and were accorded a warm reception. State Department officials said.

However, at the end of the visit, their escort officer, Deputy Protocol Director Santiago Ensoybiya Nchurnu, handed the Americans a five-page letter that cast "unwarranted and insulting slurs" on them, a State Department spokesman said.

While refusing to release the letter, a U.S. official described the letter as a "rambling, polemical, at times almost incomprehensible document and difficult to summarize in a rational way."

"It begins with the assertion that it is a private communication and not written in the name of the Equatorial Guinean government."

The letter goes on to praise the economic accomplishments of the Equatorial Guinean government, describing a number of projects which Santiago claims were "paid for in cash," the U.S. official said.

Diplomatic Ties Broken By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Equatorial Guinea because the small African nation violated "accepted norms of international diplomacy" by barring two American diplomats, the State Department says.

U.S. officials also said Monday the suspension came after an official of Equatorial Guinea sent an "insulting" letter to the two Americans as they concluded a visit there earlier this month. The letter was followed by a telegram last week declaring the two officials persona non grata, thus barring them from the country.

The two Americans were Ambassador Herbert J. Spiro and Consul William C. Mitchofer Jr., who serve in neighboring Cameroon but are also accredited diplomats to Equatorial Guinea.

The United States has not maintained a full-time diplomatic mission in Equatorial Guinea since 1971, when a U.S. diplomat there murdered another American official in what was alleged to be a "quarrel over a homosexual act."

Equatorial Guinea, a little larger than Vermont, is located on Africa's west coast. It obtained independence from Spain in 1968.

Psychiatrist Leave Jury With Puzzle

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five psychiatrists who probed Patricia Hearst's psyche have given the jurors at her bank robbery trial puzzling and contradictory portraits of the world inside her mind.

Three doctors called by the defense pictured her as a freed "prisoner of war," still in the throes of "survivors' syndrome." They insisted she was so psychologically debilitated that she could not have robbed a bank voluntarily.

Two experts testifying for the prosecution saw a different woman — one who was a voluntary bank robber, an enthusiastic convert to terrorism and a "queen" of the revolutionaries who had kidnaped her. They insisted she was not mentally ill nor in fear she would be killed if she didn't rob the bank.

The expert psychiatric testimony which wound up Monday was sprinkled with colorful metaphors, if not a definitive insight into the defendant's mental state. Defense Atty. F. Lee Bailey was poised to begin rebuttal testimony today.

"She was the only private in an army of generals," said Dr. Martin Orne, a defense psychiatrist supporting his thesis that if she were a true SLA convert "she would have insisted on a promotion."

"She was a queen in the Symbionese Liberation Army," said prosecution witness Dr. Joel Fort. "She brought them international recognition. She particularly enjoyed the status and the recognition this brought her."

Dr. L.J. West, hired by the defense after he submitted a court-ordered report on Miss Hearst's competence to stand trial, said that after she was locked in a closet for 57 days she became "acutely regressed, childlike and developed a dependence on her captors."

Dr. Fort said she probably joined the SLA within two weeks after her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping. "As I reconstructed it, by March 1, she had become a voluntary member of the SLA,"

PATRICIA HEARST
Contradictor portraits

he said.

Dr. Robert J. Lifton, an authority on prisoner-of-war brainwashing called by the defense, compared Miss Hearst to a released captive of the Red Chinese. He described her defiant clenched-fist salute upon arrest as "the last gasp of compliance and profound confusion" of one still unsure the torment of captivity was over.

But the last psychiatrist to testify for the government, Dr. Harry Kozol, saw no reason to compare Miss Hearst to prisoners of war. Instead, he portrayed her as a girl "ripe for the plucking" when she was kidnaped, a "spiritual sister to the SLA," "a rebel in search of a cause."

Marquette Prison Bomb Disarmed

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — State Police bomb experts successfully disarmed a shoe-box-sized bomb package received in the mail Monday at Marquette State Prison.

The bomb was the second mailed to a state corrections facility in a week. A similar explosive package was detonated by bomb experts Friday at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson.

There were no injuries in either incident.

Officials at Marquette said they noticed the bomb in the mail because it carried the same phony return address as the package received in Jackson. They declined to reveal the address.

The package was taken to a snow bank at the prison, and bomb experts from Negaunee disarmed it by disconnecting some batteries.

Officials said the bomb was a combination of gunpowder and nitrous cellulose. The package was addressed to "current hallmaster," a security position inside the prison.

Marquette Prison Bomb Disarmed

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — State Police bomb experts successfully disarmed a shoe-box-sized bomb package received in the mail Monday at Marquette State Prison.

The bomb was the second mailed to a state corrections facility in a week. A similar explosive package was detonated by bomb experts Friday at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson.

There were no injuries in either incident.

Officials at Marquette said they noticed the bomb in the mail because it carried the same phony return address as the package received in Jackson. They declined to reveal the address.

The package was taken to a snow bank at the prison, and bomb experts from Negaunee disarmed it by disconnecting some batteries.

Officials said the bomb was a combination of gunpowder and nitrous cellulose. The package was addressed to "current hall-master," a security position inside the prison.

Heroin Addiction On Rise

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Heroin addiction is steadily increasing in the United States but has not yet returned to the peak years of the late 1960s, the National Institute on Drug Abuse said today. Experts believe there now are between 250,000 and 500,000 active heroin users not in treatment programs.

"There is a steady increasing incidence of heroin abuse but not to the former epidemic levels," an institute spokesman said. Even now, experts in drug abuse cannot agree as to how many addicts there were between 1968 and 1970 when the heroin problem was out of control.

The institute released a new study today, representing the first attempt to measure heroin use, so the government can anticipate and respond if it should reach epidemic proportions again. Heroin use is estimated to be responsible for more than 70 per cent of the social cost of illicit drug use in the country.

"The drug abuse explosion of the late 1960s caught most of us off guard," said Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the institute director, in the foreword to the report.

Eight years later, he said, there still is no documentation of estimates "of the numbers of heroin addicts, speed freaks, acid heads and hippies in Haight-Ashbury."

The institute, in cooperation with various federal health and law enforcement agencies, compiled what it calls a "Heroin Indicators Trend Report," which draws on a variety of sources of data to measure heroin use.

Virtually all of the indicators are up, the institute said.

The data includes reports from medical examiners on drug-related deaths, emergency rooms on drug-related episodes, hepatitis infections, the "street price" and purity of heroin sold illegally, state and local drug arrests and drug treatment program admissions.

"Based on the indicators reported," the institute said, "it seems apparent that heroin use has been increasing at a slow but relatively constant rate since mid-1973."

Heroin-related deaths reported by medical examiners in 24 major U.S. cities show a fairly steady increase, with 512 deaths in April, May and June last year. The number of deaths from methadone, a heroin substitute, jumped 19 per cent from the last quarter in 1974 to the first quarter in 1975 but declined during the next three months.

Emergency room reports from 600 facilities in 21 major cities also show "a relatively steady increase in the number of heroin-related ... episodes" from July 1973 through June 1975, the report said, and there has been a "dramatic increase" in the number of hepatitis cases associated with new heroin users.

On the street, drug experts found, the retail price of heroin dropped from $2.71 per milligram the last quarter of 1974 to $2.34 the second quarter of 1975, while the purity of heroin sold illegally was going up. "As the purity of heroin increases and the price declines, availability of heroin increases," the report said.

Written Permission

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has approved legislation which would require outdoors enthusiasts to make a greater effort to get permission to use another person's land.

Under the bill, passed 27-0 and sent to the House Monday night, no one could enter or remain on another person's land in southern Lower Michigan without written permission. The bill would apply to any recreational purpose, such as hunting, fishing, snowmobiling, camping or hiking.

In the northern half of the state, one would need verbal consent if the land was fenced or enclosed and posted against entry. Signs must be at least two inches high and visible from any point of entry onto the land.

The bill would prohibit the entry upon any farmland or connected wood lots anywhere in Michigan for recreational purposes without written consent.

Current law requires only verbal consent to enter onto private land, lawmakers said.

Recreation Trail Idea Hits Flak

By Associated Press

Some residents in a three-county area of southeastern Lower Michigan are unhappy with a state proposal to develop an abandoned railroad right-of-way into a recreational trail.

Waterloo Township Planning Commission Secretary Wilbur Tisch contended the trail along a 31-mile stretch of abandoned track will bring in an "influx of people who are totally irresponsible" and dump them in his Jackson County Township.

activities of the Soviet Union and Cuba in Angola, but U.S. officials said there was no previous indication from Equatorial Guinea that it was dissatisfied with the activities of U.S. representatives.

At the invitation of Equatorial Guinea's President Francisco Macias Nguema, Spiro and Mithoefer visited the country from March 4 to 9 and were accorded a warm reception, State Department officials said.

However, at the end of the visit, their escort officer, Deputy Protocol Director Santiago Ensobiyi Nchama, handed the Americans a five-page letter that cast "unwarranted and insulting slurs" on them, a State Department spokesman said.

While refusing to release the letter, a U.S. official described the letter as a "rambling, polemical, at times almost incomprehensible document and difficult to summarize in a rational way."

"It begins with the assertion that it is a private communication and not written in the name of the Equatorial Guinean government."

The letter goes on to praise the economic accomplishments of the Equatorial Guinean government, describing a number of projects which Santiago claims were "paid for in cash," the U.S. official said.

Diplomatic Ties Broken By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Equatorial Guinea because the small African nation violated "accepted norms of international diplomacy" by barring two American diplomats, the State Department says.

U.S. officials also said Monday the suspension came after an official of Equatorial Guinea sent an "insulting" letter to the two Americans as they concluded a visit there earlier this month. The letter was followed by a telegram last week declaring the two officials persona non grata, thus barring them from the country.

The two Americans were Ambassador Herbert J. Spiro and Consul William C. Mithoefer Jr., who serve in neighboring Cameroon but are also accredited diplomats to Equatorial Guinea.

The United States has not maintained a full-time diplomatic mission in Equatorial Guinea since 1971, when a U.S. diplomat there murdered another American official in what was alleged to be a "quarrel over a homosexual act."

Equatorial Guinea, a little larger than Vermont, is located on Africa's west coast. It obtained independence from Spain in 1968.

Proposed Galien Schools Budget Shows Deficit

GALIEN — The Galien school board last night adopted a preliminary budget for next school year with estimated costs at 2.6 per cent over this year.

The preliminary budget calls for expenditures next year of $1,079,410. This year's budget is $1,079,123.

Dr. Robert Tilmann, superintendent, said the budget was based on income of $1,079,182, meaning the district would have a $28,228 projected deficit in income against expenses.

Dr. Tilmann said the deficit was caused by reductions in state and federal aid next year.

He said the budget envisions maintaining the present academic programs next year, but cuts were made in non-academic areas.

The budget will be submitted to the county tax allocation board for tax allotment purposes. It calls for an operating millage of 27.075, the same as this year's.

The budget calls for $689,890 to be spent for instruction next year, $18,379 more than was to be spent during the present year.

Other costs estimated for next year, with this year's figures in parentheses, are administration, $58,333 ($58,551); transportation, $86,450 ($85,050); and operations, $64,650 ($68,325).

The budget predicts state aid will be down next year by $14,251 and federal aid will be reduced by $9,900.

State aid for next year was estimated at $663,969, compared to $678,220 this year. Federal aid was estimated at $32,000 next year, compared to $11,600 this year.

Revenue from local sources was estimated at $381,013 next year, $340 less than this year.

Next year's student population was estimated at 328, compared to 317 attending classes last month.

In other areas, the board appointed a team to begin contract negotiations for next year with the teachers.

Named to the team were board members William Geik, Dean Lozmack and Ronald Freehling. Dr. Tilmann will also serve on the team.

The board approved hiring the Niles accounting firm of Rolfeder and Sundbissen to audit 1975-76 financial records. The firm's bid of $2,350 was the lowest of three submitted.

Long Lawton Teacher Pay Flap Ends In 5.5% Raise

LAWTON — The Lawton school board last night ended a 10-month contract dispute with its 41 teachers by approving a 5.5 per cent pay increase for them which is to be retroactive to last Sept. 1.

Supt. George Dannecker said the teachers yesterday morning had voted their approval of the contract which covers the 1975-76 school year.

The pay increase followed the recommendation of a fact finder called in last month because of the continuing stalemate between the board and the teachers' bargaining unit, the Lawton Education association.

Dannecker said the district would attempt to include the back-pay now owed to all teachers with their next checks, but he added that may not be possible because of depleted funds.

He said the pay increases would cause the district to incur a deficit of about $48,000 at the end of this school year. Even without pay increases, Dannecker said he had projected an $18,000 deficit.

Dannecker told the board it may have to consider borrowing to finish out the present school year.

With the pay increases, the total salaries for teachers this year will come to $345,485, according to Dannecker. Last spring, the board had tentatively budgeted $494,176 for teachers salaries and had offered no increases during the opening rounds of negotiations. The teachers had sought a 6.9 per cent pay hike for this year.

Under the contract approved last night, teachers with bachelor's degrees will receive annual salaries ranging from $8,500 for the first year to $13,408 in their 13th year. Teachers with master's degrees will receive annual salaries ranging from $9,000 for their first year to $14,822 in their 14th year.

While discussing the new contract last night, board members heaped praise on the education association for not threatening a strike and for continuing to perform extra duties such as acting as class advisors.

The board then accepted a written request from the association to open contract negotiations for the 1976-77 school year.

Robert Gane, school board president, said he would appoint a new negotiating team of board members at a special meeting scheduled for March 24.

Dannecker said the board would also have to adopt its tentative budget for the next school year at that meeting.

He said that if the millage rate does not increase for the next school year, the board would be forced to cut some programs.

In other areas, the board agreed to offer a $500 reward to anyone supplying information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for two acts of vandalism over the weekend.

Vandals drove cars over the high school football field leaving ruts from six to eight inches deep in the turf, and at the middle school, vandals broke into the shop classroom and caused an estimated $1,500 to $2,000 worth of destruction.

The board also agreed to pay a reward of up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone taking part in future acts of vandalism against school buildings and property.

John Allen, president of the sports boosters club, said club members would be willing to help put the football field back into shape on weekends.

The board voted its approval for submitting applications for two federally funded education programs for the next school year.

One of the programs applied for would, if approved, provide $26,078 in reading support instruction and would be a continuation of a program in effect this year.

The other program, if approved, would provide about $12,000 in assistance for school libraries.

Millions In Damage

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An ice storm in the first week of March caused at least $13.2 million in damage to public property in 24 counties, Gov. William Milliken said Monday. In addition, agricultural damage is put at another $18 million, while two state utilities suffered losses of up to $10 million each, Milliken said. No estimate has been put on private property damage. "This is a preliminary estimate by federal-state investigating teams," Milliken said of the public damage figure.

SJ Alters Crossing To Aid Handicapped

The St. Joseph city commission last night approved changes in traffic controls to improve the pedestrian crossing for the handicapped at the intersection of Niles avenue, Main and Hoyt streets.

The changes will move the present pedestrian crossing and four traffic lights south about 15 feet to the intersection of Main and Hoyt streets, according to City Manager Gerald W. Heppler.

The changes will cost a total of $4,596 of which $1,500 will be paid by the city and the remainder by the State Highway department, according to Heppler.

Among reasons given for the changes were requests by the Blossomland chapter of the National Association of the Physically Handicapped, for crossing improvements, according to Heppler.

The changes also call for constructing four wheelchair sidewalk ramps, installing push button walk signals near the location of the new traffic lights and prohibiting left turns from Hoyt onto Main.

Heppler did not know when the system would be installed.

Also at last night's meeting, which lasted about 15 minutes, the commission approved a $2,000 home repair direct grant for Mrs. Anna F. Biastock, 525 Upton drive, under the city's subsidized loan - direct grant housing repair program funded under Community Development.

According to Heppler, it was the fourth such direct grant approved by the city. The city was granted $17,000 in Community Development funds for the program of which $5,000 has been spent.

In other business the commission:

—Approved an easement agreement between the city and Schultz Roofing, Radio Island, involving the south half (12½ feet) of Industrial lane. The city vacated the 12½ feet to Schultz last October. The easement allows the city to maintain utility lines and allows Schultz to use the land.

—Approved the hiring of 33 election workers to be paid $25 for working during the city's general election April 5.

Payment

BANGOR — Payment of $164.50 to the Van Buren county Transportation Task Force to help provide public transportation for senior citizens and the handicapped was approved by the Arlington township board last night.

The figure represented 10 cents per person for the estimated 1,645 township residents, the board said. The board said governmental units in Van Buren county have been asked to pay the 10-cent per person figure for local financing of the project.

Two buses, to be stationed at the county skills center in Lawrence, will provide transportation. Task force officials said delivery of the buses is expected early in April, and the service is slated to begin shortly thereafter.

Telephone numbers and bus routes have yet to be established for the service.

In other areas, the board announced the township annual meeting will be held on April 3, at 1 p.m. in the township hall.

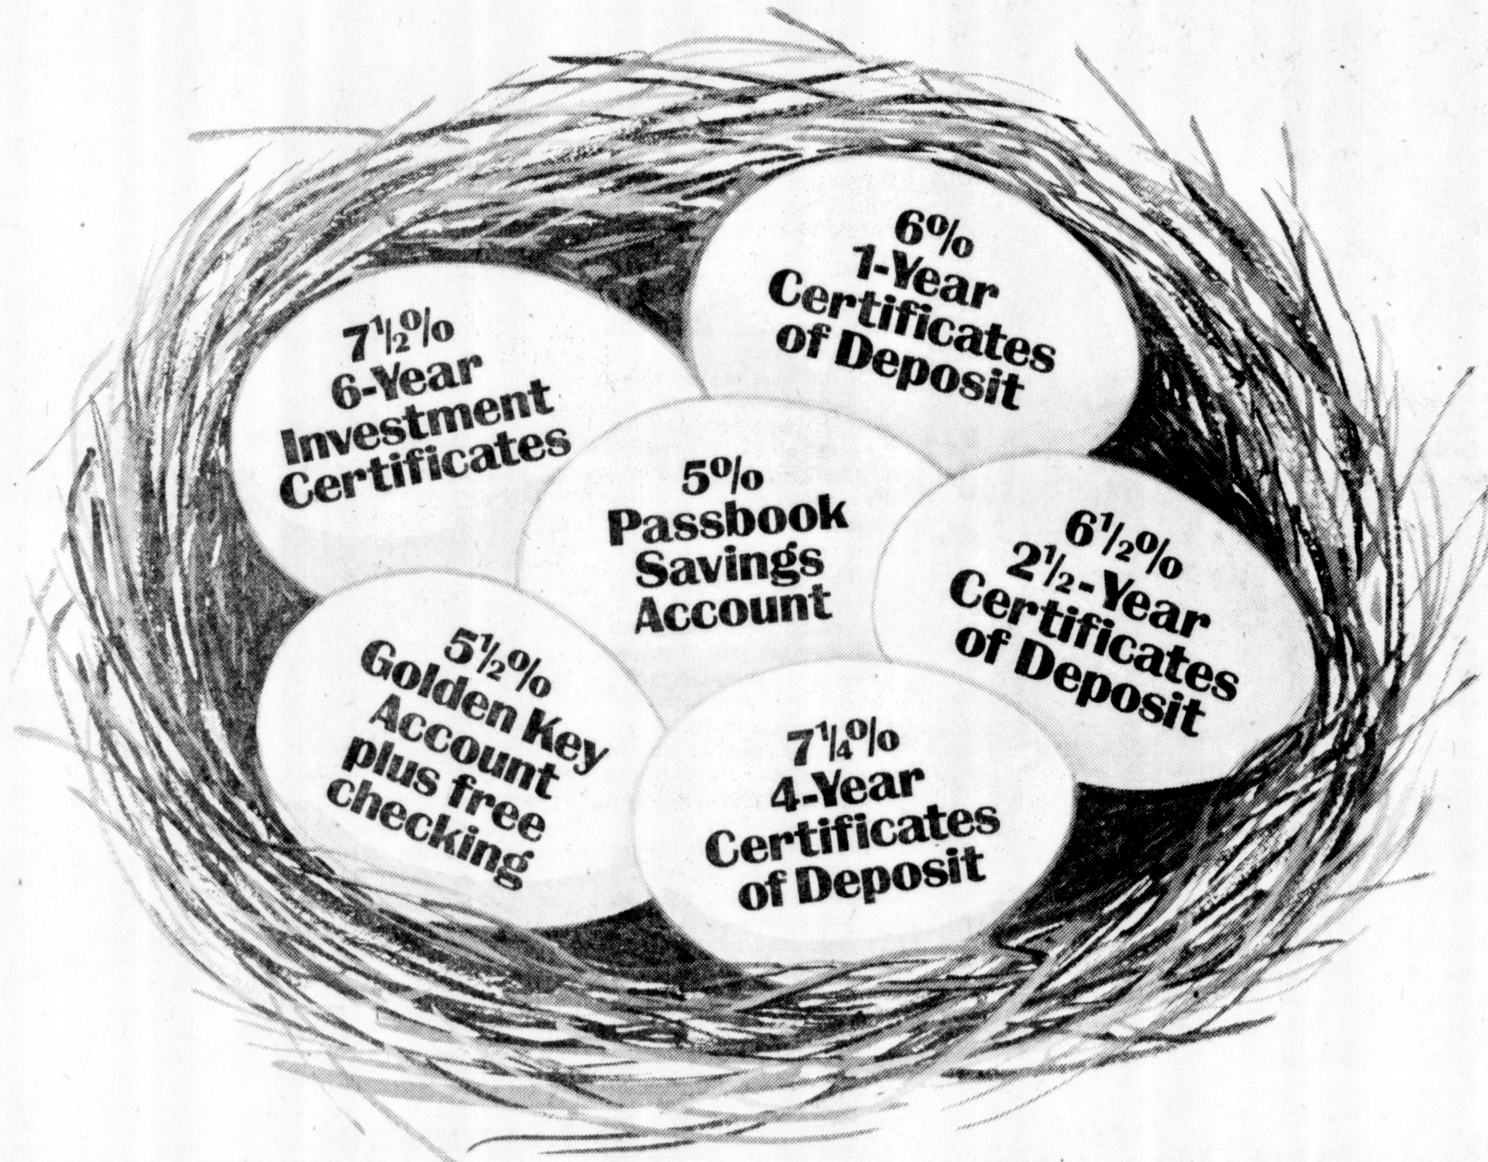

New dumping permit cards, effective April 1, may be purchased at the township hall Saturday, March 20, from 1 to 4 p.m. at a cost of $10 per year, the board said.

AFTER THE BOAT RIDE: This 19½-foot killer whale survived a 60-mile, eight hour boat ride Sunday and is reportedly doing well in its temporary aquarium pen in Seattle, Wash. One of six whales captured by Sea World, Inc., more than a week ago in southern Puget Sound, this one is too large to keep under federal rules and will be released. But first scientists plan to outfit it with a radio device to enable them to track the whale's travels. Three whales have escaped and the courts will determine the fate of the remaining two. ## Ex-Board President Endorses One-Mill BH School Tax Hike

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

A 1-mill tax increase to maintain Benton Harbor Area schools buildings last night drew support from a former board of education president and a call from the superintendent for all citizens to vote, regardless of their opinions.

The comments were voiced during the board meeting at Fairplain East school.

District residents today are voting on the 1-mill increase to run for five years. Also on the ballot is the renewal for one year of an expired 7.5-mill extra-voted operating tax.

Former Board President Oliver Rector said in his opinion, the 1-mill maintenance tax is needed and deserving of support.

Supt. Richard Helser said all citizens should exercise their democratic right to vote, regardless of whether they support or oppose the tax proposals.

Ervin Kampe, a former board member, questioned how much it would cost to operate the $2.4 million recreation center now under construction at the high school. He commented that money for construction was not obtained through a vote of the people. Kampe said he has asked the question previously on operation of the center.

He left the meeting last night after asking again, and it was left unanswered.

The 1-mill tax on the ballot today is for repair of existing buildings.

The center is being built by the City of Benton Harbor on land leased from the school district.

During the meeting, a slide presentation described the artist-in-the-school program. The program, based at Fairplain West school, is to encourage students to learn art of their choice, whether it be painting, crafts, or photography. The presentation was by Todd Morris, elementary curriculum specialist, and Mrs. Teddy Wells, artist-in-residence for the current school year.

In general business, the board appointed member Irene Fox to the Berrien county tax allocation board as district representative. It also changed its next work session to April 5. It normally would be April 12.

In personnel matters, the board terminated three probationary teachers, approved the hiring of two teachers, granted two leaves of absence, learned of one resignation, placed 42 teachers on second year probation, and 44 others on tenure.

Terminated for reported unsatisfactory work were Beverly Coleman, a second-year business teacher in the school-age mothers' program; Lora Peapples, a first-year elementary teacher; and Herbert Pringle, a third-year 7th-8th grade shop teacher.

Announcing plans to retire at the end of the current year is Lyda Lindendorf, a fourth grade teacher at Hull school who has served the district for nine years.

The following teachers were placed on second-year probation:

Company Sewer Hookup Approved By Coloma City

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission meeting in special session last night approved a request by the Coloma division of the Menasha Corp. to hook into the city's sanitary sewer system.

The action came four days before a state-imposed deadline for the firm to decide which of two systems it would use for disposal of both sanitary and industrial waste material.

The firm, according to James L. Polashak of the Coloma division, had been considering either a continuation of the existing lagoon system or use of the available city sanitary sewer system.

Polashak said the firm, located at 333 West Center street, will notify the state Natural Resources department of the decision in order to be granted a discharge permit to continue disposal.

Polashak estimated the average daily flow of waste into the city system at approximately 3,000 gallons.

The commission, in granting approval to the request stipulated that the firm comply with city requirements and the Paw Paw Lake Joint sewage operating board which oversees operation of the system.

The firm will pay for the installation of lines to the city's existing sewer system, at one of two locations, either along West street or Washington street near the firm's property.

Following the commission's approval, Polashak said the firm will meet with the commission's public works committee to learn the regulations and estimated costs for providing the service.

Before the action, Commissioner Fred Munchow read a letter to the commission from the Berrien county health department which indicated the present lagoon system used by the Wisconsin-based firm needed improvements and suggested the sanitary waste be disposed of through the use of a public sanitary system.

Following the meeting, Commissioner William Weybright, a member of the joint sewage operating board, said if the firm meets the requirements of the industrial waste ordinance it will be the first major company to use the $2.8 million plant.

Lakeshore School Board OKs $5.2 Million Budget

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

The Lakeshore school board last night approved a tentative budget of $5,254,800 for the 1978-79 school year.

MR. AMBASSADOR: William W. Seranton is sworn in as U.S. ambassador to United Nations at the White House Monday. He was sworn in by Associate Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart while Mrs. Seranton held Bible for her husband. (AP Wirephoto)

The allocation board annually divides among school districts, local governments and the county a 15-mill non-voted property tax rate for operating purposes.

Lakeshore's current budget is $4,882,186.

Galbreath said the preliminary budget represents an 8 1/2 per cent overall increase over the current figure. Part of the boost, he said, is "dedicated to the second-year salary increase of the current two-year master teaching contract."

Galbreath also said that due to new accounting procedures, the school lunch fund ($240,000) and athletic fund ($20,000) are now included in the overall budget.

Galbreath said the budget could be met without any increase in local property taxes primarily because of a projected sizeable boost in state aid.

According to the preliminary budget, the district was forecasting $2,676,000 from the state, compared to $2,648,342 this year.

The district's operating tax rate includes a 18.5-mill levy approved by voters for five years last year and an $3.379 mill rate allocated by the county allocation board for the current school year.

Other income sources for the preliminary budget showed $2,503,500 from local taxes; $50,000 from federal sources and $22,500 from intermediate school district sources.

Galbreath said that depending on the "state situation" hopefully the school board will not have to dip into a $500,000 plus, net fund equity.

Major preliminary budget expenditures outlined by Galbreath included $2,816,390 for elementary and secondary instruction salaries, compared to $2,695,993 this year.

Administrative salaries (at the central office) have been pegged at $107,750 compared to $104,654 this year.

Other major expenditures with the current year's figure in parenthesis are: Transportation, $303,500 ($274,944); operation, $420,800 ($391,330); maintenance, $181,100 ($105,190); fixed charges $350,800

($198,500); capital outlay, $176,700 ($135,000); and student services $333,200 ($315,500). The lunch fund and athletics now fall under student services.

In other areas, the board approved purchasing a Michigan Association of School Board's liability insurance policy designed to cover all school employees involved in civil suits stemming from school activities. Cost of the additional insurance is $1,400 per year.

The board approved an administrative regulation regarding principals' responsibility for evaluating teachers. Supt. Frederick Schmidt said the regulation complies with all aspects of the master teaching contract.

A 1976-77 school calendar, tentatively agreed to by the Lakeshore Education association several weeks ago, was approved. The calendar calls for 180-day school year for students, beginning Sept. 7, 1976, and ending June 10, 1977. Teachers will have a 185-day school year.

The board also appointed the accounting firm of Herkner, Smits, Miskill and Merrifield, Benton Harbor, as school auditors for the year.

The board approved the retirement of Mrs. Olive Veenendaal, 63, elementary teacher, effective the end of the current school year.

Dowagiac To Discuss Student Transfers

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board last night approved a series of public informational meetings to be held at each of district's elementary schools to discuss the impact of pending student transfers next fall.

School administrators will meet with parents and teachers at their respective elementary school on the following dates:

Tuesday, April 13, Patrick Hamilton; Thursday, April 15, McKinley; Tuesday, April 20, Sister Lakes; Thursday, April 22, Kincheles; Tuesday, April 27, Lincoln; Thursday, April 29, Justus Gage. All meetings will be at 7 p.m.

Beginning in the fall, as previously announced, high school students will be attending classes on split sessions in wake of the November defeat of a $3.2 million school construction bond issue. All of the district's 5th and 6th graders will be housed at Patrick Hamilton elementary, with 7th and 8th graders at the Central

Junior high.

All of the district's K-4 students will be housed at the remaining five elementary schools, which will require busing of K-4 Patrick Hamilton students to the other five elementary schools.

In other areas, the board voted to close out the high school's present building and trades class (home construction) at the end of the current school year. It was the general feeling of the board that the program has deteriorated since its inception four years ago.

The board approved the purchase of four new school buses at a total cost of $99,985. Two complete 78-passenger buses will be purchased from Greul Lakes Coach at a cost of $58,178. Two chassis at a total cost of $19,217, will be purchased from Bob Hove Fort, Dowagiac, and two 66-passenger bodies from Hockstra Truck Equipment, Grand Rapids, at a total cost of $13,590.

The board passed a resolution setting the annual school election for June 14. The terms of three board members expire this year and will be up for election. Expiring are the four-year terms of Richard Sifford and Kirby Dean Smith, plus two years of the remaining term of Wilton Wyman Jr., who was appointed last summer.

The board adopted the 1978-79 school calendar, which will run from Sept. 7 through June 13, 1979. Christmas vacation will be from Dec. 18 through Jan. 3, as requested by the Dowagiac Education association.

R. Gordon Anderson, business affairs manager, reported that the entire cost of athletics at the high school and junior high is projected at $85,221, with revenues at $19,806. The district general fund supports the difference ($65,415), which Supt. Lionel Stacey noted was about equal to one-mill in local property tax money.

Bainbridge Bicentennial 'Show-Tell'

The Bainbridge township Bicentennial committee will meet Saturday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m., in the Bainbridge township hall, according to Mrs. Marian Nichols, committee secretary.

Mrs. Nichols said the meeting is being called a "show and tell" gathering, with people attending the meeting with old articles of interest to detail a brief history on the items.

Any Bainbridge township resident, having an article of historic value or interested in the township's history may attend the meeting, Mrs. Nichols said.

Grower In Fennville Seeks To Gun Birds

FENNVILLE — Fennville city commission last night tabled a request from a farmer who wants to shoot at birds on his farm that is in the city limits. Charles Spencer said the birds have in the past damaged his fruit and other crops.

City officials said they will discuss at their April 5 meeting an amendment to a city ordinance that would permit the discharge of guns in the city if a permit is first obtained from city officials.

In other areas, the city commission set for its April 19 meeting a public hearing on an ordinance change necessary to proceed with plans to build a fourth lagoon in the city's sewage disposal system.

The lagoon is to be built on property located at the south end of Maple street. It is currently owned by Mrs. Raymond Lacey who is asking $8,000 for the property.

City commissioners said they want to arrange a meeting with the Lacey family for an appraisal of the property.

80 Per Cent For Salaries

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The average Michigan public school district spends 80 per cent of its operating budget for salaries, according to the latest state school figures. A study by the state Department of Education shows that 5 per cent of the operating budget of public schools is spent to buy instructional materials such as books, paper and other supplies. The remaining 15 per cent pays for administration, transportation and other operating expenses. The employee salary levels ranged from 74 per cent in school districts with 500 students or less to nearly 96 per cent in the Detroit school district, the study showed. An official of the Michigan Education Association (MEA), a state teachers union, said the biggest part of the budget should go into salaries because good teachers and administrators are necessary for good education.

Lakeshore School Board OKs $5.2 Million Budget

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

The Lakeshore school board last night approved a tentative budget of $5,254,600 for the 1976-77 school year.

William Galbreath, assistant superintendent of business affairs for the district, said the budget "is strictly a preliminary one" designed to give the Berrien county tax allocation board "an idea of what our district needs will be next school year."

The allocation board annually divides among school districts, local governments and the county a 15-mill non-voted property tax rate for operating purposes.

Lakeshore's current budget is $4,882,186.

80 Per Cent For Salaries

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The average Michigan public school district spends 80 per cent of its operating budget for salaries, according to the latest state school figures. A study by the state Department of Education shows that 5 per cent of the operating budget of public schools is spent to buy instructional materials such as books, paper and other supplies. The remaining 15 per cent pays for administration, transportation and other operating expenses. The employee salary levels ranged from 74 per cent in school districts with 500 students or less to nearly 86 per cent in the Detroit school district, the study showed. An official of the Michigan Education Association (MEA), a state teachers union, said the biggest part of the budget should go into salaries because good teachers and administrators are necessary for good education.

Dowagiac To Discuss Student Transfers

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board last night approved a series of public informational meetings to be held at each of district's elementary schools to discuss the impact of pending student transfers next fall.

School administrators will meet with parents at their respective elementary school on the following dates:

Tuesday, April 13, Patrick Hamilton; Thursday, April 15, McKinley; Tuesday, April 20, Sister Lakes; Thursday, April 22, Kinchloe; Tuesday, April 27, Lincoln; Thursday, April 29, Justus Gate.

All meetings will be at 7 p.m. Beginning in the fall, as previously announced, high school students will be attending classes on split sessions in wake of the November defeat of a $3.2 million school construction bond issue. All of the district's 5th and 6th graders will be housed at Patrick Hamilton elementary, with 7th and 8th graders at the Central junior high.

All of the district's K-4 students will be housed at the remaining five elementary schools, which will require busing of K-4 Patrick Hamilton students to the other five elementary schools.

In other areas, the board voted to close out the high school's present building and trades class (home construction) at the end of the current school year. It was the general feeling of the board that the program has deteriorated since its inception four years ago.

The board approved the purchase of four new school buses at a total cost of $90,985. Two complete 78-passenger buses will be purchased from Great Lakes Coach at a cost of $58,178. Two chassis at a total cost of $19,217, will be purchased from Bob Howe Ford, Dowagiac, and two 66-passenger bodies from Hoekstra Truck Equipment, Grand Rapids, at a total cost of $13,590.

The board passed a resolution setting the annual school election for June 14. The terms of three board members expire this year and will be up for election. Expiring are the four-year terms of Richard Sifford and Kirby Dean Smith, plus two years of the remaining term of Wilton Wyman Jr., who was appointed last summer.

The board adopted the 1976-77 school calendar, which will run from Sept. 7 through June 13, 1977. Christmas vacation will be from Dec. 18 through Jan. 3, as requested by the Dowagiac Education association.

R. Gordon Anderson, business affairs manager, reported that the entire cost of athletics at the high school and junior high is projected at $85,221, with revenues at $19,608. The district general fund supports the difference ($65,613), which Supt. Lionel Stacey noted was about equal to one mill in local property tax money.

"Brown Bag Lunch"

To you working gals and guys, who are becoming more budget minded...you will want to read our column today.

Lunch eaten out today are a major expense. It's no secret that lunch carried from home in a "brown bag" is much cheaper than a meal purchased in a restaurant or even the "fast food" restaurants.

A $2.50 a day lunch totals $625.00 over 20 working days in a typical year. A balanced lunch carried from home can cost as little as 50 cents, or about half what you would pay a restaurant for the same food. A carried lunch can also make good use of leftovers from last night's dinner.

The safest place to keep your lunch is in the office refrigerator, or an outside window ledge in winter. If no refrigerator is available, pack a freezer gel container in with your lunch, as you would with a picnic. Avoid foods such as baked chicken, baked ham, roast beef, fish, potato salad, egg salad, watermelon and all salad fillings made with mayonnaise, as well as non-perishable fruit.

If you fear some embarrassment in carrying the "brown bag" to your office, remember your fellow workers may follow suit. "Take your lunch and save a bunch."

Now down here is where I wanted you to shop SCHNECKS for all your lunch and other mealtime needs...where our "brown bag" is always loaded with savings.

recall Joseph and four "Clean Slate" commissioners, was called "a liar" by Joseph after criticizing consideration of funds for a newsletter while "garbage hasn't been picked up" and stating "it (Bishop) pay more taxes than the whole city commission."

The $20,000 earmarked for the senior citizens "companion project" was questioned by Betty Smith, director of the senior citizens center on Wall street, who charged that it was a "duplication of services."

"If I'm not doing the job, just tell me and I'll turn this over to somebody else," Mrs. Smith declared.

After the meeting she said that her request for $38,000 in Community Development funds from Benton Harbor had been trimmed to $25,000 by the advisory board and noted that the director of the "companion project," Carroll Johnson, was a member of the advisory board.

Johnson said during the meeting that his project was the "old Model Cities program" designed to "keep seniors out of nursing homes" and previously involved trips to "Washington...and other places."

Both Yarbrough and former Commissioner Carl Brown asked why funds for the Child Care Center were not included in the recommendations and Yarbrough said he had just received a letter from the center requesting funds.

Peebles said the total $14.4 million package could be amended up to 10 per cent without HUD approval and in total if HUD approved, but that the deadline for application would not permit delay in approving the proposal.

Projects and budget figures included in the Community Development proposal approved by the city commission last night:

1. Housing code enforcement, $18,000.
2. Housing rehabilitation, $74,000 (plus $254 in 1974-75 "carryover" funds).
3. Office of Economic Development, $40,000.
4. Central business district redevelopment, $154,000.
5. Recreation center, $478,000 (to help complete construction).
6. Recreation program, $80,000.
7. Dial-A-Ride subsidy, $48,000.
8. Senior Citizens Center, $25,000 (plus $20,000 for "companion project").
9. Mayor-commission office newsletter, $48,000.
10. Ombudsman office, $30,000.
11. Benton Harbor Youth Council teen center at 809 Territorial, $8,000.
12. Purchase of fire truck, $120,000.
13. Community Development department, $185,000.
14. Citizens Advisory Board, $12,000.

3,100 Layoffs Looming

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's money-short school districts say they will have to lay off more than 3,100 teachers next school year or raise property taxes by an average two mills to maintain current programs. According to a survey conducted by the Michigan Association of School Administrators, 296 of the state's 530 districts said they would need more operating millage even if Gov. William Milliken's school aid recommendations are adopted by the legislature. Without millage hikes, the 431 school districts responding to the survey predicted layoffs of 4,563 employees, including 3,124 teachers. "The general contents from the school districts all show that quality education in Michigan is in deep trouble, and the situation will grow even worse if the governor's recommendations are adopted," said Leonard Van Hoven, association president.

Children's Suit Slated

DETROIT (AP) — A suit to determine the constitutionality of parents' committing their children to mental hospitals without a court hearing will be heard in U.S. District Court, U.S. District Judge Corbetta Kennedy ruled last week that the case of an 11-year-old Westland boy seeking release from the Ypsilanti State Hospital is typical of all 500 Michigan youths confined under the state's new mental health code on their parents' signature only. A hearing by a three-judge court is expected on the issue. Judge Kennedy last week named a guardian for the Westland youth, John Campbell Jr., for the purposes of the court hearing and allowed Campbell's parents to formally ally themselves with officials of the state Department of Mental Health, defendants in the case.

Says Shot Was A 'Warning'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Army forces opposed to President Suleiman Franjeh said they fired a warning artillery shot at the hilltop presidential palace today as the Christian president tried to negotiate a face-saving way of meeting demands that he resign. "We only fired one round of artillery at his palace this morning," said Lt. Ahmed Alkhatib, whose force of Moslem deserters from the regular army has taken over army garrisons in many parts of Lebanon. "It was just a warning, just to make his knees quiver." Khatib did not say whether the shot hit the palace, and there was no confirmation of his claim from the palace or the office of Brig. Aziz Abiad, the commander of the Beirut garrison who proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon last Thursday and demanded Franjeh's resignation.

Thieves Turn Into Good Little Fairies

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Police are looking for burglars who cleaned up at a Hillsdale construction company last weekend.

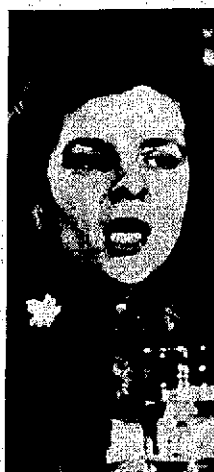

The thieves took office equipment, but later returned to the scene of the crime. They not only put the stolen items back in place, but swept the floor and dusted the furniture.

Lt. Errol Draper of the Hillsdale police said it was a good try, but the clean-up effort and apparent change of heart don't clear the thieves.

"We're still looking for whoever was responsible for the breaking and entering," he said. "It is kind of amusing, though. It's the first time I've heard of anything like this."

Douglas Foulke, president of Foulke Construction Co., reported the break-in and theft of his secretary's typewriter, clock, radio and calculator to police Sunday.

Then Monday, Foulke called police and told them all the items were back in place. He said the office had been left neat and tidy.

face an accuser and incur "astronomical" legal costs before an indictment was even issued.

Answering Neely's testimony without an indictment or formal charge would ignore the prosecution's Sixth Amendment obligation "to apprise the accused of the crime charged."

"Affidavits submitted by Delonis in support of Neely's illness" were "hearsay statements."

O'Brien also said the public accusation and anxiety of a public trial without the speedy guarantees normally afforded also violated his clients' rights. U.S. citizenship applications from the two women, both Philippine citizens, were being held up by immigration officials in Detroit pending outcome of the investigation, he said.

Dr. Rivlin, briefing reporters on the study, said her staff economists are optimistic about the course of the economy.

"Clearly, a quite strong recovery is in progress," she said.

The report estimated unemployment, which was 8.5 per cent in the last quarter of 1975, would range between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of 1976 and between 6.4 to 6.9 per cent by the end of 1977 if the "current policy" budget were law.

The consumer price index, a measure of inflation, under the "current policy" budget could go from 166 at the end of 1975 to 174 by the end of 1976 and to 183 by the end of 1977. On this scale, the 1967 consumer price level is 100.

Dr. Rivlin noted that the projections generally are the same as those Ford's advisors contend would result from his more restrictive budget, saying administration economists evidently are more optimistic about recovery than her staff experts.

Ford proposes holding spending below what it would reach under current policies and reducing income taxes by more than is provided for under current law.

Budget Officials Predict Economy 'Drag' In 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's budget proposals could slow down the "quite strong" economic recovery and boost the nation's unemployment, the Congressional Budget Office says. At hearings Monday before House and Senate budget panels, Congress' budget office said the outlook this year is for "fairly substantial" economic recovery but that if Ford's proposed budget is adopted without changes the economy will drag somewhat in 1977.

The office gave the panels a report on Ford's proposals and outlined alternatives on spending and taxes for fiscal 1977, which begins this Oct. 1. Under its new budget law, Congress faces a May 15 deadline to come up with targets for spending, revenue and deficits.

The report said the main issue Congress must face "is striking a balance between the stimulus the economy must have if it is to continue its recovery, and the restraint needed to avoid rekindling high rates of inflation."

Budget office director Alice Rivlin said economic restraint proposed by Ford could mean an unemployment rate at the end of 1977 that is six-tenths of 1 per cent higher — an increase of 500,000 unemployed — than would exist under a "current policy" budget.

The "current policy" budget, used by the Congressional Budget Office as a base from which to judge alternative budgets, continues current federal programs with adjustments for projected inflation and population growth.

Under that budget, the office estimated, spending would be between $418 billion to $425 billion and the deficit would range between $55 billion to $65 billion, depending on the strength of recovery. Ford's budget proposes $394 billion in spending and a $45-billion deficit.

Under Ford's budget, the Gross National Product by late 1977 would be 1.5 per cent lower than it would be under the "current policy" budget, the report said. The GNP roughly measures the value of all goods and services produced in the country.

The office said further that Ford's budget "would probably have little short-run effect on inflation," but after two or three years might yield an inflation rate three-tenths of 1 per cent lower than current policies would produce.

Dr. Rivlin, briefing reporters on the study, said her staff economists are optimistic about the course of the economy.

"Clearly, a quite strong recovery is in progress," she said.

The report estimated unemployment, which was 8.5 per cent in the last quarter of 1975, would range between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of 1976 and between 6.4 to 6.9 per cent by the end of 1977 if the "current policy" budget were law.

The consumer price index, a measure of inflation, under the "current policy" budget could go from 166 at the end of 1975 to 174 by the end of 1976 and to 183 by the end of 1977. On this scale, the 1967 consumer price level is 100.

Dr. Rivlin noted that the projections generally are the same as those Ford's advisors contend would result from his more restrictive budget, saying administration economists evidently are more optimistic about recovery than her staff experts.

Ford proposes holding spending below what it would reach under current policies and reducing income taxes by more than is provided for under current law.

Ford also favors raising the payroll tax supporting Social Security and phasing out some temporary job-creating programs. Democratic leaders

In Congress have been urging expansion of job programs. The law requires the Congressional Budget Office to assess effects of possible fiscal policies but forbids it from making recommendations to Congress. The report said budget decisions will be dominated by answers to five questions on spending and two on income.

The report said, spending decisions Congress must make concern military outlays to insure national security, levels of job-creating and unemployment compensation programs, the federal role in health care, aid to cities and states and pay levels for federal workers.

On revenue, it said, the questions facing Congress are how to fund Social Security and whether temporary income tax reductions should be continued or expanded. Ford has recommended an additional $10-billion tax cut, tied to spending cuts.

Berrien Springs Authorizes Pact

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night authorized Edgar Kesterke, village president, to sign a contract with the Community Emergency Service pending clarification of certain items.

The move now appears to clear the way for the CES to provide the Berrien Springs-Oronoko township area with emergency ambulance service. It was made contingent upon clarification of wording in the pact.

The service currently serves St. Joseph city and township, Lincoln, Royall and Sodus townships through a contract with Action Ambulance.

Dale Moon, village councilman, who has been meeting with representatives of the service and Oronoko township, told the council it appears the service can provide good service at a reasonable price. He said preliminary estimates have set the cost at about $2,000 for the village and $5,000 for the township, which has yet to approve the contract.

In other areas, Leslie Cripps, planning consultant for the village, reported that an amended agreement has been approved by the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), allowing the village to buy the old Berrien Springs high school building and grounds and demolish it, using HUD community rehabilitation funds.

The council authorized Cripps to seek bids for the demolition, which will be opened April 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall.

The council voted to have a study done on parking and traffic patterns on the first blocks of North Main and South Main streets.

The council also approved an amendment to an ordinance which would disallow the keeping of large-type farm animals within the village limits.

The Berrien Springs Jaycees also volunteered to cooperate with the village in the development of fishing facilities and improvements to Shamrock park.

Retired BH Pastor Walter Butgereit Dies In Florida

Rev. Walter F. Butgereit, retired pastor of Crystal Springs Church of God, Benton Harbor, died Saturday in Ellenton hospital, Ellenton, Fla. Rev. Butgereit was born in 1904 in Racine, Wis. He founded the Crystal Springs Church of God in October, 1923, to meet the need for an English-speaking church of God in the twin cities. He retired in 1963, after serving 40 years in the church.

Surviving are his widow, the

former Elsa Jesswein; a son, Leroy Butgereit, Eureka, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Marilyn) Deal, Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Clarys Butgereit, New York City; a brother Leslie, Benton Harbor and two sisters, Mrs. Florence Meridith, Anderson, Ind., and Miss Grace Butgereit, Berea, Ky.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today in Ellenton Burial in Mason Memorial Park, Ellenton.

Memorials may be made to the Ministerial student fund of Warner-Southern College, Lake Wales, Fla.

Local information was given by Kerley and Starks funeral home, St. Joseph.

recall Joseph and four "Clean Slate" commissioners, was called "a liar" by Joseph after criticizing consideration of funds for a newsletter while "garbage hasn't been picked up" and stating "I (Bishop) pay more taxes than the whole city commission."

The $20,000 earmarked for the senior citizens "companion project" was questioned by Betty Smith, director of the senior citizens center on Wall street, who charged that it was a "duplication of services."

"If I'm not doing the job, just tell me and I'll turn this over to somebody else," Mrs. Smith declared.

After the meeting she said that her request for $36,000 in Community Development funds from Benton Harbor had been trimmed to $25,000 by the advisory board and noted that the director of the "companion project," Carroll Johnson, was a member of the advisory board.

Johnson said during the meeting that his project was the "old Model Cities program" designed to "keep seniors out of nursing homes" and previously involved trips to "Washington...and other places."

Both Yarborough and former Commissioner Carl Brown asked why funds for the Child Care Center were not included in the recommendations and Yarborough said he had just received a letter from the center requesting funds.

Peoples said the total $1.4 million package could be amended up to 10 per cent without HUD approval and in total if HUD approved, but that the deadline for application would not permit delay in approving the proposal.

Projects and budget figures included in the Community Development proposal approved by the city commission last night:

1. Housing code enforcement, $116,000.
2. Housing rehabilitation, $74,000 (plus $254 in 1974-75 "carryover" funds).
3. Office of Economic Development, $40,000.
4. Central business district redevelopment, $154,000.
5. Recreation center, $479,000 (to help complete construction).
6. Recreation program, $80,000.
7. Dial-A-Ride subsidy, $45,000.
8. Senior Citizens Center, $25,000 (plus $20,000 for "companion project").
9. Mayor-commissioner office newsletter, $48,000.
10. Ombudsman office, $30,000.
11. Benton Harbor Youth Council teen center at 809 Territorial, $8,000.
12. Purchase of fire truck, $120,000.
13. Community Development department, $165,000.
14. Citizens Advisory Board, $12,000.

3,100 Layoffs Looming

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's money-short school districts say they will have to lay off more than 3,100 teachers next school year or raise property taxes by an average two mills to maintain current programs. According to a survey conducted by the Michigan Association of School Administrators, 296 of the state's 530 districts said they would need more operating millage even if Gov. William Milliken's school aid recommendations are adopted by the legislature. Without millage hikes, the 431 school districts responding to the survey predicted layoffs of 4,563 employees, including 3,124 teachers. "The general comments from the school districts all show that quality education in Michigan is in deep trouble, and the situation will grow even worse if the governor's recommendations are adopted," said Leonard Van Hoven, association president.

Children's Suit Slated

DETROIT (AP) — A suit to determine the constitutionality of parents' committing their children to mental hospitals without a court hearing will be heard in U.S. District Court. U.S. District Judge Cornelia Kennedy ruled last week that the case of an 11-year-old Westland boy seeking release from the Ypsilanti State Hospital is typical of all 500 Michigan youths confined under the state's new mental health code on their parents' signature only. A hearing by a three-judge court is expected on the issue. Judge Kennedy last week named a guardian for the Westland youth, John Campbell Jr., for the purposes of the court hearing and allowed Campbell's parents to formally ally themselves with officials of the state Department of Mental Health, defendants in the case.

Says Shot Was A 'Warning'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Army forces opposed to President Suleiman Franjeh said they fired a warning artillery shot at the hilltop presidential palace today as the Christian president tried to negotiate a face-saving way of meeting demands that he resign. "We only fired one round of artillery at his palace this morning," said Lt. Ahmed Alkhatib, whose force of Moslem deserters from the regular army has taken over army garrisons in many parts of Lebanon. "It was just a warning, just to make his knees quiver." Khatib did not say whether the shot hit the palace, and there was no confirmation of his claim from the palace or the office of Brig. Aziz Ahdab, the commander of the Beirut garrison who proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon last Thursday and demanded Franjeh's resignation.

Thieves Turn Into Good Little Fairies

ILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Police are looking for burglars who cleaned up at a Hillsdale construction company last weekend.

The thieves took office equipment, but later returned to the scene of the crime. They not only put the stolen items back in place, but swept the floor and dusted the furniture.

Lt. Errol Draper of the Hillsdale police said it was a good try, but the clean-up effort and apparent change of heart don't clear the thieves.

"We're still looking for whoever was responsible for the breaking and entering," he said. "It is kind of amusing, though. It's the first time I've heard of anything like this."

Douglas Foulke, president of Foulke Construction Co., reported the break-in and theft of his secretary's typewriter, clock, radio and calculator to police Sunday.

Then Monday, Foulke called police and told them all the items were back in place. He said the office had been left neat and tidy.

Budget Officials Predict Economy 'Drag' In 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's budget proposals could slow down the "quite strong" economic recovery and boost the nation's unemployment, the Congressional Budget Office says. At hearings Monday before House and Senate budget panels, Congress' budget office said the outlook this year is for "fairly substantial" economic recovery but that if Ford's proposed budget is adopted without changes the economy will drag somewhat in 1977.

The office gave the panels a report on Ford's proposals and outlined alternatives on spending and taxes for fiscal 1977, which begins this Oct. 1. Under its new budget law, Congress faces a May 15 deadline to come up with targets for spending, revenue and deficits.

The report said the main issue Congress must face "is striking a balance between the stimulus the economy must have if it is to continue its recovery, and the restraint needed to avoid rekindling high rates of inflation."

Budget office director Alice Rivlin said economic restraint proposed by Ford could mean an unemployment rate at the end of 1977 that is six-tenths of 1 per cent higher — an increase of 500,000 unemployed — than would exist under a "current policy" budget.

The "current policy" budget, used by the Congressional Budget Office as a base from which to judge alternative budgets, continues current federal programs with adjustments for projected inflation and population growth.

Under that budget, the office estimated, spending would be between $419 billion to $425 billion and the deficit would range between $55 billion to $65 billion, depending on the strength of recovery. Ford's budget proposes $394 billion in spending and a $43-billion deficit.

Under Ford's budget, the Gross National Product by late 1977 would be 1.5 per cent lower than it would be under the "current policy" budget, the report said. The GNP roughly measures the value of all goods and services produced in the country.

The office said further that Ford's budget "would probably have little short-run effect on inflation," but after two or three years might yield an inflation rate three-tenths of 1 per cent lower than current policies would produce.

Dr. Rivlin, briefing reporters on the study, said her staff economists are optimistic about the course of the economy. "Clearly, a quite strong recovery is in progress," she said.

The report estimated unemployment, which was 8.5 per cent in the last quarter of 1975, would range between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of 1976 and between 6.4 to 6.9 per cent by the end of 1977 if the "current policy" budget were in law.

The consumer price index, a measure of inflation, under the "current policy" budget could go from 166 at the end of 1975 to 174 by the end of 1976 and to 183 by the end of 1977. On this scale, the 1967 consumer price level is 100.

Dr. Rivlin noted that the projections generally are the same as those Ford's advisers contend would result from his more restrictive budget, saying administration economists evidently are more optimistic about recovery than her staff experts.

Ford proposes holding spending below what it would reach under current policies and reducing income taxes by more than is provided for under current law.

Ford also favors raising the payroll tax supporting Social Security and phasing out some temporary job-creating programs. Democratic leaders in Congress have been urging expansion of job programs.

The law requires the Congressional Budget Office to assess effects of possible fiscal policies but forbids it from making recommendations to Congress. The report said budget decisions will be dominated by answers to five questions on spending and two on income.

The report said spending decisions Congress must make concern military outlays to insure national security, levels of job-creating and unemployment compensation programs, the federal role in health care, aid to cities and states and pay levels for federal workers.

On revenue, it said, the questions facing Congress are how to fund Social Security and whether temporary income tax reductions should be continued or expanded. Ford has recommended an additional $10-billion tax cut, tied to spending cuts.

Bridgman Vote Lets Cook Plant Loss Stand

BRIDGMAN — Bridgman city commission last night voted five to one not to appeal a state boundary commission decision last week denying the city's attempt to annex a major portion of the Cook nuclear plant site and other land from Lake township.

Voting not to appeal were commissioners James Catania, Charles Gilmore, Marilyn Stanard and Vernon Stanard, and Mayor Ronald Gelesko. Vernon Stanard is an uncle of Mrs. Stanard's husband, Terry. Commissioner Alfred Tollas voted against the measure, but declined to explain his vote after the meeting. Absent from the session was Commissioner James Bembenek.

On March 10, the boundary commission denied the city's annexation bid. Irving Rozlan, Plymouth boundary commissioner, said the request was denied because insufficient evidence had been brought forth to approve annexation. In February of 1975, the commission announced it intended to annex about two square miles of land to the north of the city and west of I-94, including most of the Cook plant. City officials said the land and tax base were needed to meet financial needs. If approved, the annexation would have increased the city's tax base by about $121 million from the Cook land and another $27 million in the other areas.

At the time it launched the annexation bid, the commission said it would either have to annex or dissolve the city. David Calhoun, of Huntington Woods and chairman of the boundary commission, noted last week that to dissolve, two-thirds of registered city voters must first approve the proposal and then a majority of Lake township voters would have to approve acceptance of the city into the township.

The commission held no discussion on the possibility of dissolving the city, but Mayor Gelesko said a warning issued by the boundary commission to Lake township saying cooperation between the two units and the city should be sought was "of utmost importance."

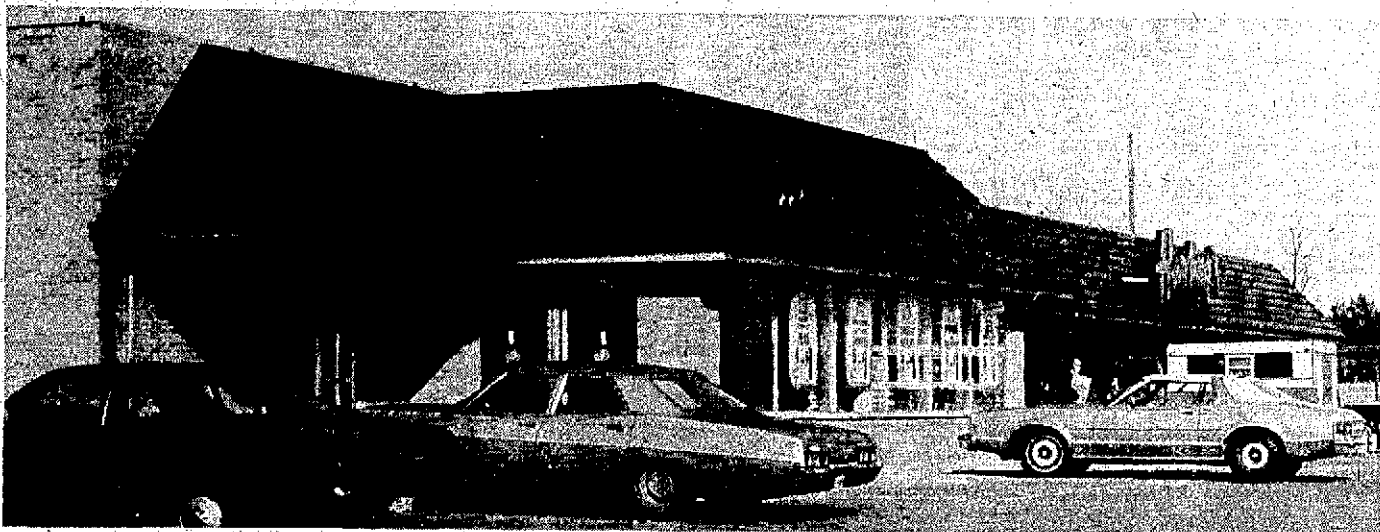

In other areas, the commission voted to petition Berrien county to renease and then make repairs to the Bedford drain. The action came after David Gieber, of Barger Engineering of St. Joseph, said repairs to the drain to correct flooding problems would cost an estimated $20,000. Gieber is to present a report on flooding problems on the William-Essig drain at the commission's April 12 meeting.

The commission authorized the city planning commission to hire a planning development expert to solve a problem involving a landlocked area west of Pine street and north of Lake street. No public street now serves the area and the commission said a street may have to be constructed to solve the problem.

Clarence Heyn was appointed to the civil service board to replace Howard Boyd. The term expires in 1980. Boyd stepped down from the civil service board saying that he is currently serving on too many other city boards.

The commission voted to undertake a formal study of construction of a boat ramp at Weko beach and said its park planning committee will meet Monday, March 28, to discuss development plans for the park. Approved were requests by the Christian Bible foundation to solicit city businesses for contributions, and to Ed Siemens to sell Lily lapel flowers for Easter Seals on Friday, April 9.

Cass Rejects Vocational Skills Center

CASSOPOLIS — Voters in the Cass Intermediate School district yesterday turned down for the second time in two years a property tax levy to finance construction of a vocational skills education center. According to preliminary returns, the vote was 1,710 in favor and 3,306 against the proposed levy of 1.9 mills property tax.

Arthur Towse, superintendent of the district, blamed the state-mandated increase in property assessments for the trouncing the proposal got.

"It (the vote) was a protest against property tax," Towse added.

The intermediate board, along with the boards from the four K-12 school districts in the intermediate district, had asked approval of the 1.9 mill levy that would have raised about $180,000 yearly at the local level to go along with a $912,300 state grant to build a $2.5 million center where high school juniors and seniors could take vocational training courses. The local levy was for an indefinite time period. A similar issue, a 3.3 mill property tax levy was defeated in April, 1974, by a 865 to 3,445 vote and a $1.1 million companion bond issue was beaten by a 915 to 3,356 margin.

Towse said the intermediate board will now have to hold a joint meeting with boards from Cassopolis, Dowagiac, Edwardsburg and Marcellus to decide where to go from this latest defeat.

The issue yesterday failed in three of the four K-12 school districts.

According to Towse, it failed by a 287 to 912 margin in Cassopolis; by 952 to 1,537 margin in Dowagiac; by 1,481 to 3,072 in Edwardsburg; but was approved by a 229 to 224 margin in Marcellus.

A father owing $231 in child support was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday in Berrien Circuit court while another dad with $5,253 arrears was threatened with jail if he doesn't find employment.

Both fathers were sentenced by Judge Julian E. Hughes. Special Investigator Edward Patrick of the Berrien friend of the court's office reported:

William Richard Allerton, Jr., of 857 Superior street, Benton Harbor, got the 30-day jail sentence for $231 arrears for one child on ADC. He was found in contempt of court, placed on two years probation, and ordered to pay $9 weekly support plus $3 weekly towards the arrearage. Hughes noted Allerton can be released from jail if he pays the arrearage.

Gary P. Zanini, of Buchanan, was held in contempt and placed on two years probation for $5,253 arrears for two children not on ADC, and was given 30 days to find work or spend 30 days in jail. He was also told to pay $76 weekly support.

Hughes said Allerton had not made any support payments at all, and Allerton claimed he couldn't find work in more than a year. The judge said Zanini had accumulated a large arrearage, but was making payments regularly until he was put out of work due to a plant closing at the end of last year.

South Haven Arrests, Crime Increases

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Criminal arrests kept pace with an increase in offenses in the city of South Haven during 1975, according to Police Chief Otto Buelow.

Police reported 1,201 criminal offenses during 1975 as compared to 1,061 in 1974. The number of criminal offenses cleared by an arrest in 1975 was 482 as compared to 373 in 1974.

The department arrested 687 people for offenses other than traffic violations in 1975. Of that total, there were 532 adults and 155 juveniles arrested. This compares to 314 total arrests in 1974 including 373 adults and 141 juveniles.

A marked increase in larcenies, particularly from vehicles, accounted for nearly the entire increase in offenses. The department investigated 449 larceny complaints during 1975 as compared to 338 in 1974. There were 128 complaints of a vehicle larcenies from last year as compared to 35 the previous year. Most of the complaints involved the theft of CB radios.

The 1974 fad of stealing bicycles waned last year as police investigated 56 stolen bike complaints as compared to 83 in '74.

The number of drunk driver arrests nearly doubled from the previous year (34 to 63), but the number of traffic tickets issued decreased from 1,027 to 781.

There was a decrease in burglaries (145 to 114) and vehicle thefts (21 to 13), but an increase in shoplifting complaints (32 to 45).

The value of merchandise reported as stolen in 1975 was $105,382. Police recovered merchandise valued at $22,408.

Other major crime complaint areas with the 1974 total in parentheses were: assault 90 (95), forgery 39 (43), vandalism 116 (128), narcotic laws 24 (16), drunk and disorderly 63 (65), other liquor laws 51 (13) and robberies 8 (10).

Men were arrested by more than a five-to-one margin over women, 579 to 108. In 1974 the margin had been six-to-one, 443 to 71.

Dowagiac To Ask State To Unsnag Its Sewer Bonds

DOWAGIAC — City officials here are planning a personal appeal in Lansing to try to get clear of a legal snag that has halted municipal building projects financed by bond issues all across the state. City Manager Henry Graper Jr. told the Dowagiac city council last night that the decision has prevented the city from selling its $800,000 bond issue that was to partly finance construction on a $3,977,000 addition to the city's present sewer treatment facilities.

And if the money is not freed by April 6, the city will lose the low construction bid and new bids will most surely be from three to five per cent higher, he said.

He estimated that delays beyond April 6 will cost the city $37,000 monthly.

Graper said the city's attorney is going to Lansing today to make a personal appeal for permission to sell the bonds or get Dowagiac's case before the courts.

In January, the appeals court in a decision said a statute requiring notification of bond sales in newspapers was unconstitutional.

Attorneys suspect the decision could force cities to start over again on pending bond sales and notify all landholders personally.

Sollitt Construction of South Bend was awarded the general construction contract in November with its $3,989,000 low bid.

But Graper said the company cannot be held to that bid unless construction starts before April 6.

In a related area, the council adopted an ordinance that requires private homes and industrial facilities to hook into the city sewer system.

The ordinance is required by the state's Department of Natural Resources for waste water expansion programs.

The council also voted to hire Dixon-Speas Associates of Minneapolis to prepare an application for federal funds for the proposed $1 million extension of the east-west runway at the Cass County Memorial airport.

Eighty per cent of the project is to come from federal funds. Ten per cent would come from state sources with the city contributing 10 per cent.

The council also voted to purchase for $15,500 the property of Michael and Helen McMaster at 109 West Division for use as off street parking.

Graper said it will accommodate 20 to 22 parking stalls.

The council boosted its allocation in the Boys' Baseball association from $800 to $1,800 and accepted the low bid of C.E. Hess excavators of Dowagiac for work on the first phase of a federally funded community development program.

The phase is for installation of water main lines and sanitary sewer lines on the southwest side of the city.

New Buffalo School Board Slates Millage Vote June 14

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board last night voted to place a property tax levy request on the June 14 school election ballot.

A 14.624 levy to finance school operations expired with the last tax collections.

Supt. Walter Schwarz said the school will ask for the renewal of that levy and will probably include a separate proposal for additional operating millage on the ballot as well.

He said the amount of extra millage the school will seek will not be determined until the state's plans for school aid next year are more clear.

The school this year levied a total 25.150 mills, including the 14.624 extra voted; 8.376 in county allocation; and 2.150 for debt retirement.

Also in a related field, Schwarz said 44 per cent of the district's taxes have been collected so far, far below the 83 per cent figure that had been expected.

In other areas, the board voted to purchase two bus bodies from Thomas Buses of Michigan, at its low bid of $11,430 each, and two chassis, for $15,190 total, from low bidder, Gersonite Equipment company.

Elementary Principal Robert Heit said parent-teacher conferences are slated for March 30-31 and grades three through five have scheduled a science and social studies fair for March 25, from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Mobile Homes Ordinance Beaten In Bloomington

BLOOMINGTON — Bloomington township voters rejected a proposed township zoning ordinance in a special election here yesterday. Harold Burleson, township clerk, said the vote was 36 to 178, according to an unofficial tabulation. He said 215 votes were cast totally, with one ballot spoiled.

Defeat of the ordinance, approved by the township board last October, also means defeat of four amendments to the measure adopted by the board in February, according to Burleson.

The ordinance and amendments would have allowed mobile homes anywhere in the township, restricted keeping of animals in residential areas to three dogs or cats and provided a minimum lot size of two acres for all new residential lots.

One of the amendments would have set a minimum fee of $125 for any person applying for an amendment to the zoning ar-

Bridgman Vote Lets Cook Plant Loss Stand

BRIDGMAN — Bridgman city commission last night voted five to one not to appeal a state boundary commission decision last week denying the city's attempt to annex a major portion of the Cook nuclear plant site and other land from Lake township.

Voting not to appeal were commissioners James Catania, Charles Gilmore, Marilyn Stanard and Vernon Stanard, and Mayor Ronald Gelesko. Vernon Stanard is an uncle of Mrs. Stanard's husband, Terry. Commissioner Alfred Tollas voted against the measure, but declined to explain his vote after the meeting. Absent from the session was Commissioner James Bembenek.

On March 10, the boundary commission denied the city's annexation bid. Irving Rozian, Plymouth boundary commissioner, said the request was denied because insufficient evidence had been brought forth to approve annexation. In February of 1975, the commission announced it intended to annex about two square miles of land to the north of the city and west of I-94, including most of the Cook plant. City officials said the land and tax base were needed to meet financial needs. If approved, the annexation would have increased the city's tax base by about $121 million from the Cook land and another $27 million in the other areas.

At the time it launched the annexation bid, the commission said it would either have to annex or dissolve the city. David Calhoun, of Huntington Woods and chairman of the boundary commission, noted last week that to dissolve, two-thirds of registered city voters must first approve the proposal and then a majority of Lake township voters would have to approve acceptance of the city into the township.

The commission held no discussion on the possibility of dissolving the city, but Mayor Gelesko said a warning issued by the boundary commission to Lake township saying cooperation between the two units and the city should be sought was, "of utmost importance."

In other areas, the commission voted to petition Berrien county to reassess and then make repairs to the Bedortha drain. The action came after David Gieber, of Barger Engineering of St. Joseph, said repairs to the drain to correct flooding problems would cost an estimated $20,000. Gieber is to present a report on flooding problems on the William-Essig drain at the commission's April 12 meeting.

The commission authorized the city planning commission to hire a planning development expert to solve a problem involving a landlocked area west of Pine street and north of Lake street. No public street now serves the area and the commission said a street may have to be constructed to solve the problem.

Clarence Heyn was appointed to the civil service board to replace Howard Boyd. The term expires in 1980. Boyd stepped down from the civil service board saying that he is currently serving on too many other city boards.

The commission voted to undertake a formal study of construction of a boat ramp at Weko beach and said its park planning committee will meet Monday, March 29, to discuss development plans for the park. Approved were requests by the Christian Braille foundation to solicit city businesses for contributions, and to Ed Siemans to sell lily lapel flowers for Easter Seals on Friday, April 9.

Towe said the intermediate board will now have to hold a joint meeting with boards from Cassopolis, Dowagiac, Edwardsburg and Marcellus to decide where to go from this latest defeat.

The issue yesterday failed in three of the four K-12 school districts.

According to Towe, it failed by a 287 to 912 margin in Cassopolis; by 952 to 1,537 margin in Dowagiac; by 1,481 to 3,072 in Edwardsburg; but was approved by a 229 to 224 margin in Marcellus.

MSU May Request Resignations Of Stolz And Smith

DENNY STOLZ

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A top Michigan State University official says the school is "negotiating" over terms of the possible resignations of head football coach Denny Stolz and former Athletic Director Burt Smith.

The official also suggested MSU President Clifton Wharton is talking with other athletic officials, not connected to the football program, about resigning.

Fred Abood, Smith's attorney, said Monday that while MSU has not formally requested Smith's resignation, the school has proposed Smith step down. "I think others are involved also," Abood said.

Most other MSU officials, however, responded with a flurry of "no comments" in reports that Smith and Stolz have been asked to resign.

Neither Stolz nor his attorney was available for comment. MSU's board of trustees meets Friday and could be asked then to accept the resignations, the MSU official said.

Abood said Wharton, in a Saturday night meeting with Smith, indicated he believed Smith had not provided all the information he had concerning MSU's football recruiting program.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has found 34 instances of misconduct in the Spartans' football program and placed the school on probation for three years.

Abood said Smith is waiting to see what benefits he would be entitled to if he resigned now. According to Abood, Smith has tenure at MSU — he has served 22 years — and cannot be fired.

"They just haven't given us enough information," said Abood, who said he is waiting for formal notice of the matter from MSU officials.

"Burt Smith has no reason to resign from Michigan State University," Burt Smith has nothing to be ashamed of and hasn't done anything that isn't honorable and proper," Abood said.

The Detroit Free Press reports in Tuesday's editions that Wharton and the Board of Trustees decided to call for the resignations after Stolz, Smith and former head football coach

Duffy Daugherty appeared before the Select Committee separately last week. The Select Committee was appointed by Wharton to conduct its own investigation relating to the NCAA's charges.

The Free Press said the investigation had examined the role of MSU Vice President Jack Breslin — former overseer of the athletic program — and found no evidence of wrongdoing on his part.

Abood said Wharton indicated to Smith that he felt Smith had withheld information when he appeared last year before a special university committee which was investigating the basis of the NCAA's charges.

Robert Perlin, MSU vice president for university relations, said he had no comment on the issue but refused to deny the reports.

Stolz, head coach for three years, compiled a 19-13-1 record. He was chosen in 1972 to succeed the retiring Daugherty, after serving two years as defensive coordinator.

Smith was athletic director for 3½ years. He came to MSU in 1954 as assistant football coach.

Owners Make Bid For Labor Peace

New Proposal Offered

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Major league owners have reluctantly accepted the "one-and-one" option concept for the next several years and proposed a future reserve system that would end their 100 years of absolute control of a baseball players' destiny.

The proposal, made through the players' association Monday, would, in effect, give all 600 players a chance to be free agents at the expiration of their present contracts. After that, the owners offered a reserve system that would tie a player to his team for eight years.

Lee MacPhail, American League president and a member of the owners' players relations committee, described the proposal as far-reaching and the result of an inner struggle that made it far from unanimous.

"But, in order to get spring training started and baseball back on the track and a reasonable future reserve system ... we have agreed to go along with it," MacPhail said.

"It is our last and final proposal"

The owners' bid for labor peace in baseball was handed to Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, and a reply requested by April 1. Miller said his group would take it under consideration.

The proposal did not unlock the spring training camp gates. That still depends on the players' association reaction to the offer. The owners and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn have said that spring training will open when progress is made in the negotiations.

The two sides were to meet again today, and Miller scheduled a meeting Wednesday in Tampa with the association's 24-member executive board. Miller noted that the owners attached to their proposal a memo that opening of spring training was contingent on a favorable recommendation by the board to the players.

In the 10-page owners' proposal, they agreed to abide by an arbitrator's decision in the case of pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, which gave them free agent status after they had completed their one-year contract, then played the following year without signing a contract — the one-and-one clause. Two federal courts upheld this landmark decision.

Ironically, Messersmith's free agency is effective today, just seven days after a federal appeals court supported last year's decision by arbitrator Peter Seitz that made the pitcher free to deal with all 24 clubs.

The free agency offered the rest of the players is slightly different than that won by Messersmith. While Messersmith can deal with any major league club, players granted free agent status under the owners' plan would be placed in a pool, and be allowed to negotiate with a maximum of eight teams.

The teams interested in a free agent would be picked in inverse order of standings of the previous season — last shall be first and on up the standings. A club losing a player conceivably could be one of the eight teams chosen to bid for him.

Under the owners' plan, if 16 or fewer players are in the selection pool, no club could sign more than one; from 17 to 40 players, not more than two; and from 41 to 64 players, not more than three. Any club may be eligible to sign as many players as it may have lost.

The plan contains a repenter's right. After once becoming a free agent, a player becomes eligible to ask for a trade after he completes an additional three years of major league service. Or he could become a free agent again after an additional four years and an option year.

Under this "one-and-one" formula, some of baseball's biggest stars are eligible for free agency at the end of the 1976 season — Tom Seaver, Rod Carew, Reggie Jackson, Vida Blue, Sal Bando, Carlton Fisk, Carl Yastrzemski, Bobby Grich, Bobby Bonds, Bert Blyleven, Thurman Munson, Graig Nettles, Dick Allen, Willie McCovey, Rick Monday, Ted Simmons and Dave Cash.

Many of the owners fought the proposal offered to the players Monday. They contend it meant bankruptcy for their franchises. A spokesman for August Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said, "I'm afraid Augie will feel he has been sold down the river. Don't be surprised if he sells his franchise."

The owners' proposal was presented after eight months of negotiations covering 30 sessions. Two days were needed by their committee to hammer out the document, which calls for a seven-and-one reserve clause to become effective after the 1976-77 seasons.

The all-North Carolina semifinal game should be just as intense, according to Maxwell.

"We think we're a better team," said Maxwell, whose 49ers lost a three-point decision to the Wolfpack earlier in this tournament. Actually, I think we haven't played as well as we could, believe it or not."

While the 49ers were hitting on their glass slippers, North Carolina State was shutting out Holy Cross. The Wolfpack bolted to a 22-point lead early in the second half behind Al Green and Kenny Carr and sealed off a late rally by the Crusaders. Green wound up with a game-high 23 points while Carr had 21.

"North Carolina State intimidated us on the boards and made us take shots from the outside," said Holy Cross Coach George Blaney. "We were never able to penetrate — and it cost us."

Mojzak Grabs Singles Lead

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tom Mojzak of Grand Rapids is the new leader in the singles handicap division in the 11th week of the Michigan State Men's Bowling Association Tournament.

Mojzak had 778 points. Gary Medler of Lansing, last week's leader, fell to second with 776, followed by Marshall Williams of Saginaw at 773.

'Unknown' Collects Upset NIT Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina basketball team did a very good imitation of the Oregon Ducks — so good in fact that you couldn't tell the facsimile from the real thing.

The 49ers flew after loose balls, jumped over press tables and wracked up cheerleaders under the baskets, just like the Ducks usually do.

And they won, just like the Ducks usually do. "We slacked off," said Oregon's Ronnie Lee after the 79-72 loss to the unheralded 49ers in the quarter-finals of the 39th National Invitation Tournament Monday night. "We didn't go for loose balls like we usually do. We might have taken them too lightly."

A team with a no-name lineup and an anonymous basketball tradition, the 49ers earned a shot in Thursday night's semifinals against intrastate rival North Carolina State. The Wolfpack advanced by beating Holy Cross 78-68 in Monday night's other quarter-final match at Madison Square Garden. Kansas State will play Kentucky and Louisville will meet Providence tonight to decide the other semifinals.

The 49ers fashioned their surprising victory behind Cedric Maxwell's 30 points and 14 rebounds and a flamboyant style that appeared to mimic the Ducks.

"Oregon is the most physical team we've played," said North Carolina Coach Lee Rose. "We tried to get the ball inside and get them in foul trouble — and it worked."

Oregon, an intimidating team that uses brawn and quickness to push people around, jammed the ball down the 49ers' throats and led quickly by 12-2 before the team from North Carolina went to a new game plan.

"When we were down, we changed our defense and went to a man-to-man," said Rose.

Michigan Tech Nips U-M To Capture NCAA Spot

Houghton, Mich. (AP) — After falling behind by six goals, Michigan gave Michigan Tech more trouble than expected Monday night, but the Huskies held together nicely to win their Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoff series.

"Michigan could have easily rolled over and played dead, but they came out in the second and third period and played really well," said Tech Coach John McInnes after his team's 6-5 advantage Monday night gave them a 10-7 total-goal victory in the two-game series.

It looked like favored Tech almost all the way as the Huskies scored five of the night's first six goals.

Mike Zuke scored two goals and assisted on a third for Tech, while Doug Lindsag scored two for Michigan.

Lindsag started the scoring in the first period with a shot from the slot.

But Tech then responded with goals from Zuke, Scott Jesse, George Lyle and Jim Murray to go out ahead 4-1 at the end of the period — a five-goal series advantage including Sunday night's 4-2 victory.

Zuke scored a short-handed goal at 10:10 of the second period to make it 5-1, but Michigan came back with goals from Dan Boone and Dave DeDol.

In the final period, Lindsag and Kris Manery scored for Michigan and Stu Younger hit for Tech.

Tech goalie Bruce Horsh stopped 40 shots compared to 25 saves by Robbie Moore of Michigan.

The victory locks up a place for Tech in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship at Denver. Other participants will be Brown, Boston University and probably Minnesota, which defeated Michigan State in the other WCHA series last night.

RETURNING CHAMP: Olympic gold medal speed skater Sheila Young arrived at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport from Geneva Monday night, nearly unnoticed and carrying a gift teddy bear. "It's nice to be back," Sheila said after returning from two and a half months of competition. The city of Detroit will hold a "Sheila Young Day" March 24. (AP Wirephoto).

Olympic Star Young Returns To Detroit

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Sheila Young is willing to stump for Olympic-caliber speedskating facilities in the United States, but America's Winter Olympic heroine doesn't really know where to begin.

And as far as working towards getting women's cycling as a Summer Olympics sport, the Detroit speedskater and bicycling star goes along with the idea but believes the time has not yet come.

Miss Young, who will get an official heroine's welcome from the City of Detroit on "Sheila Young Day" March 24, slipped almost unnoticed into the city Monday night after 2½ months of competition in Europe.

Today she was to fly to Sun Valley, Idaho, to do a television special with Flip Wilson. She expects to stay there four days, return to Detroit for several days, then head for Florida for five weeks to train for cycling competition.

"It's nice to be back," she said. "Too bad I'm so tired. I can't enjoy it. But it won't take me long to adjust."

Miss Young had just flown into Metropolitan Airport from Geneva, Switzerland, with a two-hour stopover in New York. She said that she'd do whatever she could to see that the only Olympic-size speedskating rink in the country, which is at West Allis, Wis., remains in operation. A lack of sufficient operating funds has threatened to close the facility.

The Milwaukee County Parks Commission is studying the possibility of running the rink and there are private efforts to raise money for it.

"If there's anything I could do to help because of what I've done in skating, I will. When they (U.S. Olympic Committee members) have so much money going into it, you'd think they'd spend more for speedskating," Miss Young said.

Her father, Clare, himself a speedskater, said he didn't expect much money to go toward better speedskating facilities and that "we'll continue to shovel off rinks out on our lakes."

Miss Young won the Olympic gold medal in the 500-meter speedskating event at Innsbruck, Austria, last month. She won a silver medal in the 1,500 meters and a bronze in the 1,000 meters.

She stayed in Europe several weeks afterwards to compete in other meets, including the Golden Skates International at Inzell, West Germany, last weekend where she shattered her own 500-meter world record with a clocking of 40.8 seconds. Among the athletic accomplishments of the 25-year-old is a world bicycle sprints championship in 1973.

"Women's cycling is not ready to be an Olympic sport yet," Miss Young said. "The quality of women cyclists is high, but not many countries are participating."

When she got off the plane in Detroit, Miss Young carried a huge teddy bear under her right arm and a bouquet of red carnations in her left hand. When a TV camera light went on, a small crowd gathered. She was applauded after a brief interview.

MSU May Request Resignations Of Stolz And Smith

DENNY STOLZ

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A top Michigan State University official says the school is "negotiating" over terms of the possible resignations of head football coach Denny Stolz and former Athletic Director Burt Smith.

The official also suggested MSU President Clifton Wharton is talking with other athletic officials, not connected to the football program, about resigning.

Fred Abood, Smith's attorney, said Monday that while MSU has not formally requested Smith's resignation, the school has proposed Smith step down. "I think others are involved also," Abood said.

Most other MSU officials, however, responded with a "flurry of 'no comments'" to reports that Smith and Stolz have been asked to resign. Neither Stolz nor his attorney was available for comment.

MSU's board of trustees meets Friday and could be asked then to accept the resignations, the MSU official said. Stolz' contract was extended for three years at February's board meeting.

Abood said Wharton, in a Saturday night meeting with Smith, indicated he believed Smith had not provided all the information he had concerning MSU's football recruiting program.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has found 34 instances of misconduct in the Spartans' football program and placed the school on probation for three years.

Abood said Smith is waiting to see what benefits he would be entitled to if he resigned now. According to Abood, Smith has tenure at MSU — he has served 22 years — and cannot be fired.

"They just haven't given us enough information," said Abood, who said he is waiting for formal notice of the matter from MSU officials.

"Burt Smith has no reason to resign from Michigan State University," Burt Smith has nothing to be ashamed of and hasn't done anything that isn't honorable and proper," Abood said.

The Detroit Free Press reports in Tuesday's editions that Wharton and the Board of Trustees decided to call for the resignations after Stolz, Smith and former head football coach

Duffy Daugherty appeared before the Select Committee separately last week. The Select Committee was appointed by Wharton to conduct its own investigation relating to the NCAA's charges.

The Free Press said the investigation had examined the role of MSU Vice President Jack Breslin — former overseer of the athletic program — and found no evidence of wrongdoing on his part.

Abood said Wharton indicated to Smith that he felt Smith had withheld information when he appeared last year before a special university committee which was investigating the basis of the NCAA's charges.

Robert Perrin, MSU vice president for university relations, said he had no comment on the issue but refused to deny the reports.

Stolz, head coach for three years, compiled a 19-13-1 record. He was chosen in 1972 to succeed the retiring Daugherty, after serving two years as defensive coordinator.

Smith was athletic director for 3½ years. He came to MSU in 1954 as assistant football coach.

Owners Make Bid For Labor Peace

New Proposal Offered

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Major league owners have reluctantly accepted the "one-and-one" option concept for the next several years and proposed a future reserve system that would end their 100 years of absolute control of a baseball players' destiny.

The proposal, made through the players' association Monday, would, in effect, give all 600 players a chance to be free agents at the expiration of their present contracts. After that, the owners offered a reserve system that would tie a player to his team for eight years.

Lee MacPhail, American League president and a member of the owners' players relations committee, described the proposal as far-reaching and the result of an inner struggle that made it far from unanimous.

"But, in order to get spring training started and baseball back on the track and a reasonable future reserve system ... we have agreed to go along with it," MacPhail said.

"It is our last and final proposal ..."

The owners' bid for labor peace in baseball was handed to Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, and a reply requested by April 1. Miller said his group would take it under consideration.

The proposal did not unlock the spring training camp gates. That still depends on the players' association reaction to the offer. The owners and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn have said that spring training will open when progress is made in the negotiations.

The proposal did not unlock the spring training camp gates. That still depends on the players' association reaction to the offer. The owners and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn have said that spring training will open when progress is made in the negotiations.

The two sides were to meet again today, and Miller scheduled a meeting Wednesday in Tampa with the association's 24-member executive board. Miller noted that the owners attached to their proposal a memo that opening of spring training was contingent on a favorable recommendation by the board to the players.

In the 10-page owners' proposal, they agreed to abide by an arbitrator's decision in the case of pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, which gave them free agent status after they had completed their one-year contract, then played the following year without signing a contract — the one-and-one clause. Two federal courts upheld this landmark decision.

Ironically, Messersmith's free agency is effective today, just seven days after a federal appeals court supported last year's decision by arbitrator Peter Seitz that made the pitcher free to deal with all 24 clubs.

The free agency offered the rest of the players is slightly different than that won by Messersmith. While Messersmith can deal with any major league club, players granted free agent status under the owners' plan would be placed in a pool, and be allowed to negotiate with a maximum of eight teams.

The teams interested in a free agent would be picked in inverse order of standings of the previous season — last shall be first and on up the standings. A club losing a player conceivably could be one of the eight teams chosen to bid for him.

Under the owners' plan, if 16 or fewer players are in the selection pool, no club could sign more than one; from 17 to 40 players, not more than two, and from 41 to 64 players, not more than three. Any club may be eligible to sign as many players as it may have lost.

The plan contains a repeater's right. After once becoming a free agent, a player becomes eligible to ask for a trade after he completes an additional three years of major league service. Or he could become a free agent again after an additional four years and an option year.

Under this "one-and-one" formula, some of baseball's biggest stars are eligible for free agency at the end of the 1976 season — Tom Seaver, Rod Carew, Reggie Jackson, Vida Blue, Sal Bando, Carleton Fisk, Carl Yastrzemski, Bobby Grich, Bobby Bonds, Bert Blyleven, Thurman Munson, Graig Nettles, Dick Allen, Willie McCovey, Rick Monday, Ted Simmons and Dave Cash.

Many of the owners fought the proposal offered to the players Monday. They contend it means bankruptcy for their franchise.

A spokesman for August Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said, "I'm afraid Augie will feel he has been sold down the river. Don't be surprised if he sells his franchise."

The owners' proposal was presented after eight months of negotiations covering 30 sessions. Two days were needed by their committee to hammer out the document, which calls for a seven-and-one reserve clause to become effective after the 1976-77 seasons.

Alabama Next For Hoosiers

Indiana Puts No. 1 Ranking On The Line

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

How good is Indiana? "Indiana is one of the great, great teams in college history," said Coach Lou Carneseccia of St. John's, the Hoosiers' last victim by a 98-70 count in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

"To have gone unbeaten over the past two regular seasons, as they have done, is mind-boggling," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton, whose Crimson NCAA Midwest semifinals at Baton Rouge, La., Thursday night.

Indiana gained the No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the 1975-76 season, a position the Hoosiers fans have been claiming all along.

It was the first time since 1953 that Indiana captured the top spot in the AP poll. Then, the Hoosiers were led by Don Schlundt and Bobby Leonard. It was also the last time Indiana captured the NCAA title.

"There is no doubt Indiana is a great team," said John Wooden, who coached UCLA to the NCAA title 10 of the past 12 years before retiring after last season.

But Wooden too, didn't think the Hoosiers, 28-0, belong in the same class with the chamionship UCLA squads.

"Before you compare them to any of the other great teams, they've first got to win a national championship," said Wooden, who served as a television commentator for Indiana's triumph over St. John's Saturday.

Nevertheless, Wooden likes Indiana — especially the clawing man-to-man defense which is the trademark of teams coached by Bobby Knight. "It's going to take an excellent team to beat them," he said.

Still, the Hoosiers were not unanimous choices as the nation's No. 1 team. Indiana picked up 47 of 52 first-place ballots. The other first-place votes went to Marquette (2), Rutgers (2) and Nevada-Las Vegas (1).

Indiana finished with 1,008 points while runner-up Marquette polled 888. Nevada-Las Vegas moved up a notch from fourth to third with 732 points, while Rutgers dropped a slot to fourth with 720.

UCLA, the defending national champions, advanced to fifth. Alabama jumped two spots to sixth and Notre Dame held on to its No. 7 spot.

Alabama just might be the team capable of beating Indiana. The Crimson Tide, 23-1 and ranked sixth in the latest Associated Press poll, won the Southeastern Conference title and are coming off an impressive 73-64 triumph over North Carolina. They play a tight man-to-man defense which is similar to Indiana's.

Also among the best is Marquette, 20-1 and ranked second. Al McGuire's Warriors will meet Western Michigan, 25-2 and ranked 10th, in the other Midwest semifinal. The winner then must face the winner of Indiana-Alabama for a spot in the final four.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers, 29-0, rates as the heavy favorite in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C. The Scarlet Knights must defeat Connecticut, 18-0, in one semifinal Thursday night, a rematch of a regular-season game which Rutgers won 93-80.

VMI, 21-0, takes on DePaul, 20-8, in the other East Regional semifinal.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame, 23-5, and ninth-ranked Michigan, 22-4, meet in one semifinal of the Midwest Regional at Louisville. Both scored one-point victories in the first round, Notre Dame beating Cincinnati 79-78 on Toby Knight's last-second tap-in and Michigan nipping Wichita State 74-73 on Ikeley Green's 20-foot jumper with six seconds to play.

Missouri, 23-1 and ranked 14th, meets 18th-rated Texas Tech, 25-5, in the other Midwest Regional semifinal.

In the West, defending champion UCLA, 24-4 and ranked fifth, goes against No. 20 Pepperdine, 22-5. UCLA will have a home-court advantage, since the regional is being played at the Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Third-rated Nevada-Las Vegas, 29-1 and the highest scoring team in the nation with an average of better than 110 points per game, plays 15th-ranked Arizona, 23-8, in the other semifinal.

Rozelle Rule Major Obstacle For NFL

SAN DIEGO (AP) — National Football League officials are expected to solve one of their problems by turning down the Memphis bid for a franchise in 1976, but still have a host of other controversies in front of them today including the "Rozelle Rule."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that he expects legal obstacles against the controversial compensation rule named for him might be eliminated if the owners and players get together on a new overall contract.

There hasn't been a player-owner pact in two years.

Although a judge in Minneapolis ruled the compensation issue was not negotiable, Rozelle said, "That's one of the things that could be taken up in collective bargaining. And it might be the key to what happens after that."

"Some of the players have indicated they feel there is a need for a structure ... that they want modification. When owners and players start this collective bargaining right after these meetings, it depends on how it goes."

Rozelle said he thought it would be possible the courts and maybe Congress will implement a collective bargaining agreement.

On the opening day of NFL meetings the actions were routine with no definite agreements.

John Bassett, the millionaire

Canadian who owned the Memphis Grizzlies of the now-defunct World Football League, said he planned to petition the NFL to be admitted as its 20th member.

Bassett ran into opposition and needs 21 affirmative votes on his petition. He is the man who signed Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick away from the Miami Dolphins and they are still under the corporation that staged World Football League competition in Memphis.

Rozelle, who said Memphis was one of the cities top-most in the list for expansion, alluded to negative aspects of the current application.

"Expansion is a form of dilution," he said. "When things are relatively solid, clubs don't look at negatives."

This time, however, the negatives include the continuing problems of legal actions that have gone against the league and the failure to gain a new master contract with the players' association.

Seattle and Tampa Bay have not yet been stocked from the expansion draft of current players, nor has the collegiate draft been held.

Rozelle said both are expected within the next three weeks.

He also reported that television viewing of Sunday doubleheaders and Monday games was up six per cent and other football television up three per cent in 1975 over 1974.

The NFL reported paid attendance for 1975 regular season games in 1975 was 10,213,183, a decline of 23,182 or two-tenths per cent from the 1974 total of 10,236,322.

However, for all 269 games played, including 79 preseason, 182 regular season and eight postseason, the total paid attendance was 14,054,259, an increase of 320,372 over 1974 when a strike of veteran players cut preseason attendance.

Restless Tigers On Edge As Camps Remain Closed

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Tigers were restless Monday.

Nearly all members of the Detroit club were on edge. It was the day before spring training was to open officially.

Manager Ralph Houk spent the day rearranging his office.

General Manager Jim Campbell

spent the day by his typewriter. From the information he had received, the owners were going to make a final offer to the players Monday and agree to open camp immediately. But they didn't, and they're not.

At Henley Field, Bill Freehan,

Joe Colman, Rusty Staub and other Tiger team members played an intrasquad game. Finally, word came out of St. Petersburg that spring training wouldn't begin on time. There was disappointment.

"I thought for sure we'd be going to work Tuesday," said Campbell. "Now all we can do is sit and wait for another day. I guess. It makes me mad."

Even if a decision were made today to open training camp, it would be two or three days before all the Tigers got into town. Houk said he was concerned that the Tigers wouldn't be able to accomplish much until the end of the week.

"Those first couple of days, we'll just have to wait and see how many show up," the manager said. "Really, we'll have to wait until everybody gets here before we get going full swing."

Staub took charge of Monday's practice in John Hiller's absence. The players had to "borrow" more balls from the Tiger clubhouse while Houk and Campbell conveniently happened to be looking the other way.

Staub, who has been in touch with Marvin Miller, head of the players' union, said he was stunned to learn the Tigers will be on their own again for today's practice.

"When it comes to the issue of retroactivity, that's something that legally cannot be bargained away," Staub said. "I know it. Everybody has to know it. And until the owners get off that point, I don't see how we're ever going to start spring training."

Guards Get Green Light, Lead Spurs

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Guards Joes Silas and George Gervin of the San Antonio Spurs know a green light when they see it.

Just ask Spurs' Coach Bob Bass. Better yet, ask Coach Hubie Brown of the Kentucky Colonels.

A frustrated Brown watched Silas and Gervin turn Kentucky's defense to mince meat Monday night, combining for 70 points as San Antonio rolled past Kentucky 118-105 in an American Basketball Association game.

"The game was the only pro basketball action Monday night. They've got the green light any time they want it," said Bass of his guard combo, Silas, hitting 13 of 20 shots from the field, has 37 points while Gervin scored 31 points on a 12-of-23 shooting night.

Bass, however, noted that these gaudy scoring totals didn't tell the whole story of his team's victory.

"We passed well, and our team defense was the best it's been all year," said Bass. "(Billy) Paulitz, (Mark) O'berding and (Allen) Bristow didn't score much, but they played defense, set picks and found the open man."

"The open man, understandably, was usually either Silas or Gervin."

After spotting Kentucky an 18-8 first period lead, the Spurs cruised into a 26-26 tie and then sparred with Kentucky until midway through the third period.

After Kentucky had earned a 73-73 deadlock on Louie Dampier's three-point play with 3:35 remaining in the quarter, San Antonio scored 13 straight points to settle the issue. Silas hit five of his baskets during that streak.

Kentucky, which couldn't get closer than 10 points the rest of the way, "got subpar performances from our key people," said Brown.

One of the disappointments was center Artis Gilmore, who had just 17 points and 13 rebounds. Paulitz finished with 21, including 17 in the first half to help keep Kentucky within range.

Bombers Gain Win

SOUTH BEND — The Bargain Center Bombers defeated South Bend 5-1 here Sunday in open league hockey action. The Bombers, now 8-1, got goals from Pat Rohneck, Kevin Sandel, Mark Schmieder, Brian LaSota and Andy Paul.

Alabama Next For Hoosiers

Indiana Puts No. 1 Ranking On The Line

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
How good is Indiana?
"Indiana is one of the great, great teams in college history," said Coach Lou Carnesecca of St. John's, the Hoosiers' last victim by a 90-70 count in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

"To have gone unbeaten over the past two regular seasons, as they have done, is mind-boggling," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton, whose Crimson NCAA Midwest semifinals at Baton Rouge, La., Thursday night.

Indiana gained the No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the 1975-76 season, a position the Hoosiers' fans have been claiming all along.

It was the first time since 1953 that Indiana captured the top spot in the AP poll. Then, the Hoosiers were led by Don Schlundt and Bobby Leonard. It was also the last time Indiana captured the NCAA title.

"There is no doubt Indiana is a great team," said John Wooden, who coached UCLA to the NCAA title 10 of the past 12 years before retiring after last season.

But Wooden too, didn't think the Hoosiers, 28-0, belong in the same class with the championship UCLA squads.

"Before you compare them to any of the other great teams, they've first got to win a national championship," said Wooden, who served as a television commentator for Indiana's triumph over St. John's Saturday.

Nevertheless, Wooden likes Indiana — especially the clanking man-to-man defense which is the trademark of teams coached by Bobby Knight. "It's going to take an excellent team to beat them," he said.

Still, the Hoosiers were not unanimous choices as the nation's No. 1 team. Indiana picked up 47 of 52 first-place ballots. The other first-place votes went to Marquette (2), Rutgers (2) and Nevada-Las Vegas (1).

Indiana finished with 1,008 points while runner-up Marquette polled 888. Nevada-Las Vegas moved up a notch from fourth to third with 732 points, while Rutgers dropped a slot to fourth with 720.

UCLA, the defending national champions, advanced to fifth. Alabama jumped two spots to sixth and Notre Dame held on to its No. 7 spot.

Alabama just might be the team capable of beating Indiana. The Crimson Tide, 23-4 and ranked sixth in the latest Associated Press poll, won the Southeastern Conference title and are coming off an impressive 79-64 triumph over North Carolina. They play a tight man-to-man defense which is similar to Indiana's.

Also among the best is Marquette, 26-1 and ranked second. Al McGuire's Warriors will meet Western Michigan, 25-2 and rated 10th, in the other Midwest semifinal. The winner then must face the winner of Indiana-Alabama for a spot in the final four.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers, 29-0, rates as the heavy favorite in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C. The Scarlet Knights must face the winner of Indiana-Alabama for a spot in the final four.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame, 23-5, and ninth-ranked Michigan, 22-6, meet in one semifinal of the Midwest Regional at Louisville. Both scored one-point victories in the first round, Notre Dame beating Cincinnati 79-78 on Toby Knight's last-second tap-in and Michigan nipping Wichita State 74-73 on Ricky Green's 20-foot jumper with six seconds to play.

Missouri, 25-4 and ranked 14th, meets 16th-rated Texas Tech, 25-5, in the other Midwest Regional semifinal.

In the West, defending champion UCLA, 24-4 and ranked fifth, goes against No. 20 Pepperdine, 22-5. UCLA will have a home-court advantage, since the regional is being played at Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Third-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, 29-1 and the highest scoring team in the nation with an average of better than 110 points per game, plays 15th-ranked Arizona, 23-8, in the other semifinal.

Restless Tigers On Edge As Camps Remain Closed

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Tigers were restless Monday. Nearly all members of the Detroit club were on edge. It was the day before spring training was to open officially. Manager Ralph Houk spent the day rearranging his office.

General Manager Jim Campbell spent the day by his two telephones. From the information he had received, the owners were going to make a final offer to the players Monday and agree to open camp immediately. But they didn't, and they're not.

At Henley Field, Bill Freehan, Joe Colman, Rusty Staub and other Tiger team members played an intrasquad game. Finally, word came out of St. Petersburg that spring training wouldn't begin on time. There was disappointment.

"I thought for sure we'd be going to work Tuesday," said Campbell. "Now all we can do is sit and wait for another day. I guess. It makes me mad."

Even if a decision were made today to open training camp, it would be two or three days before all the Tigers got into town. Houk said he was concerned that the Tigers wouldn't be able to accomplish much until the end of the week.

"Those first couple of days, we'll just have to wait and see how many show up," the manager said. "Really, we'll have to wait until everybody gets here before we get going full swing."

Staub took charge of Monday's practice in John Hiller's absence. The players had to "borrow" more balls from the Tiger clubhouse while Houk and Campbell conveniently happened to be looking the other way.

Staub, who has been in touch with Marvin Miller, head of the players' union, said he was stunned to learn the Tigers will be on their own again for today's practice.

"When it comes to the issue of retroactivity, that's something that legally cannot be bargained away," Staub said. "I know it. Everybody has to know it. And until the owners get off that point, I don't see how we're ever going to start spring training."

Bombers Gain Win

SOUTH BEND — The Bargain Center Bombers defeated South Bend 5-1 here Sunday in open league hockey action. The Bombers, now 8-1, got goals from Pat Robach, Kevin Sandel, Mark Schneider, Brian LaSota and Andy Paul.

Bass, however, noted that those gaudy scoring totals didn't tell the whole story of his team's victory.

"We passed well, and our team defense was the best it's been all year," said Bass.

"(Billy) Paultz, (Mark) Olberding and (Allen) Bristow didn't score much, but they played defense, set picks and found the open man."

The open man, understandably, was usually either Silas or Gervin.

After spotting Kentucky an 18-8 first period lead, the Spurs cruised into a 26-2 tie and then sparred with Kentucky until midway through the third period.

After Kentucky had earned a 73-73 deadlock on Louie Dampier's three-point play with 5:35 remaining in the quarter, San Antonio scored 13 straight points to settle the issue. Silas hit five of his baskets during that streak.

Kentucky, which couldn't get closer than 10 points the rest of the way, "got subpar performances from our key people," said Brown.

One of the disappointments was center Artis Gilmore, who had just 17 points and 13 rebounds. Paultz finished with 21, including 17 in the first half to help keep Kentucky within range.

"They've got the green light any time they want it," said Bass of his guard combo. Silas, hitting 13 of 20 shots from the field, has 37 points while Gervin scored 33 points on a 12-of-23 shooting night.

Bass, however, noted that those gaudy scoring totals didn't tell the whole story of his team's victory.

"We passed well, and our team defense was the best it's been all year," said Bass.

"(Billy) Paultz, (Mark) Olberding and (Allen) Bristow didn't score much, but they played defense, set picks and found the open man."

New Venture For Mollhagen

Opens Tackle Shop On St. Joe River

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Conservation Editor

The Mollhagen commercial fishing family of St. Joseph has put its nets out to dry for the last time.

The Mollhagens have fished Lake Michigan for the past 123 years, but because of increasing threats from Department of Natural Resources restrictions and environmental pollutants, they are now casting their nets in a new direction.

Lloyd Mollhagen Jr. and his daughter, Sally, a fourth generation Mollhagen in the fishing business, plus crewman

Larry Rosenthal, have opened a tackle and bait shop for sport-fishermen.

It's unique in that fishermen are able to tie up boats at Mollhagen's dock on the St. Joseph River's Morrison Channel while purchasing angling needs.

Mollhagen Fisheries offers tackle, live bait, food and other refreshments, licenses and gasoline.

There is also a free fish cleaning table, a perch cleaning service (the electric scaler left over from the commercial fishing days) and fish smoking available.

Mollhagen Fisheries is also serving as the booking agent for four charter boat fishermen —

Joe and Glen Kimmery of Niles and Walt Fischer and Ted Ryzner of St. Joseph.

And there is a board listing the latest Lake Michigan weather information and a marine scanner radio for providing the latest fishing information to customers.

"Because of the DDT, PCB's and the DNR, I got tired of it," declares Mollhagen on his decision to get out of the commercial fishing business. "I sure wasn't the lake part of it. I love the lake."

Mollhagen has sold his nets to a Lake Erie perch fisherman, but he has kept his tug, "Faith II." He is using it to fulfill a contract for research work off the Cook Nuclear Plant.

"If it would have been the DNR alone, I would have stuck in it," continues Mollhagen, "but I never would when you consider the PCB's and DDT in the lake."

The Department of Natural Resources is in the process of obtaining rules which will restrict chub fishing (the main species Mollhagen caught in recent years) and outlaw gill nets. Previously, laws against the commercial take of perch were enacted.

Mollhagen is supposed to receive financial compensation for going out of the commercial fishing business, but the payment has been held up because of litigation involving other commercial fishermen in the state.

"I've got every penny of my life savings in this," adds Mollhagen, who says he had planned to use the compensation payment to finance the new business venture.

When discussing the pollution in the lake, the other factor which put Mollhagen out of the commercial fishing business, he says it has been "one headache after another."

Mollhagen recalls three big setbacks before the current ones: the sea lampreys which wiped out the lake trout, starting in 1949; botulism in 1963, and the high DDT levels in fish in 1971 which shut him down for almost a year. He now fears there could be a halt of commercial fish sales because of high PCB levels in Lake Michigan.

"I'm trying to utilize my property and stay in business," says the 51-year-old Mollhagen. "I can't retire...I'll tell you that. I've got too much invested here."

For the new business, Mollhagen had a new 24 by 26-foot building constructed and 101 feet of new dock space built.

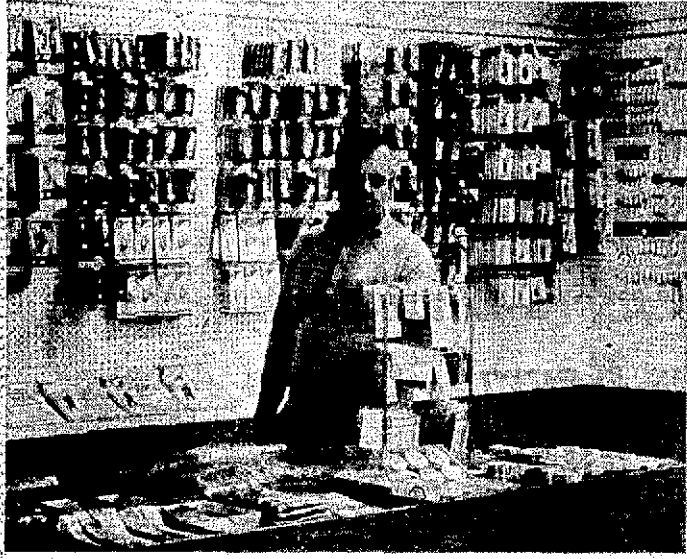

By land, Mollhagen Fisheries can be found at 600 Fisherman's Road. The phone number is 983-8851.

Mollhagen says the shop will be open from early spring through October from sunup to sundown.

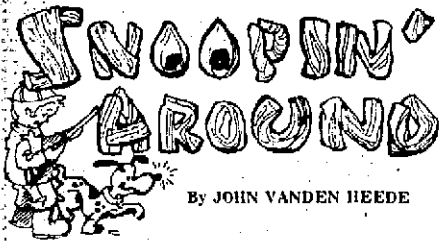

Mollhagen's great-grandfather, John Sr., came here from Canada. He was followed in the business by John Jr. and Lloyd Sr., who died in 1971.

It's the end of one era for the Dutch-German family, and hopefully, the beginning of another.

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

Midwest hunters probably won't like it, but plans are being made to reduce geese concentrations at the Horicon Marsh in Wisconsin.

The peak goose concentration at the east-central Wisconsin area has mushroomed from zero in 1940 to totals exceeding 200,000.

Biologists say the high population presents possible disease problems and crop losses on private land, so cutbacks in numbers are planned.

Moves will probably include efforts to hold hunkers longer at refuges in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, but the geese aren't expected to change overall flight patterns. Instead of stopping at Horicon, they will probably move on south to Illinois.

Wildlife officials say the objective of the Horicon plan is to reduce the peak goose population to 100,000 by 1980.

The Horicon birds are a portion of the Mississippi Valley goose population that winters in Illinois. It has increased in size from 45,000 in 1936 to recent post-hunting peak populations of 300,000, with 200,000 of the total often stopping at Horicon during migrations.

"Our chief concern is the resource," says Anthony Earl, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. "Better distribution of the geese would reduce the potential threat of disease to the flock."

State and federal waterfowl managers fear the tight concentration makes the birds vulnerable to diseases such as fowl cholera and duck viral enteritis.

Before the concentration can be reduced, adjustments in the land and water features at Horicon would have to be made.

Under the proposal, now in the work plan stage, lowland browse croplands would be permitted to revert to natural moist soil plant growth to reduce the availability of roosting and feeding areas. Dewatering strategic portions of the marsh is another measure of the management proposal.

Public meetings will be scheduled to outline the action plan and to solicit input from the public.

The Wisconsin DNR and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service manage the goose population under an advisory overview of the Mississippi Flyway Council.

Fishing Report

The St. Joseph River is full of steelhead, and good numbers of steelies are also in the Galien, Black and Kalamazoo Rivers, plus some tributaries, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

But high turbid water is hindering buck angling success. Water levels are dropping and catches should improve. The peak of the spawning season is also approaching.

Some salmon catches have already been made by trawlers in Lake Michigan. Peek fishing in the Big Lake is still a few weeks away.

Birds Arriving

The spring migration of waterfowl is developing at the Allegan State Game Area, with 4,500 Canada geese and 1,500 ducks on hand. Sandhill cranes are expected to start moving in any way.

Graphs Legal

Members of Minnesota's Senate Committee on Natural Resources and Agriculture have voted against proposed legislation that sought to outlaw the use of graph depth records in the state of "10,000 lakes."

Camping Guide Available

A new 1976 directory of its 237 member campgrounds has been published by the Michigan Association of Private Campgrounds Owners.

It offers more than 17,000 camping sites.

Eagles To Get

'Clean' Food

A pair of bald eagles will soon discover a smorgasbord of carrion under its nest tree near Sandusky, Ohio — compliments of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The pair has not raised young for many years. By supplying the birds with large quantities of relatively clean food, researchers hope to reduce pesticide levels in their eggs.

The supplemental feeding program will cater to the scavenger-like palate of eagles with offerings of roadkill deer, hatchery fish, laboratory rats and mice, slaughterhouse meats and a few muskrat and raccoon carcasses.

Meeting Tonight

The listings include addresses, phone numbers, directions, facilities and services offered, plus length of seasons. Copies of the directory may be ordered by sending $1 along with return name and address.

to: MAPCO, P.O. Box 296-13, Montague, Mich. 49437.

Charter boat captain Emil Dean and district Department of Natural Resources fisheries biologist Dave Johnson will be guest speakers at today's 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Whirlpool Sportsmen's Club at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

New Venture For Mollhagen

Opens Tackle Shop On St. Joe River

By JOHN VANDEN HEDE
Conservation Editor

The Mollhagen commercial fishing family of St. Joseph has put its nets out to dry for the last time.

The Mollhagens have fished Lake Michigan for the past 123 years, but because of increasing threats from Department of Natural Resources restrictions and environmental pollutants, they are now casting their nets in a new direction.

Lloyd Mollhagen Jr. and his daughter, Sally, a fourth generation Mollhagen in the fishing business, plus crewman

Larry Rosenthal, have opened a tackle and bait shop for sport fishermen.

It's unique in that fishermen are able to tie up boats at Mollhagen's dock on the St. Joseph River's Morrison Channel while purchasing angling needs.

Mollhagen Fisheries offers tackle, live bait, food and other refreshments, licenses and gasoline.

There is also a free fish cleaning table, a perch cleaning service (the electric scaler left over from the commercial fishing days) and fish smoking available.

Mollhagen Fisheries is also serving as the booking agent for four charter boat fishermen —

Joe and Glen Kimmerly of Niles and Walt Fischer and Ted Ryzner of St. Joseph.

And there is a board listing the latest Lake Michigan weather information and a marine scanner radio for providing the latest fishing information to customers.

"Because of the DDT, PCB's and the DNR, I got tired of it," declares Mollhagen on his decision to get out of the commercial fishing business. "It sure wasn't the lake part of it. I love the lake."

Mollhagen has sold his nets to a Lake Erie perch fisherman, but he has kept his tug, "Faith II." He is using it to fulfill a contract for research work off the Cook Nuclear Plant.

"If it would have been the DNR alone, I would have stuck in it," continues Mollhagen, "but I never would when you consider the PCB's and DDT in the lake."

The Department of Natural Resources is in the process of obtaining rules which will restrict chub fishing (the main species Mollhagen caught in recent years) and outlaw gill nets. Previously, laws against the commercial take of perch were enacted.

Mollhagen is suppose to receive financial compensation for going out of the commercial fishing business, but the payment has been held up because of litigation involving other commercial fishermen in the state.

"I've got every penny of my lifesavings in this," adds Mollhagen, who says he had planned to use the compensation payment to finance the new business venture.

When discussing the pollution in the lake, the other factor which put Mollhagen out of the commercial fishing business, he says it has been "one headache after another."

Mollhagen recalls three big setbacks before the current ones — the sea lampreys which wiped out the lake trout, starting in 1949; botulism in 1963, and the high DDT levels in fish in 1971 which shut him down for almost a year. He now fears there could be a halt of commercial fish sales because of high PCB levels in Lake Michigan.

"I'm trying to utilize my property and stay in business," says the 51-year-old Mollhagen. "I can't retire...I'll tell you that. I've got too much invested here."

For the new business, Mollhagen had a new 24 by 26-foot building constructed and 101 feet of new dock space built.

By land, Mollhagen Fisheries can be found at 600 Fisherman's Road. The phone number is 983-3851.

Mollhagen says the shop will be open from early spring through October from sunup to sundown.

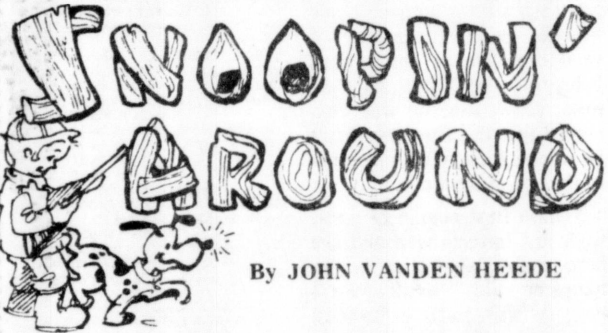

Mollhagen's great-grandfather, John Sr., came here from Canada. He was followed in the business by John Jr. and Lloyd Sr., who died in 1971.

It's the end of one era for the Dutch-German family, and hopefully, the beginning of another.

By JOHN VANDEN HEDE

Midwest hunters probably won't like it, but plans are being made to reduce geese concentrations at the Horicon Marsh in Wisconsin.

The peak goose concentration at the east-central Wisconsin area has mushroomed from zero in 1940 to totals exceeding 200,000.

Biologists say the high population presents possible disease problems and crop losses on private land, so cutbacks in numbers are planned.

Moves will probably include efforts to hold honkers longer at refuges in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, but the geese aren't expected to change overall flight patterns. Instead of stopping at Horicon, they will probably move on south to Illinois.

Wildlife officials say the objective of the Horicon plan is to reduce the peak goose population to 100,000 by 1980.

The Horicon birds are a portion of the Mississippi Valley goose population that winters in Illinois. It has increased in size from 45,000 in 1936 to recent post-hunting peak populations of 300,000, with 200,000 of the total often stopping at Horicon during migrations.

"Our chief concern is the resource," says Anthony Earl, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resource. "Better distribution of the geese would reduce the potential threat of disease to the flock."

State and federal waterfowl managers fear the tight concentration makes the birds vulnerable to diseases such as fowl cholera and duck viral enteritis.

Before the concentration can be reduced, adjustments in the land and water features at Horicon would have to be made.

Under the proposal, now in the work plan stage, lowland browse croplands would be permitted to revert to natural moist soil plant growth to reduce the availability of roosting and feeding areas. Dewatering strategic portions of the marsh is another measure of the management proposal.

Public meetings will be scheduled to outline the action plan and to solicit input from the public.

The Wisconsin DNR and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service manage the goose population under an advisory overview of the Mississippi Flyway Council.

Fishing Report

The St. Joseph River is full of steelhead, and good numbers of steelies are also in the Galien, Black and Kalamazoo Rivers, plus some tributaries, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

But high turbid water is holding back angling success. Water levels are dropping and catches should improve. The peak of the spawning season is also approaching.

Some salmon catches have already been made by trollers in Lake Michigan. Peak fishing in the Big Lake is still a few weeks away.

Birds Arriving

The spring migration of waterfowl is developing at the Allegan State Game Area, with 4,500 Canada geese and 1,500 ducks on hand. Sandhill cranes are expected to starting moving in anyway.

Graphs Legal

Members of Minnesota's Senate Committee on Natural Resources and Agriculture have voted against proposed legislation that sought to outlaw the use of graph depth records in the state of "10,000 lakes."

SJ Township Ends Water Tax Need

The St. Joseph township board Monday night formally asked Berrien county to pay off $1,850,000 in water system bonds, a move that could save the township $102,000 a year in interest costs.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the bond reduction would make it unnecessary ever again to levy the township-wide property tax originally adopted when the township voted to install the water system.

Benson said remaining bonds of some $2,285,000 could be paid off with revenue from the sale of water and from special assessments previously levied against property owners.

The payment approved last night is one of the results of an agreement between St. Joseph and Lincoln townships over distribution of water revenues and share of costs.

The agreement, reached in an out-of-court settlement Feb. 6, provided that excess money from the $5,325,000 bond issue sold in 1970 to finance the project be distributed on the basis of $1,165,365 to St. Joseph township and $73,908 to Lincoln township. In addition, Lincoln township agreed to pay $150,000 more as its share of the cost of installing the water system.

St. Joseph township will use its $1,165,365 share of surplus bond money, the $150,000 reduction in its share of the water system costs achieved by transfer to Lincoln, plus accumulated interest, some operating revenues and some pre-paid special assessments to make the $1,850,000 payoff on the bond issue.

The cost of the system was less than anticipated. The bond money was invested and considerable was accumulated.

According to the adjusted bond debt at the time of the settlement last month, St. Joseph township owes $3,035,000 and Lincoln township owes $1,390,000. The bonds are backed by Berrien county.

Benson said the large payment on the principal will eliminate the necessity of ever again having to have to levy the tax approved to protect the bond holders. The property tax could have risen as high as 3.52 mills under the original debt reduction schedule.

The tax had been levied for four years. It was two mills in 1971-72 and one mill in 1973-74. The tax was dropped last year.

In another water-related move the board voted 3 to 2 to remove the $4 per year hydrant charge levied against water users living west of the St. Joseph river.

The hydrant charge will be absorbed by the township. It will cost approximately $4,000 a year. The same charge is not levied against residents living in the Fairplain section of St. Joseph township.

The water service contract with Benton Harbor is different than the one with St. Joseph.

Benson, Clerk Bill Payne, Smith and Trustee Carl Reschke voted to remove the charge. Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio and Trustee Robert DeVries voted "no" and Trustee Carroll Gerbel abstained. The proposal was tabled March 1.

DiMaggio said he voted no because he thought the item needed more study.

In other action the board voted not to make a contribution to Blountline, Inc., approved paying $500 to the Berrien County narcotics squad; passed a resolution extending its appreciation to Edward Weisbrich, retired manager of Ross field; and heard that $1,101,610 or 94 per cent of the 1975 township tax had been collected by March 1.

Benson announced the board is scheduled to hold its annual meeting with the Berrien County Road commission on March 23 and said the annual township meeting will be 1 p.m. Saturday, April 3 in the Fairplain West school, 1911 Fairplain avenue.

South Haven Hospital Update Wins Tentative State Approval

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The state health department has given tentative approval to South Haven Community hospital's proposed $968,000 improvement program, Wayne Eagleson, hospital administrator, reported to the hospital board last night.

Eagleson said tentative approval of the hospital's application for a certificate of need came in a telephone call and he expects formal written approval next week. Such approval is required, before the hospital board can proceed with financing its program.

The hospital has proposed improvements that would expand its out-patient and emergency care programs.

Next step for the hospital board will be to determine a method for financing construction and remodeling.

In other areas, it was reported that the hospital continued to operate in a deficit situation in the last month. Occupancy in the month at the 90-bed facility was only 34 per cent of capacity compared to 60 per cent in February, 1975. Occupancy for the current fiscal year is averaging 36 per cent compared to 59 per cent the previous year.

Eagleson said the hospital had a $15,820 deficit last month, raising the year's losses to $70,923.

The occupancy problem has been keyed to a shortage of doctors in the South Haven area.

The hospital board met with members of the medical staff in executive session after last night's regular meeting to discuss mutual problems including the doctor shortage.

scheduled for May 1.

The board also approved the purchase of $530 worth of basic reading materials and $12,188 worth of supplementary reading materials for next year.

Action on purchasing some type of mobile radio system for the district's buses for use in emergency situations was put off in order that the possibility of working with the Van Buren intermediate school district could be explored.

Buchanan Will Try To Cut $240,000

BUCHANAN — Buchanan school board said last night it would attempt to trim $240,000 from the 1976-77 school year operating budget for the school system in the wake of last week's defeat of a 20-mill property tax proposal by district voters.

In a statement issued last night's meeting, the board said it was instructing Supt. Richard Dougherty to prepare a list of programs and teachers that could be cut in order to reach the savings goal of $240,000.

The board said the $240,000 represented revenue from three of the 20-mill package. The three were sought as additional millage while the rest was renewal of a previous levy.

The 17 mills raised $1,800,000 during the current school year. No decision was announced during the meeting on whether the renewal would be sought again.

Voters rejected the combined package March 8, in a vote of 1,061 to 627.

The board, in seeking the millage, had said it was needed to support a tentative budget of $3.1 million for the 1976-77 school year. The projection was $269,000 over the current budget.

The board's statement said that areas to be considered for cutbacks included, but were not limited to student-teacher ratio, transportation, extra curricular activities, special services teachers, program offerings, and support and auxiliary services.

The board said that a citizens committee of about 30 people would be appointed to study and advise the board on cuts to be made.

The statement also noted that the deadline for notification of teachers not to be rehired next year is 60 days before the end of this school year and, "...the initial action must be taken soon."

In other action, the board took no action on a request to pay the final payment due for the recently-completed new middle school, despite a threat of legal action by the contractor on the grounds of breach of contract.

Carl Reinke, of Reinke and Sons Construction company, South Bend, attended the meeting and submitted a bill for final payment of $21,914, he said was certified for payment by Daverman and Associates, Grand Rapids, architects for the new school.

Reinke told the board his firm would take legal action if the bill was not paid, but the board noted that the Reinke company was also contractor for the 1988-built Ottawa elementary school and said leaking roof problems have plagued the school since it was built.

Construction of Ottawa school was a different matter, countered Reinke. He added that the subcontractor who built the elementary school has since gone out of business.

The board accepted the resignation of Thomas McLaughlin, middle school physical education teacher, but said it would recommend to the credentials committee of the Michigan Department of Education that tenure for McLaughlin be denied. McLaughlin submitted his resignation, effective March 5, on March 3. Dougherty said the sudden resignation was a breach of the teacher's contract with the school district.

Paw Paw Junks Basketball Plan, Substitutes Track

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Paw Paw school board voted last night to eliminate the junior high boys interscholastic basketball program and replace it with a track program for both boys and girls.

The action came after Mike Swartz, the system's athletic director, told the board that under federal provisions prohibiting sex discrimination, if there was a boys' program in basketball there had to be a similar program for girls.

Board Member Reynold Ous said under those conditions, track would be a better sport because a greater number of youngsters could participate.

Cost of starting the track program was put at $1,900, not including coaches' salaries. Junior high basketball will now be conducted at an intramural level for both sexes.

Voting to approve the change were Ous, and board members Mrs. Gloria Jean Berry, Harold Price, Douglas Howe and Robert Teske, with Mrs. Betty Rasmussen against and William Rhodes absent.

In another area, the board voted 4 to 2 to approve curriculum changes for next year at the Michigan Avenue (middle) school.

The main changes included the addition of classes in health education, values clarification, and a writing laboratory. All students will also begin classes at 8 a.m. next year. Presently, seventh and eighth graders start at 8 a.m. and sixth graders at 9 a.m.

Richard Brill, Michigan Avenue principal, predicted enrollment would drop from 551 to 527 students next year, necessitating the cut of one teacher.

Because of the added classes, Brill said, students electing to take band will have social studies only two or three times a week instead of five.

Voting for adoption were Mrs. Rasmussen, Price, Howe, and Ous, with Teske and Mrs. Berry against.

Supt. Norval Bove, said next year's projected elementary enrollment would be 848, down 11 students from this year. He recommended that that no changes be made in the present elementary staff.

William Carrington, assistant community education director, said from 128 to 130 students were expected to graduate from the adult completion program this spring, bringing the eight year total to about 300. Graduation for the class has been

ELDERLY, HANDICAPPED TRANSPORTATION South Haven Council Votes Year's Funds

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven city council last night agreed to financial participation for one year in the new Van Buren county transportation program for the elderly and handicapped.

The council agreed to support the service, which is expected to be operative in April, at 10 cents per capita. Based on the 1970 census, the city's obligation will be $647. The per capita from South Haven and other local communities participating will provide local funds for the service.

Unanimous council approval followed a presentation by Jerome Shumate, chairman of the volunteer Van Buren Transportation Task Force committee.

Shumate said the transportation system, which will utilize two van-type buses, is expected to operate two days a week in the South Haven area. He said a schedule and other details would be announced next week.

In other matters, council agreed to extend for three years an agreement with the South Haven public schools system to jointly sponsor the community recreation and education program. Council also authorized a $40,000 contribution for fiscal 1978-77. School board approved the same agreement last week.

Joseph Seiler, 327 Cherry street, was sworn in as a new second ward alderman to replace Rex Lineberry who resigned on March 5. Seiler will serve until end of 1977.

The ceremony followed a repeat of council action to accept Lineberry's resignation and appoint Seiler. Council was reacting to a challenge by the South Haven branch of the American Association of University Women who contended that action at the special council meeting violated the city charter.

The council at the special meeting appointed Seiler to serve until the end of Lineberry's term in 1979, but charter prescribes that he serve only until the next regular city election since the vacancy was created 120 days before the election.

The AAUW also cited the council for calling a special meeting to handle the resignation, contending the action was "hasty, ill-considered and out-of-order." The AAUW also took the council to task for voting on Seiler's appointment by secret ballot, contending it too violated the charter.

Council voted 4 to 1 at the special meeting to select Seiler. His appointment last night was approved unanimously.

"We wish to emphasize that our concern in this case is with procedures, not personalities," noted Mrs. Lucinda Komblevitz, chairman of the AAUW's legislative committee. "We are confident that the new appointee, Mr. Joseph Seiler, is an excellent choice."

Without significant discussion, council said it would not object if the state Liquor Control commission renews the tavern and hotel liquor licenses in the city. At its March 2 meeting council delayed a decision, saying a recommendation by Police Chief Otto Buelow that all licenses be renewed was not detailed enough.

Buelow reiterated his recommendation last night and detailed his feelings that a problem at one downtown tavern is being corrected.

City Manager Albert Pierce reported that a meeting to review progress on a new airport master plan will be held next Monday at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Council by a 6 to 1 vote introduced an ordinance that would prohibit smoking in the council chambers. The dissenting vote came from Alderman Robert Warren as he pulled on a cigarette. In favor were Mayor Richard Lewis and Aldermen Matthew Goerg, Wilbur Ingraham, Ronald Kozlik, Norvan Books and Seiler.

Council authorized moving a curb for a drive along the Arkins News agency, 526 Phoenix street, six feet to the east to allow an addition to be built to the business while maintaining the drive.

Council voted not to allow a right turn on the red traffic signal light at Phoenix and Center streets. Right turns on the red will be allowed in Michigan on April 1 unless the intersection is marked to the contrary.

Council voted not to purchase two lots at Center and Carlwright streets from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kent, 802 Kalamazoo street, for a proposed lot-for lot pre-schoolers. The city has proposed construction of a lot on the south side in its Community Development Block grant pre-application.

A new citizen complaint procedure was announced by Lewis. He said Assessor Howard McDougall is also now serving as an administrative assistant to Pierce with primary responsibility for channeling citizen complaints to the appropriate department head for action.

Lewis said a multiple-part form used in the new system includes a copy that will be sent to the citizen after action has been taken.

Lewis also announced that the city is considering the construction of additional boat slips on the Black river near the municipal marina and the new boat launching ramps.

Ronald Pero, Brockway avenue, and Mrs. George (Diane) Chevesman, 522 Lyons street, were named to vacancies on the planning commission.

The council approved three charitable fund drives. The Jaycees will sell jelly April 4-7 with proceeds going to the county retarded citizens program; the hospital auxiliary will conduct a door-to-door membership drive from March 15-29, and the Kappa Theta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will go door-to-door for the cancer drive April 5-9.

SJ Township Ends Water Tax Need

The St. Joseph township board Monday night formally asked Berrien county to pay off $1,650,000 in water system bonds, a move that could save the township $102,000 a year in interest costs.

Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the bond reduction would make it unnecessary ever again to levy the township-wide property tax originally adopted when the township voted to install the water system.

Benson said remaining bonds of some $2,285,000 could be paid off with revenue from the sale of water and from special assessments previously levied against property owners.

The payment approved last night is one of the results of an agreement between St. Joseph and Lincoln townships over distribution of water revenues and share of costs.

The agreement, reached in an out-of-court settlement Feb. 6, provided that excess money from the $5,325,000 bond issue sold in 1970 to finance the project be distributed on the basis of $1,165,365 to St. Joseph township and $73,908 to Lincoln township. In addition, Lincoln township agreed to pay $150,000 more as its share of the cost of installing the water system.

St. Joseph township will use its $1,165,000 share of surplus bond money, the $150,000 reduction in its share of the water system costs achieved by transfer to Lincoln, plus accumulated interest, some operating revenues and some pre-paid special assessments to make the $1,650,000 payoff on the bond issue.

The cost of the system was less than anticipated. The bond money was invested and considerable was accumulated.

According to the adjusted bond debt at the time of the settlement last month, St. Joseph township owes $3,935,000 and Lincoln township owes $1,390,000. The bonds are backed by Berrien county.

Benson said the large payment on the principal will eliminate the necessity of ever again having to have to levy the tax approved to protect the bond holders. The property tax could have risen as high as 3.52 mills under the original debt reduction schedule.

The tax had been levied for four years. It was two mills in 1971-72 and one mill in 1973-74. The tax was dropped last year.

In another water-related move the board voted 3 to 2 to remove the $4 per year hydrant charge levied against water users living west of the St. Joseph river.

The hydrant charge will be absorbed by the township. It will cost approximately $4,000 a year. The same charge is not levied against residents living in the Fairplain section of St. Joseph township. The water service contract with Benton Harbor is different than the one with St. Joseph.

Benson, Clerk Bill Payne Smith and Trustee Carl Reschke voted to remove the charge. Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio and Trustee Robert DeVries voted "no" and Trustee Carroll Gerbel abstained. The proposal was tabled March 1. DiMaggio said he voted no because he thought the item needed more study.

In other action the board voted not to make a contribution to Blossomtime Inc.; approved paying $500 to the Berrien Metro narcotics squad; passed a resolution extending its appreciation to Edward Weisbruch, retired manager of Ross field; and heard that $3,101,610 or 94 per cent of the 1975 township tax had been collected by March 1.

Benson announced the board is scheduled to hold its annual meeting with the Berrien County Road commission on March 23 and said the annual township meeting will be 1 p.m. Saturday, April 3 in the Fairplain West school, 1901 Fairplain avenue.

SOUTH HAVEN — The state health department has given tentative approval to South Haven Community hospital's proposed $968,000 improvement program. Wayne Eagleson, hospital administrator, reported to the hospital board last night.

Buchanan Will Try To Cut $240,000

BUCHANAN — Buchanan school board said last night it would attempt to trim $240,000 from the 1976-77 school year operating budget for the school system in the wake of last week's defeat of a 20-mill property tax proposal by district voters.

In a statement issued at last night's meeting, the board said it was instructing Supt. Richard Dougherty to prepare a list of programs and teachers that could be cut in order to reach the savings goal of $240,000.

The board said the $240,000 represented revenue from three of the 20-mill package. The three were sought as additional millage while the rest was renewal of a previous levy.

The 17 mills raised $1,990,000 during the current school year. No decision was announced during the meeting on whether the renewal would be sought again.

Voters rejected the combined package March 8, in a vote of 1,061 to 627.

The board, in seeking the millage, had said it was needed to support a tentative budget of $3.1 million for the 1976-77 school year. The projection was $200,000 over the current budget.

The board's statement said that areas to be considered for cutbacks included, but were not limited to student-teacher ratio, transportation, extra curricular activities, special services teachers, program offerings, and support and auxiliary services.

Fuel Adjustment Clauses Attacked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Electric companies would lose the power to charge residential customers, automatically put higher fuel expenses under legislation proposed by a special House committee.

The committee unanimously agreed Monday to introduce measures eliminating the automatic cost pass-through for residential users under a four-year-old fuel adjustment clause.

State Public Service Commission records show that two-thirds of the increased electric bills paid in the past two years resulted from the fuel adjustment clauses, which let the utilities recoup expenses without PSC review.

Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, joined with the committee's four Republicans to oppose a move by other committee Democrats to abolish the automatic monthly charges for commercial and industrial customers.

Utilities say dropping the fuel clause would be financially disastrous.

"Two-thirds of the increase in electric rates has been without notice, without hearings, without challenge, and, we conclude, also without serious regulatory scrutiny," concluded the committee staff report on the clauses.

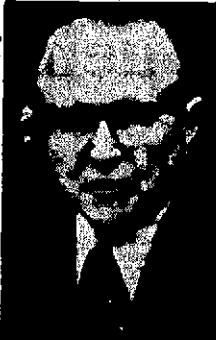

The committee, which has been studying utility regulation and rate-setting since June, held its final session Monday. Members approved numerous recommendations for laws to restructure the state Public Service Commission and punish utilities for imprudent decisions.

The fuel adjustment clauses have been in effect for commercial and industrial users for more than 35 years. A 1972 law extended the power to include residential users.

"Frankly, (abolishing the clause for all customers) could very well hurt the utilities, particularly if the cost of fuel increased the same as it did in 1973 and 1974," said Allen Briggs, an Upper Peninsula attorney and committee staff member.

Staff accountants said that under the committee's proposal, utilities would be able to pass on to their commercial and industrial customers all but 25 to 30 per cent of their higher fuel costs each month.

The expenses not passed on in higher monthly bills would need formal PSC approval during rate proceedings, which often take nine months to a year.

PBB Prober May Ask Suspensions

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The chairman of a special House committee probing the PBB livestock poisoning said Monday he might seek the suspension of the directors of the Department of Public Health and Agriculture.

Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, said he has received information at public hearings on cattle contamination problems indicating the directors should be suspended pending a probe of their handling of the matter.

Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball has been directing the quarantine and disposal of affected cattle, while Health Director Maurice Reizen has directed the public health aspect of the contamination.

Reizen has said there appears to be no traceable effect of the poisoning on farm families.

Albosta said he would ask his committee to request that Gov. William Milliken temporarily suspend both men until the allegations against them are cleared up. Albosta said he has collected various charges at public hearings on the matter.

Albosta said the charges concern Reizen's handling of a health study to determine PBB's effects on humans, and Ball's handling of the quarantining of animals contaminated with PBB.

Albosta emphasized the allegations have yet to be substantiated. But he said he was told the health study was mismanaged and quarantines were temporarily lifted to permit the sale of cattle.

The two-year-old problem began with the mixture of the fire-retardant chemical polybrominated biphenyl with grain. Thousands of livestock have been destroyed because of the mixup.

There was no immediate comment from Milliken's office.

Veterans Ask Benefits Be Extended

DOWAGIAC — Several Southwestern Michigan college students here who are veterans have begun a letter-writing campaign urging Congress to pass bills extending for two more years the May 31 deadline ending education benefits for many veterans.

According to the leader of the campaign, SMC student Jim Waidelich, the deadline will end Veterans' administration education assistance for all veterans discharged between Jan. 31, 1955, and June 1, 1960.

Waidelich said the deadline will mean the end of the veteran's tutorial program for many SMC veterans.

He said legislation is pending in both houses of Congress which extend education benefits for two more years and which would increase to 45 the number of months a veteran can receive assistance.

State Appeals Court Wants Van Buren Sentence 'Clarified'

PAW PAW — The state court of appeals has remanded back to Van Buren circuit court for clarification the May 12, 1975, sentencing of a Lawton man.

The appeals court said the lower court failed to say why it was for the good of the people of the state for then-Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr. to accept a "no contest" plea from Gerald F. O'Connor, 37, of 523 First street, Lawton.

O'Connor had pleaded no contest to a charge of felonious assault in connection with an alleged broken beer bottle attack against another man in June, 1974, at a Lawton tavern. O'Connor was sentenced to a prison term of from 32 months to four years on the charge.

George Dunn, an assistant Van Buren county prosecutor, said the appeal will have no effect on the plea by O'Connor or the sentence he received.

SJ ELKS TO HOST BANQUET

St. Joseph Elks will host the Southwest Michigan district ritualistic contest and awards banquet Friday and Saturday at the lodge rooms, 518 Broad street, St. Joseph. Exalted Ruler Robert Dasse announced.

Nine lodges in the district from Niles, St. Joseph, Dowagiac, Benton Harbor, Paw Paw, Oshtemo, Sturgis, Kalamazoo and South Haven, will compete for the honor of representing the district at the state ritualistic competition May 14 and 15 in Clawson-Troy.

Lodges from Allegan, Holland and Three Rivers will not be competing. Dasse said Carl Bjorne, president of the Michigan Elks association, has announced a new club is being organized at Gaylord. It is the state's 74th Elks lodge.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three beaches on the Atlantic Coast of Florida were closed Monday when several schools of sharks were sighted less than a mile from shore. Head lifeguard Charlie Gainick ordered swimmers out of the water at Hunston Park, Jaycee Park and the city's south beach.

Waterliet Ambulance Seeks Drivers

WATERLIET — Volunteer ambulance drivers are needed during the day for the Waterliet city-ship ambulance service, according to William Fizzell, chairman of the ambulance board.

Fizzell said drivers are needed on call from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Volunteers are paid $5 for the first hour when called out and $2.50 for each additional hour. They are notified when they are needed by pocket-pagers.

In addition to driving, the volunteers assist the full-time ambulance attendants when needed, Fizzell said.

Fizzell said interested residents can apply for daytime volunteer work at the Waterliet ambulance service office in Waterliet city hall.

Stevensville Pair To Cue Carolina Festival Dancers

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farms and Features Editor

A Stevensville couple who lead one of the largest round dance clubs in southwestern Michigan have been invited to serve as instructors for a second year at the famed Fontana Village Resort dance festival at Fontana Dam, N.C.

Buzz and Dianne Pereira and another set of instructors will cue for an expected 1,300 dancers at each of two festival sessions, May 9-10 and Sept. 19-20. The Fontana festival draws dancers from across the nation.

The Pereiras are leaders of the "Buzz Steppers" round dance club that meets weekly at Stevensville, and they also cue the round dances for the Twin Cities Square Dance club in Fairplain and the Dancing Squares in St. Joseph.

Round dancing is a set dance routine similar to ballroom dancing, but with a definite routine of step patterns to specific music. All couples on the floor do the same steps at the same time, according to the cue given by the leaders.

Pereira was an Arthur Murray ballroom dance instructor in California before he came to Michigan. He also was a competition figure and dance skater on both ice and roller skates, and was a commissioned judge for dance skating competitions.

Mrs. Pereira's parents have been avid square and round dancers many years, and soon after the Pereiras were married in 1968 they decided to take up the activity.

Last year, the Stevensville couple was invited to try out with the instructor staff at the Fontana festival. Their work earned them the return engagement this year. Their son, Mark, 4, cued one dance last year at Fontana and won the crowd. He's practicing to cue another one this year.

CONGRESS IS COOLING TOWARD 'REGULATORS'

and EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slush government control of airlines and trucks. Lighten the burden of federal paperwork. Let agencies die automatically. Veto the regulators' regulations.

After a decade of expanding federal control of American life, Congress is considering these and similar proposals with various degrees of seriousness. Congress is clearly having second thoughts.

Momentum has shifted toward reconsideration of the extent to which bureaucratic decisions, made largely by unelected officials, should rule the nation's life and business.

In this election year, the presidential candidates sometimes describe the government they seek to head almost as the American colonists spoke of the British crown 200 years ago.

President Ford denounces the "petty tyranny" of federal regulators. The Senate's number two Democrat, Robert Byrd of West Virginia, says these regulators impose an "intolerable burden."

Yet special interest groups are already fighting to preserve regulations that favor them and polls show no general public uprising against controls. No revolution seems likely soon and the prospect is for long debate, perhaps years of it, before major changes are made.

REGULATORY VETO

Perhaps the best prospect for quick passage is a proposal to allow either house of Congress to block new regulation simply by a majority vote. Presently it takes a law passed by both houses to overturn a regulation — as happened after the Department of Transportation required seat belt interlocks on new cars.

House sponsor Elliot Levitas, D-Cal., thinks the regulators would be more careful if their regulations — 7,496 in 1974 — could be rejected more easily by Congress. In that year, Congress itself passed only 404 laws.

"We are saying we want to take a look at these regulations. And when they come up with a damn fool regulation, say 'No, you've gone too far,'" says Rep. Edward W. Pattison, D-N.Y.

But critics say Congress is not equipped to handle the flood of regulations and that the congressional review period would simply mean more delay and another chance for pressure groups to push their views. THE SUNSET AMENDMENT An idea with demonstrated support would put limits on the life of any new government agency and perhaps on some old ones too. The idea, dubbed "the sunset amendment," would kill the agencies after a certain period unless Congress and the President thinks they are doing a good enough job to deserve a continuation.

"Good intentions can sometimes become rigidly codified into law and then calcified into entrenched, expensive and frequently unresponsive bureaucracies," says freshman Rep. Max Baucus, D-Mont.

During House debate on a proposed consumer agency, Baucus said he wanted to protect consumers, but was leery of setting up a new bureaucracy.

"With a 'self-destruct' provision attached... the risks of setting up a new agency are worth taking," he said. The sunset rider passed the House without significant opposition and is now headed for a House-Senate conference committee.

Plans also have been offered in the Senate and House to insert self-destruct clauses in the charters of nine federal agencies, a move to force congressional review of their performance.

Another plan, sponsored by

Byrd and Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, would require the President to offer a new plan each year for five years to eliminate wasteful and unneeded regulations in specified areas, including banking, safety, pollution and others. The President's plans would be adopted automatically unless Congress blocked them or substituted its own. Under this proposal, the built-in inertia of Congress would work in favor of change and not against it.

FLEXIBILITY

Congress now is seriously studying removing government controls that restrict free competition between businesses, especially in the transportation industry.

Some agree with UCLA professor George Hilton: "The Interstate Commerce Commission should be abolished, its building torn down and the ground sown with salt."

A more modest plan by the Ford administration advocates loosening, but not abolishing, economic regulation of railroads, airlines and trucks. It suggests greater flexibility in setting rates and more freedom to offer new services or cut unprofitable ones.

A modified version of Ford's railroad proposal was recently enacted, tied to federal takeover of seven financially ailing railroads.

For airlines, Ford suggests allowing companies to raise or lower fares by a certain percentage on individual routes, rather than for all their flights, without intervention by the Civil Aeronautics Board. And the airlines could increase the number of cities they serve or drop unprofitable flights more easily.

A Democratic-dominated Senate subcommittee reported in late February that giving airlines increased freedom to raise and lower fares — like Ford's suggestion — could mean fare cuts on major routes of 30 to 40 per cent. The Air Transport Association representing the major airlines, opposes deregulation, saying it would mean increased fares and reduced service to small cities and towns.

But proponents argue that regional firms would find it profitable to offer services to smaller cities and towns, even if the giant national companies did not.

Ford's trucking proposals are opposed by the American Trucking Association, representing the major truckers, and the Teamsters Union. They say loosened government control would hurt service and raise shipping rates for less populated areas.

Currently under study by Ford aides are federal regulations that keep the fledgling cable television industry from bidding on major movies and from importing an unlimited number of signals from distant cities.

Station owners, facing increased competition from less regulated cable systems, have already moved to drum up opposition. The National Association of Broadcasters reportedly budgeted $500,000 to fight cable deregulation, and CBS has just hired a Washington lobbyist to fight pay television.

TAKES vs. REGULATION

One novel idea would eliminate volumes of government regulations and lay off platoons of inspectors and clerks almost at a single stroke: tax rather than regulate such things as auto emissions, gasoline consumption and industrial accidents.

"We've got to find a way to let people's greed work for us, and not against," says Charles Schultze of the Brookings Institution, budget director in Lyndon B. Johnson's administration.

Thus, Washington wouldn't bar sales of cars that spew more than specified levels of pollutants. Instead, a tax would be levied so that the more a car pollutes the more it costs.

Robert Stewart Smith of Cornell University, a Labor Department analyst during the Nixon administration, would junk the voluminous safety rulebook of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and substitute a tax on injuries and deaths.

Thus, employers would have a financial incentive to make their workplaces safer and would be free to do so any way they feel most suitable. Federal regulations now dictate the proper width for stairways, the proper height for safety rails and even the proper design of toilets.

But the idea has limits. Smith concedes federal rules are necessary to curb workers' exposure to industrial poisons and health hazards. This is because job-caused illnesses sometimes take years to show up and are difficult to pin on a specific employer.

And there are political obstacles. Labor leaders don't embrace the idea of placing a price on a worker's life or limb.

FARM REGULATION

Neither the President nor Congress has attacked wasteful and anti-competitive aspects of federal agricultural marketing orders, which regulate sales of milk, fruits, nuts and some vegetables.

However, a staff report by the Federal Trade Commission has described these regulatory systems as damaging to consumers. For example, food has been destroyed to keep prices up. The report says there are legal grounds for civil court suits in certain cases.

A consumer group is suing the secretary of agriculture for failure to take legal action against dairy cooperatives that charge premiums above federal milkman prices.

These moves have stirred stiff reaction from farm groups. The National Association of Farmer Cooperatives has bought full page newspaper ads to oppose any move against co-ops.

THE PUBLIC'S VIEW

A poll of 2,900 people — conducted by a New York firm for the National Advertising Council — found 43 per cent saying there is too little regulation. Only 22 per cent said there is too much, with the rest having mixed feelings or no opinion.

Another survey, by the Institute of Social Research at the University of Michigan, whose consumer confidence surveys are widely used by business, found two-thirds of the 1,431 people questioned were satisfied with their last contact with government.

Yet many politicians say their constituents don't trust government, especially since Watergate. And they say joblessness and rising prices are making voters ask whether they can afford the high cost of cleaner air, safer autos or regulated air and truck rates.

The administration's pressure for deregulation has brought some changes already.

The Federal Communications Commission is moving to cut the record-keeping requirements for small broadcasters. And the ICC has allowed for-profit truckers to save fuel, wages and wear on equipment by taking short-cuts that were once prohibited.

But the present regulatory scheme was built up over many years, starting with creation of the ICC in 1887. It has powerful friends and won't be dismantled easily or quickly.

SJ Schools Tell Storm Procedure

Tornadoes that touched down in Illinois and Indiana last week and an earlier windstorm that did considerable damage in the Stevensville area has prompted inquiries to St. Joseph school officials on their storm procedure.

Supt. Burton R. Aldrich said the school policy is to keep youngsters in school "unless we can be sure that it is safe for the youngsters to go home."

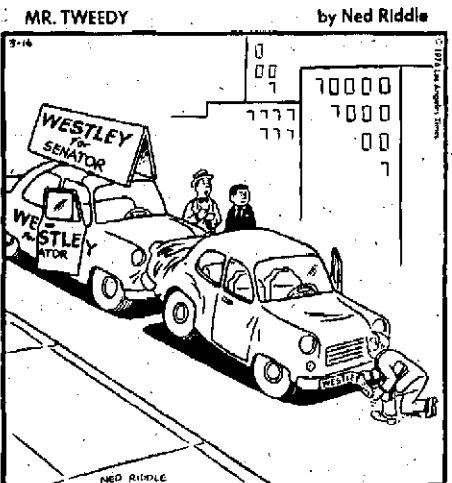

Aldrich said that tornado drills are held periodically to teach youngsters what to do in case a tornado is sighted or strikes.

Aldrich said the school district receives warnings of tornado and other dangerous weather conditions from various sources including police agencies, evaluates these reports and gathers supplemental information from various areas of the school district.

Aldrich said that because of the number of bus routes, drivers to be contacted and other factors, there is a time factor of nearly 45 minutes between the decision to dismiss school early and the arrival of the buses at the various schools to begin transporting students home.

If dangerous conditions develop early in the school day, kindergarten pupils who are bused to afternoon sessions will not be picked up by buses. Area radio stations will be asked to broadcast this information.

Aldrich said it is his responsibility to make the decision to close school early. In his absence it is the responsibility of Business Manager Dennis Percy.

CONGRESS IS COOLING TOWARD 'REGULATORS'

BROOKS JACKSON and EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slush government control of airlines and trucks. Lighten the burden of federal paperwork. Let bad agencies die automatically. Veto the regulators' regulations.

After a decade of expanding federal control of American life, Congress is considering these and similar proposals with various degrees of seriousness. Congress is clearly having second thoughts.

Momentum has shifted toward reconsideration of the extent to which bureaucratic decisions, made largely by unelected officials, should rule the nation's life and business.

In this election year, the presidential candidates sometimes describe the government they seek to head almost as the American colonists spoke of the British crown 200 years ago.

President Ford denounces the "petty tyranny" of federal regulators. The Senate's number two Democrat, Robert Byrd of West Virginia, says these regulators impose an "intolerable burden." Congressmen say they get thousands of letters complaining of excessive federal regulation.

Yet special interest groups are already fighting to preserve regulations that favor them and polls show no general public uprising against controls. No revolution seems likely soon and the prospect is for long debate, perhaps years of it, before major changes are made.

REGULATORY VETO

Perhaps the best prospect for quick passage is a proposal to allow either house of Congress to block new regulation simply by a majority vote. Presently it takes a law passed by both houses to overturn a regulation — as happened after the Department of Transportation required seat belt interlocks on new cars.

Senate Hopefuls Are Invited To GOP Dinner Here

Lee Auble, Berrien county Republican chairman, has announced that all five candidates for the GOP nomination for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Philip Hart will be represented at the Bicentennial dinner Monday, March 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, south of Benton Harbor.

The candidates are Deane Baker, Lewis Engman, Marvin Esch, Robert Huber, and Thomas Brennan. The first two have indicated they will attend in person.

The Lincoln Day dinner this year is to be a Bicentennial dinner, and will feature a half-hour musical salute to the Bicentennial by the St. Joseph high school stage band under the direction of Robert W. Brown.

Two other groups will perform American music during the evening. The Lake Michigan college ragtime ensemble, directed by Dr. Donald Moely, will provide dinner music. Members of this group are Belinda Brown from Lakeshore; Cindy Albrecht from Lakeshore;

Gary Hartman from Coloma; Doug Henkleman from St. Joseph; Chuck Hartzell from St. Joseph; Brad Whaley from Benton Harbor; and Kevin Winkel from Hartford.

Also appearing will be the Niles Folk Mass Singers, who are Lynn Schmelker, Diane Schmelker, Sean Mattingly, Kathy McComber, Ava Wurz, and Bary Cary.

Tickets are available at $8.00 each from Robert U. McDowell, ticket chairman; any Republican elected county official or county commissioner; and at the Republican headquarters in the Inter-City Bank building, Benton Harbor.

The race was held just prior to the annual St. Patrick's Day parade and featured over 100 runners. Crim trains with a multi-mile daily run. (AP Wirephoto)

St. Joe Cemeteries Request Wreath Removals By April 1

Winter decorations on graves in Riverview and City cemeteries, St. Joseph, should be removed by April 1, according to Supt. Robert Ketelhut. Decorations such as wreaths, crosses, glass blocks used as flower holders and other similar items should be removed. Sextons will remove and discard all such decorations left in the cemetery after April 1, Ketelhut said.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, March 16, the 76th day of 1976. There are 290 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1802, Congress authorized the establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

On this date: In 1521, the Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan reached the Philippines.

In 1534, England severed all relations with the Roman Catholic Papacy. In 1678, Indians destroyed the Rhode Island settlements of Warwick and Providence.

In 1830, it was a slow day on Wall Street, with only 31 shares of stock traded on the New York Stock exchange.

In 1962, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's wife divorced him after 31 years of marriage.

In 1974, President Richard Nixon said in Chicago he would not resign because he refused to be party to the destruction of the Presidency of the United States.

Ten years ago: The Gemini 8 astronauts were rescued after an emergency landing in the Pacific, having made the first link with another satellite in orbit. Five years ago: Congress approved and sent to President Nixon a bill raising Social Security benefits 10 per cent for 26 million Americans.

One year ago: The government in Portugal resigned to prepare the way for the appointment of a new Cabinet that would reflect that country's sharp turn in the left since an abortive coup the previous week.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia ordered that May 17, 1776, be observed as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer.

Senate Hopefuls Are Invited To GOP Dinner Here

Lee Auble, Berrien county Republican chairman, has announced that all five candidates for the GOP nomination for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Philip Hart will be represented at the Bicentennial dinner Monday, March 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, south of Benton Harbor.

The candidates are Deane Baker, Lewis Engman, Marvin Esch, Robert Huber, and Thomas Brennan. The first two have indicated they will attend in person.

The Lincoln Day dinner this year is to be a Bicentennial dinner, and will feature a half-hour musical salute to the Bicentennial by the St. Joseph high school stage band under the direction of Robert W. Brown.

Two other groups will perform American music during the evening. The Lake Michigan college ragtime ensemble, directed by Dr. Donald Moely, will provide dinner music. Members of this group are Belinda Brown from Lakeshore; Cindy Albrecht from Lakeshore;

Gary Hartman from Coloma; Doug Henkleman from St. Joseph; Chuck Hartzell from St. Joseph; Brad Whaley from Benton Harbor; and Kevin Winkel from Hartford.

Also appearing will be the Niles Folk Mass Singers, who are Lynn Schnelker, Diane Schnelker, Sean Mattingly, Kathy McComber, Ava Wurz, and Bary Cary.

Tickets are available at $8.00 each from Robert U. McDowell, ticket chairman; any Republican elected county official or county commissioner; and at the Republican headquarters in the Inter-City Bank building, Benton Harbor. Members of the stage band are Doug Arend, Bruce Bartz, Nancy Beal, Dennis Boehme, Jeff Bond, Bill Born, Warren Buckleitner, Craig Carlson, Tom Crowner, John Farmer, Rick Fedor, Steve Gray, Jeff Jones, Tim King, David Maki, Jim Nason, Jon Payne, Darla Pechtal, Steve Piraino, Glen Scowcroft, Mike Van Brocklin, Jim Watson, and Phil Zimmerman.

POLITICAL RACE: Speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives Bobby Crim, grins as he crosses the finish line Sunday in Bay City nearly 3½ minutes ahead of his opponent, Rep. Melvin Larson (R-Oxford) in a run-a-thon that raised money for the Michigan Special Olympics. Crim finished the 5-mile race in 35 minutes, 28 seconds. The race was held just prior to the annual St. Patrick's Day parade and featured over 100 runners. Crim trains with a multi-mile daily run. (AP Wirephoto)

St. Joe Cemeteries Request Wreath Removals By April 1

Winter decorations on graves in Riverview and City cemeteries, St. Joseph, should be removed by April 1, according to Supt. Robert Ketelhut. Decorations such as wreaths, crosses, glass blocks used as flower holders and other similar items should be removed. Sextons will remove and discard all such decorations left in the cemetery after April 1, Ketelhut said.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, March 16, the 76th day of 1976. There are 290 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1802, Congress authorized the establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

On this date:
In 1521, the Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan reached the Philippines.

In 1534, England severed all relations with the Roman Catholic Papacy. In 1676, Indians destroyed the Rhode Island settlements of Warwick and Providence.

In 1830, it was a slow day on Wall Street, with only 31 shares of stock traded on the New York Stock exchange.

In 1962, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's wife divorced him after 31 years of marriage.

In 1974, President Richard Nixon said in Chicago he would not resign because he refused to be party to the destruction of the Presidency of the United States.

Ten years ago: The Gemini 8 astronauts were rescued after an emergency landing in the Pacific, having made the first link with another satellite in orbit. Five years ago: Congress approved and sent to President Nixon a bill raising Social Security benefits 10 per cent for 26 million Americans.

One year ago: The government in Portugal resigned to prepare the way for the appointment of a new Cabinet that would reflect that country's sharp turn to the left since an abortive coup the previous week.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia ordered that May 17, 1776, be observed as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer.

Gifts To State

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan will be able to accept as gifts either historic sites or money to keep them in shape under a bill on its way to the governor. The bill, which gives the gift-receiving duties to the secretary of state, was approved in its final form Monday on a 98-1 vote in the House. Approval was of a compromise version worked out in a joint House-Senate committee. The Senate has already approved the compromise version. Under the measure, any money received as a gift under the bill would be put in a state historic site fund for use in buying and maintaining historic sites throughout the state.

Houghton DART Is Out Of Cash

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — The Dial-A-Ride bus system in Houghton ended over the weekend because the city couldn't come up with enough money to pay its share of the costs.

The system, similar to a taxi service, had been supported for the last 18 months by grants of one-third each from the state and the city. Fares made up the remaining third.

Houghton officials said they had hoped the city of Hancock would help support the system, but Hancock city officials voted against providing funds.

Stocks Turn Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today in active trading early into the session after their steep, two-day slide.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead more than a point after opening trades, but New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price held even with those advancing.

Prices dropped off sharply in the past two sessions after the Dow climbed above the 1,000 point mark, an important psychological level for many investors.

And brokers said some investors were made hesitant Monday by France's decision to withdraw from the joint float system of European currencies. Uncertainties in the world monetary structure had a negative influence on the stock market three years ago, analysts noted.

Early prices today included General Motors, up 3/8 to 68; U.S. Steel, up 1/4 at 83 1/2; and General Electric, up 3/4 to 50 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones average slid 13.14 to 974.50 and stocks declining in price led those advancing by close to a 41 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The exchange's broad composite index lost .58 to 53.33.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 19.57 million shares, the lightest since Jan. 2.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell off 1.09 to 103.39.

Dow Says Its Profits Rose 10%

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Chemical Company's profits rose 10 per cent to $616 million in 1975, the company said Monday.

The earnings amounted to $6.65 for each share of stock, and compared with $557.4 million or $6.03 a share the year before.

Sales declined 1 per cent from $4.94 billion to $4.89 billion.

In the fourth quarter, the company earned $166.3 million or $1.80 a share. In the previous fourth quarter its earnings were $124.1 million or $1.35 a share.

Fourth-quarter sales rose to $1.28 billion from $1.25 billion.

During the year, sales of chemicals and metals rose from $2.62 billion in 1974 to $2.75 billion, and sales of bioproducts and consumer products rose from $645 million to $712 million.

Plastics and packaging sales declined, however, from $1.67 billion to $1.43 billion.

PLANE SKIDS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Delta Air Lines 727 airplane skidded off a rain-slick runway at Birmingham Municipal Airport early today, kicking up gravel and debris that closed the airport's main runway for five hours. None of the 90 passengers or seven crew members was hurt, airline officials said.

Monthly Investment Plan Is Best Route

Q. We are in our early 30s with an annual income of $20,000 and $2,000 in savings. Our only debt is a home mortgage at 7 1/2 per cent and a $2,000 auto loan. What's our best move?

A. A 7 1/2 per cent mortgage loan for young people represents no serious threat. A $2,000 savings account could be doubled. A $2,000 auto loan, I fear, is costing you "plenty." Could it be wiped out with a saving in interest?

After these changes you should set up a monthly investment plan with a brokerage firm or with a mutual fund and begin a long-term, periodic investment program. The goal should be capital growth.

Q. When I asked my broker at a leading firm if there were any new offerings of AA or better corporate bonds, he suggested that I buy into his firm's bond fund which, he said, invested only in bonds rated A or better and which would yield about 10 per cent. The fee for a $5,000 purchase would be $200. Is this a high fee?

A. Most mutual common stock funds which have a buying commission (a "load" fund) would charge $425 for a $5,000 deal. You could buy $5,000 face value of bonds of a corporation for around $25 to $50.

The firm's bond fund, of course, provides safekeeping of securities, supervision of the portfolio, monthly income checks, etc. I don't know about a solid 10 per cent payout. It may vary as interest rates change.

But either the firm's fund or $5,000 worth of some top quality corporation would be O.K.

Q. I bought 100 shares of stock for $1,203.33. They were split 3 for 2 and a year later I sold the 150 shares for $1,444.80, a profit of $240.80. How do I report this on my tax form? Do I apply 50 per cent of long-term losses toward the $1,000 allowed on dividends and interest?

A. If you sell for $1,444.80 something you bought for $1,203.33, the long-term gain is $241.47.

You report gains and losses on Schedule D of the 1040 form. If you have no capital losses, you add one-half of this long-term gain (made on an investment of more than six months' duration) to your other taxable income. If you have capital losses you offset them with this $241.47 loss.

There is no $1,000 "allowance" specifically on interest or dividends.

All interest is subject to all income taxes with these exemptions: Treasury bond interest is exempt from state and local income taxes; municipal bond interest is exempt from Federal income taxes and in most instances from state and local taxes.

The first $100 of dividends received by an individual investor is exempt from income taxes. If owned jointly, up to $200 in dividends are exempt. If a husband and wife filing a joint return have, say, $275 in dividends ($200 his, $75 hers — only $175 is exempt).

Q. I recently bought a $50,000 home for cash. I've considered putting a mortgage on it and investing the proceeds in municipal bonds, but I've been told the IRS would not allow a tax deduction on the mortgage interest if I did so. True?

A. True. You can't borrow money to buy tax-exempt bonds and deduct the interest on that loan from your taxable income.

UAW Forge Workers To Fight Noise

DETROIT (AP) — Forge workers who claim noise in the factory can damage their hearing and hamper their sex lives say they plan to yell about the problem this week when the United Auto Workers union holds its bargaining convention.

Some 500 forge workers say they will demonstrate Thursday when the session opens, said Milton Holley, Holley is health and safety chairman for the UAW's Forge Council.

Holley said noise levels in factories where forges operate can hit 160 decibels. He said a federal study shows prolonged exposure to levels of 75 decibels or more can damage the ears and may increase risk of heart disease, poor circulation and ulcers.

He said the study also shows that noise pollution reduced the desire for sexual activity among workers.

Holley added that many of the union's 15,000 forge workers have impaired hearing as a result of their jobs, resulting in the demonstration's "Speak Up" designation.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock has branded noise a major health problem and car-makers in 1973 agreed to study forge-related hazards.

Five Van Buren Officials Ask Appointment Of Willis

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Five Van Buren county officials have sent a letter to Gov. Milliken urging him to appoint Prosecutor Frank D. Willis to the vacant Van Buren probate judgeship.

Willis, as well as Atty. William Hoyer of South Haven and Atty. Charles Wickett of Bloomington have announced they are seeking the post. Willis and Hoyer are Republicans while Wickett is a Democrat, although the post is technically non-partisan.

The officials who signed the letter included Clerk Charles E. MacDonald, Surveyor Donald Gilchrist, Drain Commissioner Elmyra Hearn, Register of Deeds Frank Blaney, and Sheriff Richard Stump.

The Van Buren GOP executive committee is scheduled to meet here Wednesday evening to make an endorsement for the appointment. The five officials are also members of the GOP executive committee as is Willis.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Snow is forecast Tuesday from the Ohio Valley to western New England. Rain is expected in the Northwest and showers are forecast for southern Florida. Clear to partly-cloudy skies are expected for most of the country. Cold weather is forecast for the Western Plains but warmer weather is expected for most of the country. (AP Wirephoto)

CLOSED THURSDAY

South Havenites Will Join Protest

SOUTH HAVEN — Members of the newly formed South Haven area Garagemen's association voted last night to take part Thursday in a Lansing protest over the state's new auto repair law.

Tom Tranker, 28, secretary of the association formed two weeks ago, said the vote last night means that 65 gas stations or automotive repair shops or agencies will be closed at least for Thursday in the South Haven area.

The South Haven area mechanics will join an estimated 2,000 repair shop owners from throughout the state for the protest rally.

The new law which went into effect on March 1 requires licensing and registration of auto repair firms and written estimates for repairs expected to cost more than $20.

Industry spokesman said the additional paperwork will cost each of the 40,000 repair shops in the state at least $5,000 per year, with the costs being passed on to the consumer.

Tranker said the Thursday shutdown in the South Haven area means no repair work, gas or wrecker services will be available for that day.

He said if auto mechanics don't get some satisfaction in Lansing Thursday, the shutdown of automotive shops could last longer.

Radio Shack Sales Are Up Sharply

FORT WORTH, Texas — Radio Shack, a division of Tandy Corporation (NYSE), reported its consumer sales in the United States and Canada for the month of February were $54,400,000, a 64 per cent gain over comparable sales of $33,100,000 for the same month last year.

Overall, Tandy Corporation's sales from continuing operations during the month of February, 1976, exceeded $59,200,000, a gain of 60 per cent over comparable sales during February, 1975 of $36,900,000.

In addition to the Radio Shack chain of more than 4,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states and Canada, the company has nearly 400 stores overseas operating under the name Tandy International Electronics, and an extensive manufacturing division in the U.S. and abroad.

February A Record For Airline

MINNEAPOLIS/ST. PAUL — North Central Airlines set new February traffic records as passenger miles jumped 24 per cent and loadings rose 15 per cent.

"Greater use of scheduled service and significantly increased charter activity contributed to the gains, and also, February had an extra day," according to David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales.

"The average passenger load was up 11 per cent," Moran said, "and the number of charter flights more than doubled — largely because of the low night charter rates introduced last fall."

Passenger miles flown exceeded 90.9 million in February, 24 percent over the 73.4 million in 1975, an indication that people are taking longer trips. Some 359,761 passengers were carried, a 15 percent rise from 312,572.

Cargo ton miles also improved substantially. Total ton miles of 902,475 for February were eight per cent more than the 832,671 a year earlier. Mail climbed 21 per cent, and freight was ahead 10 per cent; express was not offered in February. However, North Central recently introduced its own air express service which permits shippers to send cargo on designated flights.

HOLLYWOOD GROCERY

Store Robber Gets 20-25 Years

A Benton township man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 20 to 25 years in prison for an armed robbery of a Hollywood grocery store in which two teenage boys were injured.

Sentenced to prison by Judge William S. White was Sidney Caldwell, 19, of 1761 Council drive. He robbed Bernice Murphy, co-owner of Frank's Country store, at John Beers and Hollywood roads, of $211 with a butcher knife on June 7.

White noted Caldwell had only two minor arrests on his record, but "armed robbery is one of the most serious crimes we contend with. It was an aggravated robbery—two young boys who were totally innocent were injured."

The boys, ages 13 and 16, were treated at a hospital for injuries and released. One sustained a fractured collarbone when he was hurled over a counter, and the other was hit on the head with a pop bottle. Both were customers in the store at the time of the robbery.

In other sentences by White: Mary Jo McKinney, 20, of 387 Pavane street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for a no contest plea to a charge of petty larceny—the theft of a roast from the A & P store on Riverview drive in Benton Harbor on Sept. 17. The charged was reduced from larceny in a building.

Alvin Harris Wyrick, 27, of Muskegon, was placed on two years probation, with the first 30 days in jail, and assessed $200 fine and costs for attempting to carry a concealed weapon—a pistol—Nov. 29 on Main street in Benton township.

In sentences by Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Diane Stokes, 23, of 307 Pleasant street, Benton Harbor, was placed on three years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for attempted unarmed robbery Nov. 28 at Green's jewelry store, at 315 State street, St. Joseph.

John M. Collard, 17, of Wayne road, Buchanan, was placed on three years probation, with the first four months in jail, and ordered to pay $250 fine and costs for entering without breaking the residence of Max Nitz, on Hinchman road, Berrien Springs, on Oct. 29.

In arraignments before Judge Chester J. Byrns: Salvador A. Villarreal, 24, of Brownsville, Texas, pleaded innocent to two charges of delivery of heroin Feb. 20 in Niles.

William L. Jones, 21, of South Bend, pleaded innocent to a charge of negligent homicide stemming from the death of David Craig Prater Feb. 24 on US-31 near Ulery road in Niles township.

David L. Smith, 17, LaPorte, Ind., pleaded no contest to a charge of negligent homicide resulting from a traffic accident which took the life of Lyle C. Cheney, Jr., 19, Knox, Ind., Oct. 3 in New Buffalo township.

William Erby, 44, of 163 Confax avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) with a girl between the ages of 13 and 16 Feb. 23 in Benton Harbor.

Robert J. Bryant, 31, of 8989 Hill road, Columbia, pleaded innocent to a charge of attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct with a 15-year-old girl Jan. 23 in Bainbridge township.

Roosevelt Harris, 40, of 814 Baird street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder in connection with an alleged knife assault on Sessie Fields Feb. 13 in Benton Harbor.

Ray Allen Bender, 43, of 490 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to murder Elmore Harris with a shotgun Feb. 21 in Benton Harbor.

Ralph H. Miles, 26, of South Bend, pleaded guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon—a pistol—Oct. 18 in Benton Harbor.

South Havenite Sent To Prison

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A rural South Haven man was sentenced yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to serve from 14 months to five years in state prison as a result of his earlier guilty plea to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Vernon Burdette, 25, allegedly tried to defraud the Greyhound bus company of money by obtaining prepaid tickets under false pretenses.

The sentence was handed down by Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Also sentenced as a result of earlier guilty pleas were: Gerald Wayne Yates, 22, South Haven, six months in the county jail on a charge of larceny in a building in connection with a break-in last October at Melody Lanes, South Haven.

John Trudell, 19, Hartford, 90 days in jail, fine and costs of $200, and two years probation on a charge of attempted larceny over $100, a snowmobile in Hartford Jan. 10.

In arraignments, Leon W. Kirby, 34, Portage, pleaded innocent to a charge of malicious destruction of property growing out of the theft of a pick-up truck stolen from Kalamazoo which was later found burned near Paw Paw.

Luciano Zavala, 24, Hartford, pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property, a citizens band radio, stolen Feb. 11 in Hartford.

George Brister Jr., 32, Detroit, pleaded innocent to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .32-caliber pistol, in a car near Lawrence Feb. 26.

Myron Salnave, 25, 305 Marion, Hartford, pleaded innocent to a charge of delivering marijuana to a police informant.

Terry Oxford, 22, South Haven, pleaded guilty to a charge of abducting on a personal recognition bond set in connection with a charge of larceny by conversion.

Shudrick Anderson, 20, South Haven, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a Covert township home last May 31 and guilty to a charge of larceny in a building in connection with the Aug. 9 theft of a television set from a Bangor township home.

Maria Chandler, 10th avenue, South Haven, pleaded guilty to two counts of possessing heroin in South Haven during December, 1974.

Other persons sentenced yesterday for other violations were:

Weapons violations — Dorothy Moore, 51, of Flint, $105 for unlawfully carrying a pistol; James H. Black, 44, of Detroit, two days in jail and $100 for carrying a gun in an auto without a license; Thomas J. Rivas, 27, of Portage, Ind., $105 for possession of an unregistered pistol and, for impaired driving, $155.

Driving while license suspended — Raymond O. Huff, 28, of Detroit, three days in jail and $72 or 12 days in jail total; Frank A. Donlin, 26, of Walkerville, Ind., three days in jail and $80 or 12 days in jail total; Charles E. Hall, 26, of Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, three days in jail and $92 or 21 days in jail total and $20 or 20 days in jail.

Impaired driving — James L. Rennington, 34, of 227 Allen court, Watervliet, $305; Marion B. Moore, 46, of Flint, $155; Everett Braden, Jr., 31, of Notre Dame avenue, Stevensville, $100.

Driving under the influence of intoxicants — James Lewis, 35, of 44th avenue, Lawrence, $145 or 30 days in jail; Robert C. Wooten, 38, East Lansing, 90 days in jail, also 90 days for leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

Demanding examinations yesterday were: Aaron Taylor, 59, of Detroit, charged with carrying a concealed pistol in an auto March 12 in New Buffalo township. He was freed on bond.

Gail Simons, 24, and Christine Westbrook, 34, both of Robbins, Ill., charged with larceny of a suit from a building — Ollie's women's apparel store, St. Joseph — March 12. They were jailed under bonds of $3,500 each.

Gerald S. Scott, 24, of 1268 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of resisting arrest in St. Joseph March 15. He failed to post $2,000 bond.

William F. Craft, Jr., 21, of 3003 Lake Shore drive, apartment 325, St. Joseph, accused of assault with a deadly weapon, a nightstick, against St. Joseph Patrolman James Reeves, Jr., March 14. He was unable to post $2,500 bail.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police Monday someone used her name and address to borrow $500 from a Benton Harbor finance company.

Rosie Walls, 572 Niles avenue, said she called Community Finance company, 91 Wall street, to obtain a loan for herself and was told a $500 loan in her name had been granted March 10. Police said an investigation was continuing.

HOLLYWOOD GROCERY

Store Robber Gets 20-25 Years

A Benton township man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 20 to 50 years in prison for an armed robbery at a Royalton township store in which two teenage boys were injured.

Sentenced to prison by Judge William S. White was Sidney Caldwell, 19, of 1761 Council drive. He robbed Bernice Murphy, co-owner of Frank's Country store, at John Beers and Hollywood roads, of $211 with a butcher knife on June 7.

White noted Caldwell had only two minor arrests on his record, but "armed robbery is one of the most serious crimes we contend with. It was an aggravated robbery—two young boys who were totally innocent were injured."

The boys, ages 13 and 16, were treated at a hospital for injuries and released. One sustained a fractured collarbone when he was hurled over a counter, and the other was hit on the head with a pop bottle. Both were customers in the store at the time of the robbery.

In other sentences by White:

Mary Jo McKinney, 20, of 397 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for a no contest plea to a charge of petty larceny—the theft of a roast from the A & P store on Riverview drive in Benton Harbor on Sept. 17. The charge was reduced from larceny in a building.

Alvin Harris Wyrick, 27, of Muskegon, was placed on two years probation, with the first 30 days in jail, and assessed $200 fine and costs for attempting to carry a concealed weapon—a pistol—Nov. 29 on Main street in Benton township.

In sentences by Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Diane Stokes, 23, of 307 Pleasant street, Benton Harbor, was placed on three years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for attempted unarmed robbery Nov. 28 at Green's jewelry store, at 315 State street, St. Joseph.

John M. Collard, 17, of Wayne road, Buchanan, was placed on three years probation, with the first four months in jail, and ordered to pay $250 fine and costs for entering without breaking the residence of Max Nitz, on Hinchman road, Berrien Springs, on Oct. 20.

In arraignments before Judge Chester J. Byrns: Salvador A. Villarreal, 24, of Brownsville, Texas, pleaded innocent to two charges of delivery of heroin Feb. 20 in Niles.

William L. Jones, 21, of South Bend, pleaded innocent to a charge of negligent homicide stemming from the death of David Craig Prater Feb. 24 on US-31 near Ullery road in Niles township.

David L. Smith, 17, LaPorte, Ind., pleaded no

contest to a charge of negligent homicide resulting from a traffic accident which took the life of Lyle C. Cheney, Jr., 19, Knox, Ind., Oct. 3 in New Buffalo township.

William Erby, 44, of 163 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) with a girl between the ages of 13 and 16 Feb. 23 in Benton Harbor.

Robert J. Bryant, 31, of 6969 Hill road, Coloma, pleaded innocent to a charge of attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct with a 15-year-old girl Jan. 23 in Bainbridge township.

Roosevelt Harris, 40, of 614 Baird street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder in connection with an alleged knife assault on Sessie Fields Feb. 13 in Benton Harbor.

Ray Allen Bender, 43, of 496 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to murder Elnora Harris with a shotgun Feb. 21 in Benton Harbor.

Ralph H. Miles, 26, of South Bend, pleaded guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon—a pistol—Oct. 18 in Benton Harbor.

South Havenite Sent To Prison

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A rural South Haven man was sentenced yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to serve from 14 months to five years in state prison as a result of his earlier guilty plea to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Vernon Burnette, 25, allegedly tried to defraud the Greyhound bus company of money by obtaining prepaid tickets under false pretenses.

indeed short.

So often we set ourselves apart and refuse to become involved in what we term "worldly" activities. But if you do not observe first-hand you will never know the extent of the penetration of the filth and the sacrilegious form this filth has taken. One day we will be held accountable, and we need to know what we are fighting and get busy.

"Blazing Saddles" is the film. You will want to walk out after the first five minutes, but don't. Suffer through the entire picture for it is an education you need. Your young people are there and are loving it. And you and I are responsible for them.

DISGUSTED WITH HER AREA'S COVERAGE

Editor,
I bet this one never gets in the paper for people to read. I am one of many out here who are thoroughly disgusted with the coverage our area gets. About the big wind storm that went through here, the trailer of Sherman Honea and family was completely demolished, far worse than any of those in Stevensville, but there was only one tiny article about it.

After all, percentage-wise, we in the Hartford-Keeler area take as many papers as the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area but we have to get the South Bend paper to get all our news.

Also, the firemen didn't have to free Mr. Honea, as he was thrown out of the wreckage. Next, not a word was said about his children who were in the trailer, too. Also, apparently your left hand doesn't know what your right hand is doing as in Saturday's paper you stated Mr. Honea didn't have to be hospitalized and in the same paper, in the Watervliet hospital news, it shows that he was admitted Thursday night.

I don't know who your reporter is for this area but a three-year-old child could do better. We, out here don't even know if what we read in your paper is true or not. Then when we call you to ask where you receive your so called information we are always told you are out. Things were a little better before you became "The Herald-Palladium".

Another thing, in town where young boys and girls deliver the paper, they have to collect for papers that have already been delivered but out in the country where grown-ups are the carriers, they get their money a month and more in advance. This isn't right.

It seems your paper could stand a good housecleaning all around.

ON LOCKHEED: Japan's Prime Minister Takeo Miki addresses a news conference in Kanazawa, Japan. Miki said he will not ask President Ford to reconsider conditions specified to hand over information asked by Japan on the Lockheed payoff scandal. (AP Wirephoto)

In arraignments, Leon W. Kirby, 34, Portage, pleaded innocent to a charge of malicious destruction of property growing out of the theft of a pick-up truck stolen from Kalamazoo which was later found burned near Paw Paw.

Lucano Zavala, 24, Hartford, pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property, a citizens band radio, stolen Feb. 11 in Hartford.

George Brister Jr., 32, Detroit, pleaded innocent to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .32-caliber pistol, in a car near Lawrence Feb. 26.

Myron Salmave, 25, 305 Marion, Hartford, pleaded innocent to a charge of delivering marijuana to a police informant.

Terry Oxford, 22, South Haven, pleaded guilty to a charge of absconding on a personal recognition bond set in connection with a charge of larceny by conversion.

Shadrack Anderson, 20, South Haven, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a Covert township home last May 31 and guilty to a charge of larceny in a building in connection with the Aug. 9 theft of a television set from a Bangor township home.

Maria Chandler, 10th avenue, South Haven, pleaded guilty to two counts of possessing heroin in South Haven during December, 1974.

A 34-year-old man Monday pleaded guilty in Berrien Circuit court to a sex charge involving a 4-year-old girl.

Pleading guilty before Judge Chester J. Byrns to a charge of attempted second degree criminal sexual conduct was Connie Lee Sims, of 242 Forrest Park avenue, Watervliet. He was accused of taking indecent liberties and having sexual contact with the girl Feb. 14 at a residence in Benton township.

He was continued free on bond to await a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

Valuables amounting to more than $1,000, including $300 in cash, were among five thefts investigated Monday by Twin Cities area police.

Jerry Reiman, 1329 Lake boulevard, told St. Joseph police $300 in cash was stolen from his home.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A stereo unit, record player and two pair of men's pants, all valued at $294, from the apartment of Joanne Harris, 368 North Winans street.

—A stereo unit, valued at $100, and $10 in change, from the residence of Denise Hureskin, 391 Pipestone street.

Two citizens' band radios were reported stolen to state police of the Benton Harbor post and Benton township police.

Jack Schaub, 1649 Trebor road, St. Joseph township, told troopers his CB, valued at $180, was stolen from his pickup parked at Blossom bowling lanes, 2305 M-139, Benton township. Dennis Jennings, 141 Morrison, Coloma, told township police his $170 CB unit was taken from his car parked in the 500 block of South Crystal avenue.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police Monday someone used her name and address to borrow $500 from a Benton Harbor finance company.

Rosie Walls, 572 Niles avenue, said she called Community Finance company, 91 Wall street, to obtain a loan for her self and was told a $500 loan in her name had been granted March 10. Police said an investigation was continuing.

Welfare Fund Suggestions Will Be Asked In Van Buren

PAW PAW — Van Buren county residents will have a say in the planning of federally funded social services to be offered statewide beginning in October, according to Charles Higgins, director of the county social services department.

Higgins said the department will hold a public meeting March 24 for county residents who want to suggest priorities for the types of social services to be offered. The meeting will be at the Paw Paw high school cafeteria at 2:30 p.m.

"At stake in all this planning is how the state will allocate money available for a wide variety of social services ranging from day care for children to transportation for senior citizens," Higgins said.

The results of the meeting will be sent to the department's state office in Lansing and will be used in the preparation of a statewide plan for use of the federal funds, Higgins said.

State officials will meet in April to consider the results of the county meetings which are to be held throughout the state. The final plan will be put into effect Oct. 1, Higgins said.

He said Congress made the money available to states in 1975 when it approved Title XX, an amendment to the social security act. The Title XX amendment gives states flexibility in spending federal funds for human services, according to Higgins.

MERC Chief Quitting

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Robert Howlett said Monday he is resigning as chairman of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission to accept a federal appointment. The Grand Rapids attorney was appointed by President Ford on Monday to chair the Federal Services Impasse panel. The assignment puts him in charge of ironing out differences between the various federal departments and unions representing federal employees. Howlett said he has mailed his resignation, effective April 1, to Gov. William Milliken.

Danny Kaye On Fairy Tale Kick

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When he was in England to conduct the London Symphony Orchestra, a reporter asked Danny Kaye why didn't he make some more comedy films. His reply: "Because movies are not like they used to be, times are not like they used to be, and most of all, I am not like I used to be."

For the same reason he rejected the notion of a return to the London Palladium, where his postwar appearances made him something of a national hero.

"Sure, I could probably go back there and do the same routines and get a fine reaction," he said. "But it wouldn't be the same. There was something about that era that made it just right, and I would never be able to recapture what happened 20-25 years ago. It would be walking backwards."

"Likewise I don't want to go to Las Vegas. I've done that. Another television series? Those four years I did on CBS were among the most enjoyable of my life. But I wouldn't want to repeat. Nowadays I just want to do the things I want to do."

Right now he is on a fairy tale kick. He recently taped a new version of "Peter Pan" in London, playing Captain Hook to Mia Farrow's Peter, with a score by Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley. The special has appeared in England and will be seen here at Christmas on NBC.

Kaye has been taping "Pinocchio" in Hollywood, not the gospel according to Walt Disney but a new interpretation from the Collodi classic. Danny is Gepetto, Sandy Duncan is the boy-puppet with the expanding nose. Also in the cast: Flip Wilson, Clive Revill, Liz Torres. CBS will telecast the special March 27.

"Who knows, this might start a series of fairy tales for me," Kaye speculated.

Baseball plays an important part in Kaye's future plans. He is part owner of an American League expansion team which will start playing in Seattle's new Kingdome in the spring of 1977. It's a natural adjunct to his ownership in radio stations in Seattle, Spokane and Portland and an outgrowth of his long-time devotion to baseball.

"Think of it," he marveled, "a guy who spent his youth watching the Dodgers play at EBBETS Field now owns his own baseball club. It's Walter Mitty time."

Kaye's other interests: Conducting — "I've raised $4½ million for musicians' retirement funds, appearing with every major American symphony orchestra except Cleveland, and I think I'm scheduled there. And I can't read a note of music."

Flying — "I always

Cooking — "Recently I cooked for three of the greatest chefs of France. How did I dare? They may know everything about French cookery but they don't know Chinese. So I made them a Chinese dinner."

UNICEF — "I still devote a great deal of my time to the United Nations children's fund. I just learned that I've been accepted by the Guinness Book of Records for my Halloween trip last year. I flew my own jet to 65 cities in five days, traveling 17,000 miles and speaking at each stop."

Ex-Coloma Supervisor Says Successor Uses Cover-Up

COLOMA — Criticism of Coloma township's elderly housing commission by Coloma township Supervisor Ewald Eckblom has been termed a "cover-up" by former township Supervisor A.G. Blevins.

Eckblom, in this newspaper Saturday, was quoted as saying the commission has not accomplished any work and he is thinking about some or all new appointments to the five-member commission "to generate some activity."

Blevins, who resigned from the supervisor's post in 1975 after he had made the commission appointments, said "It is my opinion that the quotes and statements attributed to Eckblom are a good barometer of the type of politician that he is. His uncalled for attack on private citizens who accepted a new task for our community, a task that paid no compensation and would require hours of their individual times, is perhaps nothing more than a cover-up for his own failure."

Blevins said that since the commission, appointed in June, 1975, was a government sponsored project, it is logical that directives should come from the township hall.

He also questioned Eckblom's service as a township clerk, saying that during Eckblom's

Kennedy Favors Road Bill

LANSING — State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) has said in a newsletter he is in favor of a recently introduced bill which would change the formula for distributing state monies to various road systems.

Under the proposal, about $8 million in road improvement funds would be transferred from the state to the counties, Rep. Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the bill proposes the state's share of the Motor Vehicle Highway fund be cut from 44.5 to 43 per cent, the county share increased from 35.7 to 37.2 per cent, and the cities to remain the same at 19.8 per cent. The change would get the added funds into county hands.

Kennedy said he feels the bill is moving in the right direction toward redistributing the highway fund monies where it is needed most "...at the county level."

Funded programs to be explained include: alternative education, breakfast program, Chapter III program, evaluation, health services, high intensity learning system, TV reading, Indian education, pre-school, remedial reading, school age mothers' program, school-community relations, and staff development.

Interested citizens are urged to come at their convenience and stay as long as their schedules permit. Further information about the meeting may be obtained by phoning the

Welfare Fund Suggestions Will Be Asked In Van Buren

PAW PAW — Van Buren county residents will have a say in the planning of federally funded social services to be offered statewide beginning in October, according to Charles Higgins, director of the county social services department.

Higgins said the department will hold a public meeting March 24 for county residents who want to suggest priorities for the types of social services to be offered. The meeting will be at the Paw Paw high school cafeteria at 2:30 p.m.

"At stake in all this planning is how the state will allocate money available for a wide variety of social services ranging from day care for children to transportation for senior citizens," Higgins said.

The results of the meeting will be sent to the department's state office in Lansing and will be used in the preparation of the statewide plan for use of the federal funds, Higgins said.

State officials will meet in April to consider the results of the county meetings which are to be held throughout the state. The final plan will be put into effect Oct. 1, Higgins said.

He said Congress made the money available to states in 1975 when it approved Title XX, an amendment to the social security act. The Title XX amendment gives states flexibility in spending federal funds for human services, according to Higgins.

MERC Chief Quitting

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Robert Howlett said Monday he is resigning as chairman of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission to accept a federal appointment. The Grand Rapids attorney was appointed by President Ford on Monday to chair the Federal Services Impasse panel. The assignment puts him in charge of ironing out differences between the various federal departments and unions representing federal employees. Howlett said he has mailed his resignation, effective April 1, to Gov. William Milliken.

Danny Kaye On Fairy Tale Kick

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When he was in England to conduct the London Symphony Orchestra, a reporter asked Danny Kaye why didn't he make some more comedy films. His reply:

"Because movies are not like they used to be, times are not like they used to be, and most of all, I am not like I used to be."

For the same reason he rejected the notion of a return to the London Palladium, where his postwar appearances made him something of a national hero.

"Sure, I could probably go back there and do the same routines and get a fine reaction," he said. "But it wouldn't be the same. There was something about that era that made it just right, and I would never be able to recapture what happened 20-25 years ago. It would be walking backwards."

"Likewise I don't want to go to Las Vegas; I've done that. Another television series? Those four years I did on CBS were among the most enjoyable of my life. But I wouldn't want to repeat. Nowadays I just want to do the things I want to do."

Right now he is on a fairy tale kick. He recently taped a new version of "Peter Pan" in London, playing Captain Hook to Mia Farrow's Peter, with a score by Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley. The special has appeared in England and will be seen here at Christmas on NBC.

Kaye has been taping "Pinocchio" in Hollywood, not the gospel according to Walt Disney but a new interpretation from the Collodi classic. Danny is Gepetto, Sandy Duncan is the boy-puppet with the expanding nose. Also in the cast: Flip Wilson, Clive Revill, Liz Torres. CBS will telecast the special March 27.

"Who knows, this might start a series of fairy tales for me," Kaye speculated.

Baseball plays an important part in Kaye's future plans. He is part owner of an American League expansion team which will start playing in Seattle's new Kingdome in the spring of 1977. It's a natural adjunct to his ownership in radio stations in Seattle, Spokane and Portland and an outgrowth of his long-time devotion to baseball.

"Think of it," he marveled, "a guy who spent his youth watching the Dodgers play at EBBETS Field now owns his own baseball club. It's Walter Mitty time."

Kaye's other interests: Conducting — "I've raised $4½ million for musicians' retirement funds, appearing with every major American symphony orchestra except Cleveland, and I think I'm scheduled there. And I can't read a note of music."

Flying — "I always

Cooking — "Recently I cooked for three of the greatest chefs of France. How did I dare? They may know everything about French cookery but they don't know Chinese. So I made them a Chinese dinner."

UNICEF — "I still devote a great deal of my time to the United Nations children's fund. I just learned that I've been accepted by the Guinness Book of Records for my Halloween trip last year. I flew my own jet to 65 cities in five days, traveling 17,000 miles and speaking at each stop."

He also questioned Eckblom's service as a township clerk, saying that during Eckblom's service as clerk, state-required annual audits "have been delinquent."

Blevins also suggested that if Eckblom still serves as township health officer, along with his supervisor's post, he should resign as health officer to give him more time.

"Finally," Blevins said, "I would suppose that if those citizens who accepted my appointments to the housing committee do not resign, it is only because they are more sensitive to the community's needs than is the insensitive person who attacked them. I personally could not work with such an individual."
